BRITAIN VOTES ACCEPTANCE OF HUGE U. S. LOAN

Churchill Objects to 'Hard Terms'

LONDON, Dec. 13 (AP)—The house of commons voted tonight, 345 to 98, in favor of accepting conditions of a $4,400,000,000 loan from the United States, which Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin asserted left many Britons with the "discomfort" of just coming from a money lender's office.

Scarcely a half hour after voting for the loan, which must win approval in the United States congress before it is granted, commons voted, 314 to 50, for the Bretton Woods monetary stabilization agreement on its second reading. Three readings are necessary for final passage.

The voting, after two days of heated debate in which Labor government leaders argued that Britain must either accept the loan or go hungry, was climaxed by a last minute personal clash between Bevin and Opposition Leader Winston Churchill.

Churchill Won't Vote

Many Conservative members heeded Churchill's plea to abstain from voting, on the grounds that a heavy vote in opposition by the Conservatives would be especially injurious to British interests in America.

Referring to earlier Conservative assertions that the Labor government got the worst of the bargain in the loan negotiations, Bevin pounded with his fist and roared:

"Is that a claim that [the Conservatives] would have got better terms?"

Amid the uproar Churchill retorted, "I certainly am of the opinion we could have got better terms."

"That's a libel on the administration of the United States!" Bevin shot back.

Then with pointed directness the foreign secretary said:

"I don't know anybody who ever came away from a money lender's office and calculated the repayments who felt comfortable. This discomfort is added to when catastrophe falls upon you after you have been a money lender yourself for so long."

Questions Ability to Pay

Churchill, speaking just before the vote, said there was not only bitter disappointment, but also deep misgivings of consequences and of Britain's ability to meet obligations.

"I was astonished that the United States thinks it worth while to extract the equivalent of 1.62 per cent interest in the special circumstances in which we find ourselves," he said.

"It is a pity we should have allowed a commercial loan agreement to be linked up and mixed up with other transactions. I don't like a mixture. I resent with every other member in this house the indecent haste in which these most serious and complex matters are thrust before us and have to be settled."

He charged that the "hard terms" of the loan were one instalment of the disaster he predicted would occur to the country with the election of a labor-dominated government.

An outright cash loan of $3,750,000,000 and a $650,000,000 settlement for post-war lend-lease and war surpluses are provided for in the loan agreement. Both would be repaid over a 50 year period beginning in 1951.

Vote Truman Authority to Reorganize

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—President Truman got power to reorganize government agencies today, nearly seven months after he wrote congress the authority was needed "without delay."

The senate voted down, 49 to 23, emphatic demands by Senators Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and La Follette [P., Wis.] that the compromise legislation be sent back to the house. Then it sent the measure to the White House.

Vandenberg complained because the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation is not on a list of six agencies exempt from reorganization. La Follette sought exemption for the federal power commission, which regulates electric power rates and returns.

Best of "Give and Take"

Both had been placed on the touch-not list when the senate first approved the program.

Sen. Murdock [D., Utah] reminded the senate that President Truman had asked for no exemptions at all and that the compromise measure was the best that could be obtained in the "give and take" of a senate-house conference that adjusted differences between the bills of the two chambers.

Vandenberg pointed to the six agencies which could not be reorganized, but to which additions could be made. These are the interstate commerce, federal trade, and security and exchange commissions, and three agencies dealing with railway labor.

SEC "More Sacred"

"Under what thory is the SEC more sacred from tampering with than the FDIC?" demanded Vandenberg. "Nothing is more important in these moments of flux than that the American people sleep nights in respect to their banking system."

Murdock, who led the senate conferees, told Vandenberg it was a "little unfair to assume that the President will do anything to injure the agency protecting bank accounts."

Other senators pointed out that FDIC, along with the federal communications and tariff commissions and veterans administration, were placed in a class requiring separate reorganization plans, if any.

MARINES WILL REMAIN IN CHINA TILL NEXT APRIL

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 13—United States marines apparently are destined to remain in North China until late March or early April, by which time American military leaders expect that the twin problems of repatriating Jap soldiers and redistributing central government troops will be sufficiently advanced to permit the marines' withdrawal.

Military leaders explained the Chinese must be moved into the area as the Japs are repatriated if communist forces are to be kept from gaining control. The marines must stand by to see that the Japs lay down their arms peaceably.

"When the number of Japs has been whittled down until it is more or less inconsequential it is probable that the movement of marines homeward could begin," said a spokesman.

CIO ELECTRICAL WORKERS VOTE FOR BIG STRIKE

New York, Dec. 13 [Special]—A strike of the CIO Electrical Workers union was authorized today in nation-wide balloting. The national labor relations board, which conducted the voting, announced five of each six of an estimated 120,000 votes cast favored striking if necessary to gain a $2 a day pay raise.

The union is the CIO's third largest, and in taking strike action it joins the other two major CIO affiliates — the United Automobile Workers and the United Steel Workers. Plants of the three firms affected, General Electric, Westinghouse, and General Motors, are located in 75 industrial centers in 16 states.

Leaders of the union, which has rejected a General Motors offer of a 13½ cents an hour pay raise, said negotiations would continue after the vote and that no walkout would be called before Jan. 1.

G. M. PREDICTS STRIKE MAY GO 6 WEEKS MORE

Official Has Tussle with CIO Boss

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13 (AP)—A prediction that the General Motors corporation strike may last "at least six weeks longer" was made today by Harry W. Anderson, General Motors vice president, as the company sought two court injunctions to halt "illegal picketing" of its plants.

The suits, filed in Cleveland, O., and Chicago, drew an immediate reply from Walter Reuther, vice president of the CIO United Auto Workers, who declared, "They can issue all the injunctions in the world, but the judge isn't going in and make autos."

No New Offers

Anderson also disclosed that the company does not contemplate any increase in the 13½ cents an hour wage increase which it recently offered its 175,000 workers who struck for a general 30 per cent wage rate increase.

Anderson gave this version of an exchange with Reuther at today's negotiating session:

He said Reuther had told him the union "will get out the panzer troops" if the strike continues.

"I asked him, 'Is that the goon squad you mean?' and he answered, 'We are going to put on all the pressure you want,'" Anderson asserted.

Reuther Gives Warning

Reuther, at a press conference after today's session broke up, did not comment on Anderson's version of the exchange.

Reuther warned that since "the company made no additional offers, the union will tighten up, keep the strike effective, and hold the line."

"G. M. is horse trading, and is not engaged in proper collective bargaining," the union official charged. "G. M. is still in the dark ages as far as collective bargaining is concerned. They want to start at zero and work up, while the union works down from its 30 per cent demands.

"We refuse to have collective bargaining dragged down to that level and we will walk the picket lines just as long as is necessary to win."

70 Cities Involved

The court actions heightened the dispute between General Motors and the union on the question of picketing at G. M. plants in more than 70 cities thruout the nation.

The company, in a statement issued here announcing the filing of the suits, charged union pickets had "caused bodily harm" to nonstriking employes trying to enter the Electro-Motive plants at La Grange, Ill., on Wednesday.

Anderson, at the conclusion of another negotiating session between General Motors and the union today told newsmen that the company "has further injunction suits pending now," but declined to elaborate.

Anderson anounced he "hopes to be present" in Washington, D. C., on Dec. 19 when President Truman's newly-appointed fact-finding committee begins its study of the entire General Motors strike situation. He declared the company would give the board "any data that is pertinent," but parried reporters' queries as to whether G. M. would open its books to the Presidential board.

23 Days Old

The injunction petitions were the highlight of the day's activities as the parties sought an end to the 23 day old strike.

General Motors charged UAW-CIO local 45 in Cleveland with using "threats and personal abuse" to deter nonstriking office workers and supervisory personnel from entering the plant.

In a petition filed in Common Pleas court in Cleveland, the corporation said the police "did not serve in any substantial degree" to prevent the pickets from "such unlawful conduct." Thirty officers and members of local 45 were named defendants as well as the local itself.

The court scheduled a hearing for tomorrow on a temporary injunction.

THE DIFFERENCE IN THE RESULTS AT LEXINGTON AND PEARL HARBOR

Buck Private Polishes Off the Big Brass

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13—The dream of many an army GI was realized today by Pvt. George L. Mark, 37, of Cleveland, O., who publicly ripped into "bemedaled four-flushers" and "aristocratic phonies of the Pentagon building" as a score of generals and colonels listened in grim silence.

Pvt. George L. Mark

A former hair tonic salesman and father of three children, Pvt. Mark was summoned before the house military affairs committee to give one service man's view on compulsory military training. It developed that he was against it, but he also seized the opportunity to voice some of the most pungent observations on army brass hats heard in congress in many a day.

Inquires About Protection

Looking around at the audience of high ranking officers who have been testifying on the proposal, Pvt. Mark first cagily asked the committee if he would be protected from any possible official repercussions because of his testimony. He had been given an extension of leave in order to testify and is due to be back in the ranks in a few days.

Assured by Rep. Thomason [D., Tex.], that "this is still a free country and we will protect you," Pvt. Mark's eyes sparkled, he drew a deep breath, and began.

He was opposed to universal military training, he said, because he felt certain that voluntary enlistments would meet all needs.

"Pentagon Boy Scouts"

"But the volunteer plan may fail because the Pentagon [army headquarters building] Boy Scouts have been undermining voluntary enlistments," he asserted. "These aristocratic phonies are determined to keep their high rank by putting over a system of compulsory service.

"They have practically atomized members of congress from individual thinking — these bemedaled four-flushers who pass out decorations with one hand and doctor reports on demobilization with the other hand.

"They say that a voluntary enlistment program is expensive. Ha! Ain't that a joke? In the Pacific area, we are dumping so-called surplus jeeps into the ocean. In the Philippines we destroy food before the eyes of starving people. Since when has the army become economy-minded?"

There were mutterings and rumblings from the uniformed officers by this time, but committee members appeared to be enjoying the testimony as much as Pvt. Mark.

The entire universal training idea, he declared, is the product of "the army brass hats."

"They want a large army to retain the officers," Mark said. "These brass hats don't like work. If they did, they wouldn't be in the army. They're in the army as officers because they cannot make a fight in the competitive game."

His own observation, he testified, was that men in the ranks are opposed to compulsory peace time training.

Pvt. Mark said later that he did not expect to obtain rapid promotion in the army after his return to duty. Anyhow, he expects to be discharged soon at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Pvt. Mark was invited to appear before the committee by Chairman May [D., Ky.] after he had written a letter to May requesting that the service man's viewpoint on military training be presented.

'HERMANN' DEFIES ENGINEERS; BOMB WON'T GIVE UP FUSE

LONDON, Dec. 13 [Reuters]—"Satan," otherwise known as "Hermann," for Hermann Goering, former German air force chief, suburban Croydon's unexploded 1941 4,000 pound bomb, today resisted engineers' efforts to render it harmless.

On the 197th day of mining and tunneling during which two shafts were sunk and pumps were run constantly, a disposal crew attempted to draw its fuse. Capt. G. F. Horsfall and Lt. G. A. Frake descended one of the 40 foot shafts to where "Hermann" lies imbedded in clay and the brackish water of Croydon's subterranean river. After "Hermann's" fuse was treated for two hours the engineers adjusted the extractor which should have removed the fuse with a secret remote control apparatus. After a few turns of a screw something went wrong. The engineers found about a third of the fuse broken off with the rest still inside "Hermann."

"The filling of the bomb [3,000 pounds of TNT] must have shifted slightly," Horsfall explained. "All we can do is bring up fresh apparatus to remove the filling altogether."

Soldier Leads Dog's Life and Makes It Pay

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

Pvt. Larry Downey led a dog's life in the army. Most GI's think they did, but he has the evidence in his kennels at Wagner and Glenview rds.—three famous German boxer dogs, one of which is the world's champion and whose picture is on every boxer pedigree but his own.

Downey managed to cart his "souvenirs" around with him while he took part in five major campaigns and won five bronze stars.

A professional dog fancier, Downey had a business of his own when he entered the army. He donned khaki but his mind was still on canines. Altho he was attached to the ordnance, he found himself treating sick dogs in army service. Inevitably he was nicknamed Dogs.

Realizes His Ambition

His ambition was to own Karlo von der Wolfsschlucht, the most famous boxer in the world, and for which dog breeders in America had offered fabulous prices before the war. Downey managed to buy Karlo and two other young boxers—Zach von Dom and Sonne von Dom from the famous Von Dom kennels. Then his troubles began.

All over Germany and France, he carted his prize pets. In addition to his barracks bag he had to carry a case and a half of dog food. Downey smuggled his boxers in box cars and in jeeps, but it was often touch and go. Finally Stars and Stripes appealed to Gen. Eisenhower to let "Dogs" keep his dogs.

Ship Sails Without Him

Came the great day when his unit landed in Marseilles to ship home. The unit sailed . . . without Downey and needless to say without his boxers. The war shipping administration had not yet made arrangements for GIs to take home pets. Downey was transferred to Le Havre. He had only his boxers to console him.

Then before the army was aware of it, the U. S. S. James Pepper had three stowaways and Downey was on his way home.

"How I got them on board is a military secret," the now very fancy dog fancier said yesterday and grinned. "I can tell you this much—getting the dogs home was tougher than a major battle. In fact I fought two wars, World War II. and the war of the canines."

Fear Indianan Died in Macon Under Alias

Macon, Ga., Dec. 13 [Special]—A nation-wide search for women acquaintances of Alfred L. Cline centered here tonight when it was learned that another elderly woman believed to have been wooed by the suave ex-convict had become ill and died in a Macon hotel.

The woman is the fourth whose death is being investigated in the belief they died after associating with Cline and, in most cases, assigning their property to him.

Authorities expressed the belief that the woman who died here on Feb. 21, 1944, and was identified as Mrs. Alma Willa Carter of San Francisco, actually was Mrs. Alice W. Carpenter of Bloomington, Ind., whose whereabouts have not been known since she left with Cline on an automobile trip shortly before the time of that death.

Other Developments

The new developments here followed quickly these other phases of the ever widening investigation elsewhere:

1. District Atty. Edmund Brown in San Francisco termed Cline, now held there, "a shrewd and merciless killer, a modern Bluebeard" who "put his knowledge of poison and the law to good use."

2. At Dallas, Tex., persons viewed a photograph of Mrs. Carpenter and indicated a belief she was not the woman who died there Oct. 17, 1944, under that name. It is believed that the woman who died in Dallas was the former Mrs. Eva Delora Krebs, wealthy Chicago widow who married Cline in May, 1944.

Calls "Picture Complete"

The Macon investigation was launched on a request from Prosecutor Brown of San Francisco that a thoro inquiry be conducted into the death and cremation of the supposed Mrs. Carter.

"This completes the picture," Brown said.

The prosecutor said he was proceeding in the belief that the woman who died here actually was Mrs. Carpenter. He noted that the address given here for Mrs. Carter—385 Geary st., San Francisco—is the address of a club and bar in the California city.

Cremation Ordered

The Hart mortuary here disclosed that it has the ashes of "Mrs. Carter" who died in the Lanier hotel here. An attendant said the cremation was ordered by F. A. Klein of St. Petersburg, Fla., who identified himself as a nephew of Mrs. Carter.

A death certificate in the case had been signed by Dr. L. L. Rawls, who attributed death to acute endocarditis.

Records of the Lanier hotel showed that an F. A. Klein of St. Petersburg, Fla., was registered there from Feb. 13 to 17, 1944. A more thoro check of the records is being made to learn whether he was there at the time of the woman's death on Feb. 21 of that year.

GRAVE FOUND; ROGERS PARK CASE SOLVED

Ride Described by Bookie Bandit

The gunman who last Sept. 2 shot and killed Detectives George H. Hellstern and Charles A. Brady at Clark st. and Lunt av. later was executed by members of his own gang because they feared he would "squeal" and was buried in a corn field grave west of the city limits.

The body of the slain man, Cecil [Red] Smith, an ex-convict, was dug out of a snowy grave yesterday on the farm of Al Moeller near Fairview Heights, Leyden township, after one of the gang had made a detailed confession.

Believed He Was "Too Hot"

The confession related the shooting of the policeman and the coolly planned assassination of Smith, whom the gang considered "too hot" and a potential informer. Chief of Detectives Walter G. Storms described the band as one of the "hardest mobs" he has encountered during his police work.

Double crossing of their own members was a specialty, he said. Renoro Lolli, 39, talked against the others almost as soon as he was seized last week.

Then, yesterday, Lawrence [Tiny] Mazzanars, 34, of 3402 Lyndale st., who was shot and captured in an exchange of shots with police Friday night near his home, turned on Lolli and the others. He pointed out Smith's grave.

Using picks and shovels to break thru frozen ground, police removed Smith's body, with a bullet hole in the head, from the grave, dug deep enough to keep it from being brought to light by a passing ploughshare.

One of Gang Killed

The gang also included Christ Perres, 27, of Joliet, killed when Mazzanars was wounded; James J. Kelly and Richard Todd, who also are in custody. They specialized in handbook and pay roll robberies.

Others of the band still being sought include Virgil and Neal [Monk] Summers, brothers, of Mount Vernon, Jefferson county, and Grover Dullard, a reputed handbook operator and the only one of the gang who is not an ex-convict.

In a search of Mazzanars' home and a garage rented by him nearby, Detectives Emil Smicklas, John Alcock, and Nicholas Juric of the robbery detail, found a dismantled .38 caliber revolver wrapped in a cloth salt bag and concealed on a basement rafter.

Confronted with Revolver

Sgt. John Hanrahan confronted Mazzanars with the revolver, the same caliber used by the dirty faced gunman wearing a rubber glove on his left hand who shot and killed Detectives Hellstern and Brady.

Mazzanars insisted at first that he had bought the dismantled weapon for its parts, but broke when told his statements would be examined under the lie test.

"I'll tell everything and turn state's evidence," he suddenly said.

He related that he and Smith planned to rob a drug store at Lunt av. and Clark st. the night of Sept. 2, a Sunday.

"We cased the place on Saturday night," Mazzanars said. "The next night we drove out in my car and parked in Lunt av. We intended to seize the manager when he came out the Clark st. door and take him back in.

"I stood on the northeast corner, as tho waiting for a street car. Smith was on the southeast corner. The two policemen were on the northeast corner about 11:10 p. m.

Hears Three or Four Shots

"I started walking west on Lunt. Then I heard three or four shots. I turned around and saw one of the coppers staggering into the street and shooting at Smith. The other copper was lying on the sidewalk near where Smith had been standing."

Mazzanars said he entered his car and drove away as a crowd was collecting. He visited several drinking places, looking for Smith, but didn't find him until he received a telephone call from him the next day.

Smith's weapon was hidden in a back yard and a week later he took it to a garage where Mazzanars was employed. The two of them dismantled it, taking off the barrel to thwart ballistics tests, and removing other parts.

Drop Some Parts in River

A week later Smith and Mazzanars drove to the North av. bridge, where Smith dropped the barrel and other parts into the river. Mazzanars put the rest of the weapon in his basement as spare parts for repairs, he said.

Using a special magnet developed by Policeman Joseph Price in the police laboratories, policemen commanded by Chief Storms and Deputy Chief John Warren dragged the river for two hours last night but were unable to find the parts.

Several hundred persons looked on as the search was made with the aid of a fire department flood light truck and boats. The hunt will be resumed today.

It was after Kelly, one of the band, had said Smith was a "stool pigeon" that the gang decided to execute him, Mazzanars said.

Worries Over Squealing

"Kelly knew Smith in the penitentiary and said he used to squeal to the warden," Mazzanars related. "I began to worry because I knew if Smith were arrested he would tell enough about me to put me in the hot seat.

"I talked it over with Kelly and Lolli," he said. "Kelly said, 'Why don't you push [kill] the ——.' Then Lolli said, 'I'll do it.'"

Smith's murder was planned carefully. To carry it out, Mazzanars, Lolli, and Kelly faked plans for a robbery the night of Nov. 29. Smith was to go along.

Pick and Shovel in Car

The three gunmen already had selected Smith's grave site and had placed a pick and a shovel in the car before they picked up Smith about 10 p. m. that night.

"I was driving," Mazzanars said. "Smith was sitting next to me. Lolli sat in the rear seat of the sedan, just in back of Smith. Kelly sat next to Lolli.

"We went west in Irving Park rd. until we came to a little side road about 20 blocks west of the city limits. We turned north in this road toward Lawrence av. Then Lolli said to Smith:

"You're a rat and a stool pigeon and we're going to let you have it."

Two Shots Are Fired

Lolli then fired two shots, Mazzanars said. One struck the back of Smith's head and the other went into the rear of the seat.

They continued driving to about 4700 north, then turned west into another side road. They went about one block to a farm lane, turned south, and pulled a short distance off the lane into a corn field.

While Smith's body remained in the car, the other men dug his grave. They carried his body, threw it in on the left side, and covered it over.

Auto Gets Stuck in Mud

When they tried to leave, Mazzanars said, they found their car stuck in the mud. They went several miles by bus to a garage, where they rented a tow truck. They succeeded in getting their own car back on the road without attracting attention.

Mazzanars had no difficulty leading the policemen to the scene of the grave despite the snow which covered the ground yesterday. He sat in a squad car handcuffed to detectives while the grave was being opened and later peered into it without apparent feeling when the body had been uncovered.

Bullet Wound Behind Ear

Examination of Smith's body at the county morgue disclosed a bullet wound behind his left ear. A .32 caliber bullet was removed from his head for ballistic comparison with bullets to be fired from a .32 caliber automatic pistol which was a part of the gang's arsenal found by police in Lolli's room at 6311 Eggleston av.

Lolli, who is being held in the county jail pending grand jury action, kept repeating, "I don't know anything about it," when told about Mazzanars' confession and the finding of Smith's body.

He asserted he had never seen or heard of Smith.

Lolli admitted he and Mazzanars had known each other in prison and that they had taken part together in a recent handbook robbery in the loop.

Smith, who apparently had no family, lived in a room at 150 Eugenie st. Detectives learned that an unidentified stranger had paid the room rent for Smith during his absence of the last two weeks. The man called yesterday morning and removed Smith's belongings.

Three Detectives Praised

Chief Storms paid high tribute to Detectives Smicklas, Alcock, and Juric for their work in breaking the case. He disclosed that they had made a "fake" arrest of Dullard, Virgil Summers, and Kelly on Nov. 13 to show that police pressure was closing in. The men were later released.

It was believed that this action had thrown the gang into panic and resulted in plans to execute Smith as the one most likely to break if questioned.

Smith, who had served five prison sentences since 1916, often used charcoal to darken his complexion and wore a glove on his left hand, as tho it were deformed, as an aid in getting a "pass" if stopped by police for questioning.

"Died Heroes' Deaths"

Capt. Michael Ahern of the Rogers Park station said yesterday's developments cleared up any doubt that Detectives Hellstern and Brady died heroes' deaths in the performance of duty.

"This kills all rumors regarding activities of the policemen when they were slain," he said. "I have always believed they were killed by an ex-convict or parolee who was planning a robbery."

STUDENT NURSE ACCUSES SAILOR AT RAPE TRIAL

A student nurse, 20, yesterday pointed out Ernest H. Pugh Jr., 18, a sailor of 1610 N. Mason av., as the man who viciously beat her, stripped off her clothing, and then raped her last Aug. 10 on the grounds of the Holy Child convent in Waukegan.

Her identification was made before a jury of seven men and five women in the Lake county Circuit court of Judge Ralph J. Dady in Waukegan, where Pugh is on trial. Tearfully and in a low voice, the young nurse told how Pugh choked her as she was waiting on the street corner for a bus after visiting her mother at the Victory Memorial hospital.

Strikes Her on Jaw

"I screamed," she testified, "but I couldn't scream loud because he was choking me. He had both arms around my neck."

The witness said that after Pugh had raped her he grabbed her and struck her on the jaw.

"I remember asking him to please let me go," she continued, "and he said, 'O, yeah, you'll run for the coppers.' Then he threw me to the ground."

She said she finally managed to elude Pugh and run across the street to the Victory hospital.

Collapses in Tears

Earlier in the trial the young woman collapsed in tears as a police witness exhibited her ripped and bloody clothing, which was found on the grounds of the convent.

Pugh indicated he would plead he was insane at the time of the rape. He was arrested after he tried to rape an Oak Park widow last Oct. 22. He was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training center.

FOUR INJURED AS STREET CAR AND BUS CRASH

Four persons were injured and several others were shaken last night when a Chicago motor bus and an Ogden av. street car collided at Ogden av. and Jackson blvd. Those treated in hospitals and then sent home were Mrs. Laura Brainard, 45, of 5320 Adams st.; Mrs. Bernice Orrico, 24, of 944 Montrose av.; Mrs. Anita Angello, 58, of 329 S. Honore st., all on the bus, and George Swain, 7, of 2214 Ogden av., a street car passenger.

Two women were injured slightly and about 50 other passengers were shaken yesterday when a Chicago motor bus skidded and crashed into a light pole at Addison st. and Lincoln av. The driver was Theodore Didier of 4113 N. Claremont av.

CERTIFICATES TO BE GIVEN 38 STUDENT NURSES

Thirty-eight student nurses who have completed neuropsychiatric nursing courses will receive certificates today at a ceremony to be held in conjunction with the annual Christmas party at the Illinois neuropsychiatric institute, 912 S. Wood st.

The nurses include affiliating students and senior cadet students from Chicago, Waukegan, Oak Park, and Rockford hospitals. Dr. David Slight, University of Chicago professor of psychiatry, will be the guest speaker. Presentation will be made by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, state alienist.

The graduation party will join the hospital staff in a buffet turkey luncheon and a program of Christmas festivities.

FIVE LANDLORDS KICK OUT EX-GI AND HIS PET DOG

Fred Kahn, discharged army master sergeant who brought his Austrian police dog, Asko, home from Europe with him, yesterday contemplated the sale of his pet after he lived in five different apartments in the last 16 days and was ousted from all because of his dog.

The ex-sergeant, who gives all his commands to Asko in German, said he had searched for a three-room unfurnished apartment but all the landlords refused to take his dog. "I guess the only thing to do is to sell him, even tho it breaks my heart," he declared.

Kahn brought the 2 year old dog 6,000 miles to Chicago from Innsbruck, Austria, where he bought him last July for 800 marks [$80]. At present he is keeping the dog in the one room apartment of his mother, Mrs. Melitta Kahn, at 5028 Woodlawn av., while he and his wife live in a one room apartment at 5130 Dorchester av., where dogs are prohibited.

CONVICT, AN EX-GI, GAINS FREEDOM ON HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

George Chamberlain, 27, of Durand, Winnebago county, a convict in Stateville penitentiary, was given his freedom yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus by Circuit Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet.

Chamberlain received a two year sentence for auto larceny in May, 1942, in Winnebago Circuit court at Rockford, but was placed on probation. In October of that year he was drafted, and the following April was given a medical discharge in Los Angeles, Cal. In March, 1944, he was given a 10 months' jail sentence in Los Angeles on a charge of assault. Last March Winnebago county authorities returned him to Rockford, where his probation was revoked and he was committed to Stateville.

In his petition for a habeas writ, Chamberlain argued that his two year probationary period had expired in 1944 and that the Rockford court could not therefore revoke the probation. He was upheld by Judge Bartley.

Cartage Thefts Rise Sharply During Year

Hijacking and cartage thefts increased to 680 during the first 11 months of the year, compared with 423 for 1944, Lt. Orin Ross, head of the police cartage detail, reported yesterday. Ross said arrests for the year would be 20 per cent more than those last year and that convictions would increase 15 per cent.

4 MONTHS' TERM FOR DEMOCRAT SOCIETY LEADER

Mineola, L. I., Dec. 13 [Special]—Four months in jail and a $500 fine was the sentence today imposed upon Mrs. Fanny P. Dudgeon, 46, a Democratic state committeewoman, president of the Ladies' Aid society of the Locust Valley Dutch Reformed church, director of the Girl Scout council, and leader in war bond drives. She was sentenced because she also is a bookmaker.

Mrs. Dudgeon, who operated her betting business from her home on fashionable Buckram rd., Locust Valley, was convicted Nov. 20 after a nine day trial.

She listened calmly while Judge Henry J. A. Collins pronounced sentence, but after she was removed to county jail at Riverhead to begin serving her term she issued this statement: "I believe the district attorney and his satellites have used their high office to vent their personal vengeance."

QUIZ ROOMMATE FOR CLEWS ON EX-WAVE KILLING

Detectives Probe Phoned Warning to Neighbor

Miss Viola Butler, 32, roommate of Miss Frances Brown, ex-WAVE who was fatally shot and stabbed by a wall writing maniac in her room in the Pine Crest hotel at 3941 Pine Grove av. early last Monday, was quizzed yesterday by state's attorney's aids at the detective bureau.

The purpose, Assistant State's Attorneys Alex Napoli and John Philip Reed said, was to learn as much as possible of the background of the slain girl in hopes of uncovering clews as to who murdered her and why. Half a dozen other women friends also are to be questioned.

Accounts for Own Moves

Miss Butler repeated her previous story, that Miss Brown, 33, a clerk, had numerous friends but no enemies, and lived a quiet, normal life. Miss Butler, who was not home the morning of the murder, was asked about her own movements Sunday night.

She said she went to dinner and a movie in the loop with Martin Mattison, 39, of Rice Lake, Wis., and stayed that night at the home of a friend, Miss Vivian Smith, 3316 Pine Grove av. Miss Smith's apartment was nearer and Miss Butler feared to travel farther at night because of robbers.

Learn of Sailor Friend

Among Miss Brown's friends, police learned, was John Fletcher Hathaway, 38, a naval chief petty officer at San Pedro, Cal. In an interview last night he disclaimed any romantic association with the ex-WAVE, saying they were only good friends. He last saw her in March, he said. Hathaway's wife, Mildred, lives at 4323 W. 21st pl. They are suing each other for divorce.

A new touch was added to the murder inquiry when an unidentified man early yesterday telephoned C. H. Dole, occupant of room 511, directly under Miss Brown's in the Pine Crest hotel, and said, "I'm the lipstick killer. You'll get it next if you don't keep your mouth shut." Dole reported the threat to police, who said it probably was the work of a crank. They are investigating, however.

Most Suspects Are Cleared

The lipstick reference was to the fact that Miss Brown's slayer wrote a message on the wall of her room with her lipstick, warning that he might strike again unless apprehended.

Meanwhile, suspects were being arrested, questioned, and generally cleared. George Catraboni, 648 Grace st., a butcher, was technically detained. Albert F. Tripp, 24, an itinerant, was held for questioning when detectives discovered blood stains on his trousers. He told them he had cut his finger. Tripp admitted he had worked as a wall cleaner Monday in a flat near Miss Brown's hotel.

HUTCHINS RAPS ADMINISTRATION FOR 'HYPOCRISY'

Blames Labor, G.O.P. for Failings

Pointing to the common tendency to confuse special interests with common good, Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, last night condemned the administration for hypocrisy and said it is rapidly becoming "a government of small-time politicians, whose only fixed purpose is to stay in office." He spoke to a meeting of the National Citizens Political Action committee in the Stevens hotel.

It is the business of independent groups of citizens to make good demands for a government of common sense and common honesty, the speaker said. He gave labor and the Republican party a share of the blame for failure to attain these ends.

Sees Only Verbal Support

Administration professions for fair employment practices, social security, unemployment benefits, medical care and full employment, Hutchins said, have received nothing but verbal support. He termed them professions put forward "only because there are some liberal votes worth catching."

The Republicans do not even bother to talk liberal, Hutchins continued, but added that "the country would rather take its reaction from Taft and the National Association of Manufacturers than from minor midgets like Bilbo, Rankin, and Hannegan."

"It is the labor unions, and not the administration," he continued, "who want to limit the prosperity of Switzerland and this country by limiting the importation of Swiss watches. It was a labor leader, and not Mr. Truman, who, in opposing the repeal of the Chinese exclusion act, answered the argument that China was our ally by saying, 'A Chinaman is still a Chinaman.'"

Condemns A-Bomb Use

He condemned the administration for use of the atomic bomb; for abandoning rationing before it was assured "that our fellow men had something to eat." He listed as other failures the systematic starvation of the people of Germany, the attempt to enforce ex post facto law in Nuernberg, and the destruction of Japanese cyclotrons.

The speaker called attention to unemployment, and asked if "veterans are to live in pup tents in public parks because of the selfishness of capital and labor and the indifference of government."

"We can demand," he concluded, "that our government face the facts of life. We can demand that it realize that the fate of civilization depends upon our ability to organize, before we are destroyed by atomic bombs, a world state, a world government, and a world community. We can demand that our government take some visible steps toward achieving a world government, a world state, and a world community. We can demand that the government dedicate itself to peace, prosperity, and justice."

Among others Secretary of the Interior Ickes also spoke.

G.M. SEEKS RESTRAINT ON UAW-CIO; CHARGES PICKET TERRORISM

Striking members of local 719 of the CIO United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers union were charged with violence and terroristic tactics yesterday in an injunction suit filed in Superior court by the Electro-Motive division of General Motors.

The suit asks that the union be enjoined from committing violence, and also that the extent of mass picketing be defined. The suit, filed by Atty. Thomas C. Strachan Jr. of Pope & Ballard, recites that the strikers, 7,500 in number, are attempting to keep 2,000 white collar workers and officials out of the company plant in McCook.

The injunction plea will be heard today before Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

RUSSIANS AGREE TO LET BRITISH SEE REICH ZONE

BERLIN, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Russians have agreed to admit British correspondents into the soviet occupation zone in Germany, a British official said today.

Marshal Zhukov, commander of Russian occupation forces in Germany, also has invited any groups of parliament members who come to Germany to inspect the British zone to visit the Russian zone.

Four American correspondents who have been invited to visit the soviet zone presented to the Russians today an itinerary for a 10 day tour starting next Monday.

SLAIN EX-WAVE A FRIEND TO ALL, ROOMMATE SAYS

BY GLADYS PRIDDY

There were no jealousies complicating the life of Frances Brown, 33, slain ex-WAVE, her roommate, Miss Viola Butler, said last night.

Speaking of the young woman who was murdered early Monday in the apartment the two shared on the sixth floor of the Pine Crest hotel, Miss Butler said: "You just couldn't be jealous of Frances. She never gave any one reason to be."

Miss Brown, a Richmond, Ind., girl who came to Chicago seeking a business career, was shy to the point of disliking to meet new people, Miss Butler said. But she had a gift for maintaining the friendships she made, always doing more than her share in any enterprise.

Maintained a Hope Chest

Miss Brown hoped to marry and have a home of her own. Things she bought for the apartment were purchased with the idea that they one day would go into her own home, Miss Butler said. There was a hope chest, too. But there was no definite romance known to her friends.

Since her death, Miss Brown has been variously reported as affianced or interested in John Fletcher Hathaway, 38, a navy chief boatswain's mate of San Pedro, Cal.

Miss Brown and the sailor "went steady" for about a year, her friend said, but there was no talk of marriage. He was then a salesman for the Commonwealth Edison company. Later he went into the navy and she joined the WAVES. They met again in Washington, D. C. But Hathaway had married in the meantime. He and his wife, Mildred, 4323 W. 21st pl., have divorce suits pending.

Entered WAVES in 1943

Brought up in Richmond, Frances finished high school there in 1930, took a business course, and worked there before coming to Chicago. Here she took another business course. In 1943, she enlisted in the WAVES and in May, 1944, was transferred to Great Lakes.

Honorably discharged in September, she returned to the employ of the A. B. Dick Co., Miss Butler said.

Over the years, Miss Brown and Miss Butler attended services regularly at Peoples church. Frances was not much on going out, however, preferring home and domesticity. She knitted and did fancy work. She was self-effacing, hard working, cooperative. She knew how to get on with people—yet some one killed her.

PROBE ANOTHER WOMAN'S DEATH IN CLINE CASE

Suspect Indianan Died in Macon Under Alias

forgery, Prosecutor Brown directed investigations into the deaths and cremations of elderly women at Jacksonville, Fla., and Portland, Ore., as well as those at Dallas and Macon.

The other deaths were those of a woman identified as Mrs. Elizabeth Hanna Klein, but believed to be Mrs. Elizabeth H. Lewis, at Jacksonville, Fla., in October, 1943, and a woman identified as Mrs. Krebs Cline, the Chicago widow, but believed to be Mrs. Isabelle Van Natta, at Portland, Ore., on Nov. 29, 1945.

As authorities struggled to untangle the apparently intentional mixup in the names of the women who died, they expressed the belief that the Chicago woman had died at Dallas under the name of Mrs. Carpenter.

Fell Name Behind

Commenting on this confused interchanging of names of Cline's dead associates, Prosecutor Brown said:

"For some reason which we do not know yet he fell one name behind in giving identities of the women he killed. So he had to kill another and give that body the name of his previous victim."

Brown pointed out that there is a similar patern in all the deaths: 1. All four women died shortly after being registered in hotels. 2. They were ill when they entered the hotels. 3. The arrangements for their cremations were made by a man who identified himself as Cline or Klein, as their husband, relative, or business agent.

Because of the growing ramifications of the sensational case, Brown said, an effort is being made to coordinate information obtained thus far. "We are making San Francisco headquarters for all investigation in the country on this man," he asserted.

Call Police Parley

A conference of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland, Ore., popice will be held at San Francisco tomorow, Brown said, to analyze present evidence and decide on the next step.

The district attorney also disclosed that local police have requested authorities in the capital cities of Illinois, Florida, Texas, Oregon, and California to provide them with complete records of Cline's multiple marriages. Chicago police, he said, have been asked to furnish a most detailed description of the former Mrs. Krebs.

Police Capt. John Engler of San Francisco said that when this information is obtained all other states in the Union will be asked to supply any records they may have concerning Cline's activities.

Developments at Dallas followed the arrival there of a photograph of the real Mrs. Carpenter. It was obtained from Mrs. Mabel Chase of Tampa, Fla., with whom Mrs. Carpenter had lived for three years.

Detective Chief Will Fritz took the photograph to Dr. W. E. Haley, Dallas physician who attended the woman who died there and issued a death certificate for heart disease.

Dr. Haley said the woman he attended and who was represented to him as Mrs. Carpenter "was younger than the woman in this picture."

The photograph was then shown to J. W. Christian, employe of the undertaking establishment where the body of the supposed Mrs. Carpenter was taken. He said, "The woman we had was prettier."

Dallas police began a search of drug stores to learn whether poison had been purchased there by a man of Cline's description about the time of the death there.

Meantime, San Francisco police received from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company a packet of canceled checks of annuity payments of $500 a month that had been paid to the former Mrs. Krebs.

A letter accompanying the checks said the last check indorsed with the "real signature" of Mrs. Krebs was drawn on Sept. 19, 1944. Also in the package were 13 other checks which had been cashed with the name of Mrs. Krebs signed on the back. Handwriting experts were studying the checks to learn whether the 13 signatures were forgeries.

Fortune Inventoried

In Columbus, O., attorneys filed in Common Pleas court an inventoried list of the former Mrs. Krebs' missing fortune of $191,300 found yesterday in bank deposit boxes under Cline's name. The list included the purported wills of Cline and the Chicago widow, documents drawn up here on June 12, 1944, little more than a month after they were married.

Sister of Milwaukeean

In Milwaukee, Wis., Mrs. Lydia Ordahl said that another of Cline's missing associates, Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt Lewis, was her sister. Mrs. Lewis, formerly of Santa Ana, Cal., disappeared after leaving with Cline on an automobile trip following their meeting in 1943. Her Santa Ana relatives charge he appropriated her propertly in Oakland and Richmond, Cal.

Mrs. Ordahl said Mrs. Lewis wrote her in September, 1943, that she had married but didn't give the name of her husband. The letter was postmarked from Chicago on Sept. 18 and was on stationery of the Morrison hotel.

In this letter, which was in Mrs. Lewis' handwriting, altho the envelope address was not, she told her Milwaukee sister, the latter reported, that she had not been feeling well, but was improving and expected soon to return to the west coast with her husband.

HUNT ASSETS IN CHICAGO

More of the missing fortune of Mrs. Delora Krebs Cline, 73, former Chicago widow, will be sought today in the Anderson Brothers warehouse, 3141 Sheffield av., under an order from Probate Judge John F. O'Connell giving permission to open packages stored there in the name of Alfred Leonard Cline, whom she married here in May, 1944.

Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the public administrator's office, said a large part of Mrs. Cline's wealth still is unaccounted for, including 60 shares of Peoples Gas Light & Coke company stock, 10 of Lake Shore National Bank, 97 of Midwest Corporation, 15 of Central Southwest Utilities, and some of Cities Service.

Of the 4,664 shares of Commonwealth Edison stock turned up in Columbus, O., Wednesday, Rubens said Mrs. Cline was the owner of 4,164 when her late husband, Charles E. Krebs, Chicago manufacturer, died in 1938, and only 500 came to her from his estate, leaving the greater part of that inheritance still to be traced.

Began Storing After Bridal

Rubens said Cline began storing property in the Anderson Brothers warehouse four or five days after he and Mrs. Krebs were married. The first lot, sent from the Cline apartment at 3000 Sheridan rd., consisted principally of furniture and oriental rugs.

Other lots were identified by Rubens as a small package stored in August, 1944; a carton sent from Portland, Ore., in October, 1944, and a box containing one seal coat and one silver fox coat which arrived by express supposedly from Dallas, Tex., on Dec. 8, 1944.

Rubens said the carton was returned to Portland in October, 1944, on a written request by Cline which said it contained "my own clothes." Rubens added that the wording of the request was puzzling because the carton and other packages were stored in Cline's name and his right to withdraw them had not been questioned.

Hunt Clews to Property

The investigator said that what is left in the warehouse is believed to be Mrs. Cline's property and is valued at $3,500 to $4,000. However, he added, he believes clews to other property of Mrs. Cline's may be found, as well as other assets.

While proof of Mrs. Cline's death is still lacking, Rubens said the public administrator's office will seek to have all her assets, wherever found, assembled in Chicago. Cook county courts have jurisdiction over her estate, he explained, because Mrs. Cline never changed her legal residence from Chicago.

M'ARTHUR MUST GIVE IN OR GO, COMMONS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 13—L. J. Callaghan, Laborite, said in the house of commons tonight that Gen. MacArthur must go if he attempts to block the united nations effort to establish an allied control commission for Japan.

He said he had been told that Gen. MacArthur would resign if a control commission is appointed. The Laborite said the task of running Japan was not one for a soldier, however brilliant, and that if "MacArthur would not subordinate his dignity, then, with great regret, he must go." Callaghan accused America of "economic aggression" in the far east.

Russia Wants to Help

New York, Dec. 13—The Moscow radio, on the eve of the foreign ministers' conference in Russia, tonight restated the soviet view that the occupation of Japan should be a joint allied affair, BBC reported. A broadcast said Russia's help was needed in reeducating the Japanese people so that they might eventually reenter the family of nations.

REPORT TUGWELL LEAVING INDIES FOR U. OF C. POST

Gov. Rexford G. Tugwell of Puerto Rico, one of the original New Deal brain trusters, is in Washington, D. C., to submit his resignation so he may come to the University of Chicago to head a department on colonial government, it was learned last night.

His presence in Washington was disclosed by a Chicago Tribune Press Service dispatch from San Juan.

President Ernest C. Colwell of the University of Chicago declined to comment on Tugwell's reported plans to become a professor on the Midway. The San Juan dispatch said Tugwell, after he completes his arrangements with the university, would return to Puerto Rico until his successor is appointed.

CLINE'S CAREER IS ONE OF MONEY AND MARRIAGE

Wedded Possibly Six; Inherited $300,000

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13 [Special]—Evidence is piling up here that Alfred Leonard Cline, 56, who was jailed here last week on a charge of suspicion of forgery, in a fantastic 15 year career has married possibly as many as six women and profited by the deaths of most of them.

Women whom he married or promised to marry left him well over $300,000 and jewelry, currency, and unregistered securities he obtained may have boosted his takings to over $500,000, police here believe.

The deaths of seven persons he knew and the disappearance of another have followed his association with them. He has served two prison terms, one of nine years in Folsom penitentiary.

Cline Declines to Talk

"I won't answer any questions. I'll talk when the time comes," Cline shouted from his cell in San Francisco city prison tonight.

Spread on his bunk in front of him were the late editions of San Francisco newspapers.

"Look at these stories," he said, "read them and you won't have to ask why I won't talk."

"You newspaper people have been hounding me," he cried.

"I won't talk to any one but Jake" [J. W. Whrlich, San Francisco criminal attorney hired by Cline].

Used Various Poses

Cline has posed variously as a retired banker, a real estate operator, an artist specializing in landscapes in oils, a religious student, and a carpenter. Once he said he was a piano tuner.

Only one woman who willed him money failed to die soon after. This woman became violently ill but recovered after a hospital siege to revoke her will. Bodies of all but two of the persons who died after meeting him were cremated.

Thru the last few years of his career the nearly incredible situation of women dying under the names of previous women associates who had disappeared months before has occurred twice.

Former Choir Singer

Prior to 1929, records indicate, Cline was a respectable insurance broker and choir singer in Glendale, Cal. He got into trouble for forgery in Colorado in 1929, however, and drew a short prison term.

Police say his career as a cultivator of wealthy widows began in Los Angeles in 1931 when he met Mrs. Laura Cummings, 75, of Winthrop, Mass. She willed him her $60,000 estate and went with him to Seattle, where she became ill.

Hospitalization followed in Victoria, B. C., and Mrs. Cummings recovered. She promptly went home to Massachusetts and employed an attorney to revoke the will. Two years later she died a natural death.

Women He Knew

Never thereafter, police say, did a person who willed money to Cline or placed him in a position by marriage to inherit an estate, escape a prompt death. The record shows:

MRS. CARRIE MAY PORTER—She was an Oakland, Cal., widow whom Cline met and married in 1931. They went on a trip to Reno, Nev., where she died, and the body was cremated. She left him $20,000 and a quantity of jewelry.

LUCIAS BRANDT McCREERY—He was a Los Angeles man who became Cline's brother-in-law when Cline married his sister, the former Mrs. Bessie Van Sickle, in 1933. McCreery drank a glass of buttermilk with Cline and fell ill, dying the next day.

Cline Inherits $33,000

MRS. BESSIE VAN SICKLE CLINE—She died Sept. 26, 1933, in Los Angeles, supposedly of a heart attack, a few months after the death of her brother. Cline inherited $33,000 from her estate, which had been augmented by the brother's death.

THE REV. ERNEST F. JONES—Jones was an English evangelist who met Cline and took an automobile trip with him two days after making out a will leaving his $11,000 estate to Cline. Jones died in Bakersfield, Cal., in 1932, and the body was cremated.

MARTIN FRAME—Frame was 60 and a Los Angeles business man. Cline drugged and robbed him, but Frame recovered to prosecute Cline, who was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in Folsom penitentiary. This was in 1933.

Released from Folsom

MRS. ELIZABETH HUNT LEWIS—Released from Folsom in 1942, Cline met Mrs. Lewis, a widow with real estate in Oakland and Richmond, Cal. She told friends she was going to marry Cline and went away with him on an automobile trip from which she did not return. She is believed to have died in Jacksonville, Fla., in October, 1943, under the name of Mrs. Elizabeth Hannah Klein. Her sister, Mrs. W. L. Biencoe, of Santa Ana, Cal., now charges Cline is responsible for the disappearance of Mrs. Hunt's property.

MRS. ALICE CARPENTER—Cline met her in St. Petersburg, Fla., in January, 1944, and induced her to leave with him in an automobile the following month. Her friends never heard from her or saw her alive thereafter.

Another Disappears

MRS. DELORA KREBS—She was a wealthy Chicago widow whom Cline met on a train in April, 1944, and married in Chicago the following month. She had property in excess of $250,000, in which she gave Cline a half interest thru joint registration of securities and joint bank accounts. She disappeared early in October, 1944, altho her relatives for a year thereafter received letters from Cline in which he said she was well and happy, but unable to write because of paralysis in the wrist. Cline announced in Dallas, Oct. 17, 1944, that a woman who died while with him in a hotel there, and whose body he had cremated, was Mrs. Carpenter, but police say evidence indicates this was actually the former Mrs. Krebs.

MRS. ISABELLE VAN NATTA—Cline met her in San Francisco in October of this year and she left in an automobile with him Nov. 17 after telling friends she was going to marry him. On Nov. 24 Cline arrived at a hotel in Portland with a woman and when she died there Nov. 29 he notified relatives of the former Mrs. Krebs that the Chicago woman had just died. Police say this body, which was cremated a day after death, may have been that of Mrs. Van Natta.

MOVE TO STRIP NAVAL STATION FACES BATTLE

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13—The fate of the Great Lakes Naval Training center is to be decided by seagoing admirals after the new general board is constituted, it was learned today.

The board will be called on to vote for or against a proposal to strip to the bone the largest inland training station. Included in plans for retiring large segments of the fleet and for reduction of shore establishments is a proposal to slash the station to approximately 1,000 officers and men and a small radar installation.

This plan is opposed by a substantial bloc in the high command, who argue that the midwest supplied the highest percentage of sailors of any section of the country in the World war and in the last war. They hold this contribution should be recognized by maintaining training facilities at Great Lakes.

Advises Navy Secretary

The navy general board acts in an advisory capacity to the navy secretary, considering and reporting on such subjects as the secretary may submit to it. During the war it consisted largely of retired officers recalled to active service, including Adm. A. J. Hepburn, Adm. E. C. Kalbfus, and Adm. C. C. Bloch.

After the defeat of Germany Adm. H. K. Hewitt, who commanded naval forces in the Mediterranean, was assigned to the board. With victory in the Pacific, two fighting admirals have been detailed to replace the retired officers. They are Adm. Richard K. Turner and Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher.

All three of these admirals have had many Great Lakes trained men under their commands. Hope has been expressed in some quarters that this will move them to maintain the station on a status at least commensurate with coastal training stations.

Congress Fight Expected

It is understood that Adm. A. S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district will fight any move to reduce the Great Lakes station to inactive status. It is expected midwestern senators and congressmen also will battle for the station.

The station was reduced after the last war. During the first World war it was expanded to a capacity of 40,000 men, after the war its size was cut gradually. It was inactive for years until the pre-war naval expansion program got under way.

OPA Rules Public Exempt from Shoe Price Rise

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—The office of price administration said today there will be no increase in prices the public pays for shoes despite a price hike granted to manufacturers. The agency ruled that a 4½ per cent producer's increase to go into effect soon must be absorbed by retailers and wholesalers.

GI LADEN SHIP LIMPING TO N. Y. IN HEAVY SEAS

4 Other Vessels Battered by Atlantic Gale

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Heavy seas and strong winds in the north Atlantic tonight hammered five disabled or grounded vessels.

They were the troopship Joseph Hooker with 562 service men aboard, an Argentine corvette, and three fishing craft.

The Hooker, still shipping water thru ruptured starboard plates, was proceeding to New York under naval escort at 11 knots. Naval officials were uncertain when she would reach port.

Latest information was that the crew of the Hooker was winning its battle with seawater pouring into the broken hull and that the ship was in no danger.

Radioed Distress Call

The Hooker radioed a distress call last night about 500 miles from New York. Ships in the vicinity stood by until the cruiser Honolulu arrived to serve as escort.

The fishing dragger Hazel B, with a crew of 12 aboard, was reported listing badly in heavy seas off Nova Scotia after Tuesday's gale pounded her, smashing two lifeboats.

The Rosemarie M., a sister dragger, was standing by to render assistance as the disabled craft rode out the rough waters.

Corvette Grounded

On Rose and Crown shoal, within sight of Nantucket Island, the Argentine corvette Independencia was grounded and taking water in her forward compartments, but was on an even keel. A salvage tug stood by. The Independencia, with a Canadian crew of 46 aboard, was not in immediate danger, the coast guard said.

The Boston lobster smack Fannie was out of fuel and adrift 100 miles southeast of Cape Ann, and the coast guard cutter Thetis was headed toward her.

The coast guard asked the Canadian government to rush assistance to the trawler Gale, which left Boston Dec. 5 with a crew of 17, and was reported aground off Sable Island, Nova Scotia.

A sister ship, the Breaker, was standing by, said a message to her owners, the General Seafoods Corp. of Boston.

Order Mind Test for Vet on False Fire Alarm Acts

Judge Michael Tremko in Shakespeare av. court yesterday continued until Dec. 27 a hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct against William Bourne, 26, of 4235 Le Moyne st., a discharged soldier. Bourne admitted he had turned in more than a dozen false fire alarms in recent months. Judge Tremko ordered Bourne, a veteran of 20 months' service overseas, examined by the court psychiatrist.

REPORTS SHIPS SET TO RETURN YANKS QUICKLY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—Enough ships are available to bring every service man home within a month after he is eligible for discharge, army and navy officers asserted today.

Rear Adm. W. M. Callaghan, chief of the naval transportation service, told a house naval affairs subcommittee there is no necessity for diverting additional ships to troop transportation.

"If more ships were used, we wouldn't have the men to transport," Callaghan said.

LAST UNITS OF 36TH AND 89TH DIVISIONS SAIL

PARIS, Dec. 13 (AP)—The final detachments of the 36th and 89th infantry divisions are aboard ship en route home from Europe, United States army authorities said today.

Members of the 82d air borne division, scheduled to parade in New York in January, have begun movement from Le Havre to England, and are expected to sail late this month. Advance elements of the 100th division were arriving at the Le Havre staging area.

The army said the last of the 79th division is at sea, with most of it home, and that the 26th division, the 16th corps and a major part of the 90th division are on their way across. Alerted outfits include the 29th, 84th, and 94th infantry and 2d armored divisions, and the 22d corps headquarters.

ALL-OUT ALERT IN HAWAII DEC. 1, INQUIRY HEARS

Abruptly Lifted Dec. 6, Says 'Witness'

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13—The congressional Pearl Harbor committee was asked today to investigate a report that an all-out army alert against air attacks was placed in effect in Hawaii on Dec. 1, 1941, but was abruptly called off Dec. 6, less than 24 hours before the Japs struck.

The inquiry was demanded by Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] during committee questioning of Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, chief of army intelligence in Washington, at the time of the Pearl Harbor disaster. Miles said he had no knowledge of such an alert.

Gearhart told the committee he has a letter from a boy "who says he went thru the alert." According to this account, the congressman continued, an "all-out air alert" was ordered for the army at Hickam field in Hawaii on Dec. 1.

24 Hour Watch Ordered

Gearhart said the watch called for "24 hour a day manning of anti-aircraft guns, wearing of steel helmets, and carrying rifles and other arms."

Gearhart said his informant reported the alert was "called off on the afternoon of Dec. 6." He asked Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell to have all available files searched for information on the reported alert, including data on "who ordered it, and who ordered it called off." Gearhart identified his informant as Stephen L. Carmalt of Pittsburgh, Pa., a soldier.

Miles was asked by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] whether he, as intelligence chief, was informed that the British "fully alerted" their Pacific base at Singapore on Dec. 6. The witness said he didn't recall ever getting that information, but would try to find out whether the British informed our intelligence of such action before the Jap attack came.

Philippine Alert in Doubt

Rep. Murphy [D., Pa.] quoted an official report in 1944, from Gen. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, stating our air force in the Philippine Islands was on an "alert" starting Nov. 15, 1941. Miles said he didn't know that.

It was partly because of the lack of knowledge of what had happened in Hawaii on the first day of war, Miles said, that no additional alert messages were sent to Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines.

Miles testified that it was hours after the Japanese attack "before we could ascertain what in heaven's name had happened in Hawaii."

Hit Islands Later

Miles told Ferguson that as he recalled it, the Japanese hit the Philippines 10 or 12 hours after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Questioned by Ferguson, Miles said he was "solely responsible" for the fact that Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, did not receive the first 13 parts of Japan's 14 part war message on the night of Dec. 6 when they were intercepted and decoded by our intelligence.

Gen. Miles said he, as intelligence chief, was responsible for deciding what intercepts and similar data were worthy of Marshall's attention.

Message Read Dec. 6

He said he learned from Col. Rufus Bratton, army intelligence officer, by telephone on the evening of Dec. 6 that the first 13 parts of the vital Jap message had been received and translated. He could not recall whether Bratton read him the entire contents, or just a digest.

"I did not consider it necessary to tell the chief of staff about it that night," Miles told the committee.

Bratton told the army court of inquiry that he delivered a copy of the 13 parts in a locked pouch to Col. Bedell Smith in Marshall's office on the night of the 6th and that he urged Smith to get it to the chief of staff at once.

In a later affidavit to Lt. Col. Henry C. Clausen, however, Bratton reversed himself and said he did not make such a delivery that night. Clausen made a supplemental inquiry on orders from War Secretary Stimson after the army report was completed.

Marshall has testified he did not see the 13 parts until he reached his office Sunday morning, Dec. 7, about 11:25, after taking his usual Sunday horseback ride. At that time he was shown the complete 14 part message and Japan's note instructing its delivery to State Secretary Hull at 1 p. m. The 14th part and the 1 p. m. note had been intercepted and decoded by 7 o'clock that morning.

"Careful to Forget"

Miles was asked by Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] whether he knew our navy and FBI had tapped the telephone wires of the Japanese consulate in the weeks prior to Dec. 7.

The witness said he probably knew that, but added, "it was one of those things I was careful to forget as soon as I learned it."

Gen. Miles concluded his testimony before the committee late this afternoon. Questioning of Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow, chief of the war plans division at the time of Pearl Harbor, will be resumed tomorrow. Gerow's testimony was interrupted so the committee could hear Gen. Marshall.

Warning to Berlin Found

Following Marshall's testimony, a two volume statement of evidence gathered by the navy in its own Pearl Harbor investigation was introduced.

In it was a message Tokyo had sent to Hitler on Nov. 30, 1941, that "there is extreme danger that war may suddenly break out between the Anglo-Saxon nations and Japan."

The same message, which the navy said the army decoded Dec. 1, also told the Japanese ambassador in Berlin to advise the German fuehrer that "the time of the breaking-out of this war may come quicker than any one dreams."

Hitler was to be informed, too, that "if Russia joins hands tighter with England and the United States and resists us with hostilities we are ready to turn upon her with all our might."

Seventy-four World War I and II veterans, all holders of the Purple Heart, attended a luncheon in their honor given yesterday in the Hotel Sherman by the Chicago Victory Bond committee. Following the luncheon, they were taken to 21 banks outlying the loop where they sold "E" bonds during the afternoon.

Among the veterans was a father and son team, Elmer J. Hunter Jr., 23, a navy seaman, who was wounded in the Philippines, and his father, Elmer J. Hunter, 51, an army private in World War I, who was wounded in France. Both reside at 15806 Sawyer av., Harvey.

Three Gold Star mothers, including Mrs. Sallie Wojtalevicz, 1730 W. 18th st., the first Gold Star mother in the Chicago area, also attended. The others were Mrs. Lucille Novak, 4005 Sheridan rd., and Mrs. Ella Dreisbach, 1502 N. Lorel av.

'NEVER SAW' JAP WARNING

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13—Gen. George C. Marshall, former army chief of staff, completed a week of testimony before the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee today with the assertion he did not recall ever having seen the mysterious "winds" message by which the Japanese are reported to have announced their intention to make war on the United States.

Evidence is now before the committee, obtained last year by the army's Pearl Harbor inquiry board, that the navy intercepted the "winds" message Dec. 3, 1941—four days before the attack on Pearl Harbor—and transmitted it to President Roosevelt and the war and state departments.

According to the "top secret" report of the army board, given the committee this week, the "winds" message implemented a previously intercepted Japanese message announcing the code to be used in case of war. Included in a Tokyo weather broadcast, the Dec. 3 interception, whe ndecoded, advised Japanese diplomats by the words "east wind rain, west wind clear" of war on the United States and Great Britain.

Never Saw Message

"Did you ever receive or obtain any message implementing the 'winds' code message?" Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] asked Marshall today.

"Not to my knowledge," Marshall asserted.

Marshall told Lucas he had not interpreted the "winds code" message, intercepted Nov. 20, 1941, as meaning war would be announced by an implementing message. Instead, he declared, he took it to mean a break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Japan was impending.

An investigation after the army board had filed its report with War Secretary Stimson, made at Stimson's order by Lt. Col. Henry C. Clausen, produced affidavits from high officials in the war department in which they insisted the Dec. 3 "winds" message never was received in the war department. Further, copies of the message have disappeared from the navy's files, the army board reported.

Marshall admitted today, under questioning by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], that he had never known of a junior officer—Clausen was a major when he made his probe—investigating actions or statements of superior officers.

No Parallel Found

"Do you know of any other case where an investigation was taken away from a board of general officers and given to a major?" asked Ferguson.

"I don't recall a similar situation," Marshall said.

"Is it a custom in the war department to have officers of equal rank investigate other officers?"

"In the case of general officers, yes."

The Clausen report not only contradicted the board's findings in the case of the "winds" message, but also produced affidavits disputing evidence given in other matters pertaining to the Pearl Harbor investigation, according to a memorandum to Stimson from Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, army judge advocate general.

Name Is Misspelled

Ferguson pointed out earlier in the hearing that the affidavits obtained by Clausen apparently were written by Clausen and submitted to various officers in the midst of war operations. One obtained from Gen. MacArthur when he was preparing for the Leyte campaign last fall misspelled MacArthur's name. Ferguson pointed out, adding such an error could not have been made in that general's headquarters.

Answering a series of questions submitted by Capt. P. H. Ford, military counsel for Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, former Hawaii commander, and put by Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell, Marshall admitted the telephone could have been used to inform Short of imminent Japanese action Dec. 7, 1941.

Feared Wire

The final warning was sent to Short by Western Union and RCA and did not reach Short until several hours after the Japanese bombs fell. Marshall has previously testified he was fearful of wire tapping because it had been proved conversations between President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Churchill had been tapped by German agents.

Marshall further admitted, under questioning by Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.], that things "might have been different" had Short been given information from intercepted Japanese messages that Japanese spies were sending frequent reports on ship movements at Pearl Harbor.

CODE BREAKING NEWS A TRAGEDY, SAYS FORRESTAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—Navy Secretary Forrestal today called it a "terrible tragedy" that the secrets of breaking the Japanese code have been made public.

He made this statement before the senate military committee while urging a navy department plan for post-war military reorganization. This plan counters the war department proposal for merging the forces into a single organization.

"We were playing the Pacific war poker game with a mirror behind another man's hand," he said, referring to the value of the code secret during hostilities.

Forrestal mentioned the cracking of Jap codes as he urged a single intelligence agency for all government agencies.

SUMATRA CHIEFS BACK JAVANESE FREEDOM FIGHT

British Fire, Machine Gun Indonesian Village

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 13 (AP)—Indonesian leaders in Sumatra expressed complete solidarity today with the "republic" of Premier Sutan Sjahrir in demanding full independence from the Dutch.

In battle action in Java, meanwhile, British planes machine gunned vehicles fleeing from a village fired by the British in a reprisal raid.

Acting Gov. Amir of the Indonesian government in Sumatra was flown from Padang with three staff members in a British plane for conferences with officials of the unrecognized Indonesian republic in Batavia. Later Amir told a news conference:

"We are standing full behind Dr. Soekarno [president of the Indonesian republic] and the Sjahrir cabinet. Like people in other parts of Indonesia, we reject Dutch dominion status and demand full independence.

Has Strong Youth Movement

"Sumatra, with the strongest youth movement in Indonesia, has long been a country of revolution against the Dutch. Every act against the population of Java we feel is also directed against ourselves."

The village set afire by British Indian troops was Bekassi, the scene of the massacre three weeks ago of 22 survivors of a plane crash. Bekassi is about 12 miles south of Batavia.

As the village burned fiercely British piloted Thunderbolts and Mosquitos machine gunned and cannonaded fleeing motor vehicles.

British Soldier Slain

The retaliatory raid followed new outbreaks in which a British enlisted man was killed and four others, a Japanese lieutenant, an Indian officer, and an English and Indian enlisted man were wounded.

In a Batavia suburb a Red Cross truck was attacked by grenades and gunfire. Similar small scale clashes with infiltrating Indonesians occurred south of Batavia at Buitenzorg, where one Indian was wounded; at Bandoeng, where a Dutchman was killed, and at Medan in Sumatra, where a Dutchman was shot dead.

NIGHT SERVICE IN POSTOFFICES FOR YULE MAILS

Postmaster Kruetgen said yesterday that 38 postoffice branch offices will remain open until 8 p. m. tomorrow, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday to accept Christmas mail packages.

The postmaster said there would be mail delivery on the Sunday before Christmas and all first class city mail received up to 9 a. m. Monday would be delivered that day.

To help the public place the various city mail zones on their mail, a zone booklet will be delivered to each mail box in the city, the postmaster said.

During the Christmas rush the postoffice will employ approximately 7,000 extra workers, including soldiers and sailors on furlough or leave. Some of the soldiers already are at work.

CHICAGO YANK LEAVES MANILA ON GLOBESTER

After four nights on a wooden bench in Manila, Lt. John J. Greener, 27, of 5427 Homan av., relaxed last night in the plush seat luxury of the air transport command's world girdling Globester—on his way home for Christmas.

Lt. Greener and three GIs slept on benches in the ATC terminal in Manila waiting for a ride. Because they had been awaiting transportation longest and had the highest number of points, they were given seats on the Globester when four generals failed to pick up their reservations.

Lt. Greener is the son of John Sr. and Dorothy Greener. His last Christmas at home was in 1941. A refrigerator service man for Sears Roebuck & Co., Lt. Greener was inducted into the infantry in April, 1941. A year later he was transferred to the army air forces and became a transport pilot. He served in Iceland, New Guinea, and Leyte before the war ended.

Three More Japs to Hang for Slaying U. S. Flyers

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands, Dec. 13 (AP)—Three Japanese officers were sentenced to the gallows today for the slaying of three American airmen on Jaluit atoll in March, 1944. The military commission which yesterday adjudged them guilty let off a fourth defendant with a 10 year sentence. On Tuesday six other Japanese were sentenced to hang for beheading five Americans.

NEW ORDER BARS JAP APPEALS TO SUPREME COURT

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

MANILA, Dec. 13—Future war criminal trials in the Pacific will be held under a new procedure established in an order by Gen. MacArthur. This is believed to preclude appeals to the United States Supreme court such as that now pending for Gen. Yamashita.

The new directive was issued by Gen. MacArthur as supreme commander for the allied powers occupying the Japanese empire, instead of United States army commander. Thus the trial of Japanese war criminals becomes the concern of the allied nations and the jurisdiction of the Supreme court appears eliminated.

JAP SUB SKIPPER TELLS OF SINKING BIG U.S. WARSHIP

Craft on Steady Course, McVay Trial Told

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—Over defense protests, a former Japanese submarine commander was admitted as a prosecution witness before a navy court martial today to tell how he sank a large warship which was making no radical change in its course.

Iko Hashimoto, short, squat, and bullet headed, told the court trying Capt. Charles B. McVay III., that he fired six torpedoes and scored three certain hits on a large warship between Guam and Leyte the night of July 29-30.

Skipper Called Negligent

McVay, skipper of the cruiser Indianapolis, is being tried on charges of negligence and inefficiency in connection with the loss of the ship in that area that night. The negligence charge is based on the allegation that he failed to maintain a zigzag course.

"I wish to make formal objection," Capt. John P. Cady, chief defense counsel, told the court, "to the idea of calling one of the officers of a defeated enemy who, as a nation, has been proven guilty of every despicable treachery, to testify against one of our own commanding officers on a matter affecting his professional judgment.

"Spectacle" Protested

"I am sure I express the feeling of every American citizen, especially those who so recently fought against the Japanese, in protesting at this spectacle."

Capt. Thomas J. Ryan Jr., the judge advocate, expressed regret at the introduction of "emotional aspects," but that he intended to ask only for "facts in the knowledge" of the witness.

He said he would ask only "where he was on specific occasions, what he saw, what he did, and how he did it."

The court, headed by Rear Adm. Wilder D. Baker, accepted Hashimoto as a witness after ruling it "proper" that he take two oaths, one the standard form given nonbelievers, and the other the oath administered in Japanese courts martial.

Sighted at 11,000 Yards

Hashimoto, thru interpreters, testified that about 11:05 p. m. July 29 his submarine was about 290 miles slightly west of due north of Palau. He said he surfaced and discerned a "dark object" about 11,000 yards away.

He immediately crash-dived, swung in the direction of the target, and began to close range, keeping the ship under constant observation thru the night periscope. At about 3,000 yards, he said, he recognized the ship as of the 10,000 ton cruiser class or larger, and at 1,500 meters [1,630 yards] fired six torpedoes in two salvoes of three each, at three second intervals.

He said he got three certain hits, confirmed by observation of three separate columns of water. He heard a fourth explosion but did not confirm that as a hit by observation.

Previous testimony had set the time of the Indianapolis explosion at 12:05 a. m. July 30.

British Troops in China Are Being Disbanded

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 13 (AP)—British troops in China are being disbanded, it was announced today as Maj. Gen. Eric L. Hayes, military attache to the British embassy, prepared to leave Chungking. The number of British troops in China which Hayes commanded always was small—a maximum of 1,600—but a training center was maintained at Kucheng and others were being established elsewhere when Japan surrendered.

CAPT. M'LELLAND, 25, PACIFIC TANK HERO, RETURNS FROM WARS

Capt. McLelland

Capt. James McLelland, 25, son of Mrs. Lillian McLelland of 7920 Evans av., returned home Wednesday after 21 months overseas. Attached to a tank destroyer unit, he served on Leyte and Luzon. He wears the Pacific theater ribbon with three bronze stars for valor, the Philippine liberation ribbon, and the American theater ribbon. Capt. McLelland entered the army in March, 1941, from the national guard. He is now on terminal leave and will be officially discharged on March 3.

"WHY Does FANNIE MAY Limit Amount of Candy I May Buy?"

That sign would go up mighty soon after the shop opened—if we didn't limit the amount of candy any one customer may buy!

Sugar rationed to 50%—other fine candy ingredients almost equally scarce! Skilled candy makers cut to almost half the prewar number! Couple these shortages with our policy of maintaining prewar quality, and you can readily understand we are making much less candy!

So to serve as many customers as possible—to make sure that you get at least some candy of real quality—we have to limit the amount sold to any one customer!

EVICTED MASSES WANDER POLAND HUNTING HAVEN

Dump Uprooted Germans on Allied Zone

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 13—Hundreds of thousands of persons in Poland are constantly on the move, restlessly seeking a spot where they can grub a living out of the war ravaged land.

In every rail station and junction men, women, and children await transport. Clusters of human beings, almost hidden under loads of parcels and cans and other remnants of what must have been their homes, wait along the roads or in blasted villages for any transport that will carry them somewhere else. Life with its birth and death continues even in these nomadic streams and everywhere you see womenfolk tending their sick or nursing babies.

How many persons are wandering about the new Poland? No one seems to know.

In Breslau—now known as Wroclaw—Stanislaw Piaskowski, the official in charge of most displaced peasants, was interviewed as he sat in his unheated office.

"In the German province we now call Slask [Lower Silesia]," Piaskowski said, "2½ million Germans were living. Now there are about one million left, plus about half a million Poles who moved in recently."

Asked how many more Poles he expected to settle in the province, he answered, "Can't say. Gradually maybe another two million."

About the population of Breslau, his provincial capital, Piaskowski was equally vague. Seventy per cent of the center of Breslau was totally destroyed and land mines still explode among the ruins now being cleared up. The work is done by Germans wearing white armbands—equivalent to the letter "P," which the Germans printed on Polish slave workers in Germany.

120,000 Germans in Breslau

"About 120,000 Germans are left in Breslau from a pre-war population of about 650,000," Piaskowski said. "The number of Poles moved in, principally from the Wilno [Vilna] area ceded to Russia and from eastern territories, is reckoned at about 60,000."

There is no census, no control, no possible statistics on the incessantly flowing population, he admitted.

"We still have more Germans than Poles here," Piaskowski said. "Therefore the Germans must move away as soon as possible to make room for incoming Poles in districts where there are practically no houses."

About 1,000 families have been moved monthly. Posters in Stettin, Breslau and Liegnitz tell Germans who "wish to go back to Germany" where to apply and what they are allowed to take—100 pounds of luggage.

Talks of Shuttle Service

Polish government spokesmen insist the Germans are not forced to go.

The evacuation to Germany apparently is based on two principles: First, the deep rooted belief that the allied control authorities in Germany could receive as many Germans as Poland could displace; second, that the return of Germans should be proportionate to the return of Poles from Germany. Piaskowski said he had been discussing with an American officer the possibility of a shuttle train service for Poles and Germans across the frontier.

THE QUESTION

Why did you reenlist?

WHERE ASKED

Army recruiting station, 166 W. Van Buren st.

THE ANSWERS

Harold Gerdt, Edwardsville, Madison county—I've been in the army three years and I'm going to try three more years. By that time the United States will be more settled politically and economically. After three years I'll decide whether I want to make a career of the army. It looks like a good deal to me.

Staff Sgt. Harold Holtmann, Belleville, St. Clair county—The security offered by the army appeals most to me. There are many chances to travel, too. I plan to take my family with me wherever I go. I feel that in peace time army life is stable when things outside may be a little unsettled.

Turner Fox, 3237 Grenshaw st.—I want to travel and the army offers me this opportunity. I'm enlisting for the European theater because after spending considerable time in the Pacific I'd like to see the other side of the world. The labor situation is bad now and I can make more money in the army with certain security.

Staff Sgt. Rufus P. Jordan, 5621 Calumet av.—First of all, I'd like to broaden my knowledge of the European languages, and second, the army offers me an opportunity to study journalism. The general overall broadening effect of meeting people in other countries is priceless and the army will do this for me.

Nick Guerrero, 19 W. Ohio st.—I just came back from the Pacific and I want to go back. I might be lucky enough to be sent to the Philippines. I have a girl there waiting for me and my people are there, too. I also want a chance to go to Tokyo and I'm sure that eventually in the army I'll have that opportunity.

Harry Norton, Spooner, Wis.—At the present time I have six years in the army to my credit. I intend to make a career of it. Twenty years is all the time it takes now to retire. I was graduated from the army radio school and I'll further my education along those lines. I intend to go to Europe.

Green Grants $200,000 for Little Calumet Job

Gov. Green yesterday authorized the expenditure of $200,000 for completion of the Little Calumet river improvement project. The improvement consists of dredging a 50 foot bottom channel to prevent flooding of the river. The project was begun several years ago and the funds released yesterday will provide for the dredging of the uncompleted section of 5.6 miles.

BRITAIN, FRANCE AGREE TO QUIT SYRIA, LEBANON

LONDON, Dec. 13 (AP)—France and Britain agreed today to withdraw their troops from troubled Syria and Lebanon, and to align closely their future policy in the middle east.

Syrian forces, demanding complete independence from France, fought with the French seven months ago, and British troops intervened to restore order, leading to friction between the French and British governments.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, announcing the agreement in commons, said French and British military experts would meet at Beyrouth Dec. 21 "to fix very early the first measures of evacuation."

Mandate Ended

In Paris, a foreign office spokesman said the accord eliminated "the last vestiges" of the French mandate over Syria and Lebanon, adding that France had considered her mandate ended when the two Levant countries were admitted to the united nations organization.

"The two governments have recognized that it was in their joint interest to encourage, within the framework of international collaboration, the economic well being and security of the peoples of the middle east," Bevin's announcement said.

While the full terms of the accord were not disclosed either in London or Paris, the French spokesman said that the political portion embraced an agreement by France not to take any decision in the middle east prejudicial to Britain, and vice versa.

Pledge Independence

Bevin told commons that Britain and France were "equally desirous of assuring to Syria and Lebanon the full exercise of the independence proclaimed by France in 1942."

"They have decided jointly to examine the conditions for methodical regrouping and withdrawal of their military forces in this zone," he said.

The disturbances started last May when Syrian demands for complete independence from France developed into armed clashes. The French shelled Damascus, and 400 were reported killed and several hundred wounded in sporadic outbursts.

7 MILLION FREE TO CHOOSE OWN JOBS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 13 [Reuters]—The British government today slashed at the war time structure of labor controls, permitting some 7,000,000 men and women to seek jobs wherever they please.

Labor Minister George Isaacs announced the new policy in the house of commons, but said that it had been found necessary for the time being to retain in general the essential works order. A regulation under which the government can direct workers into stated industries is to be limited to men liable to military enlistment.

No women of any age, excepting nurses and midwives, will be directed into employment, and the system of registering women for employment when they reach the age of 18 is to be discontinued. The use of directions in respect to men is to be limited to those up to and including the age of 30—the maximum age for military service. Excepted from this provision were building and civil engineering employes, where the maximum age for direction will be 50.

BARE NAZI OFFER TO FREE JEWS FOR $2,000,000

Zionist Tells of Parley for Hungarians

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 13 —(AP)—A ransom of $2,000,000 to save Hungarian Jews from deportation to Germany was demanded by German SS [elite guard] negotiators in Budapest in April, 1944, an affidavit placed before the international war crimes tribunal said today.

The affidavit, by Dr. Rudolph Kastner, Hungarian-born Zionist representing the relief committee of the Jewish agency in central Europe during the war, gave this sworn account of the incident:

"The first time I negotiated was on April 3. At first the Germans demanded compensation of $2,000,000, and promised that in return for this sum they would not deport anyone.

Offered to Free All

"Later Adolf Aichmann [Heinrich Himmler's deputy] declared 'I can sell the Hungarian Jews only as from Germany. Eugen Brand should leave at once for Istanbul and inform the Jews there, and their allies, that I am prepared to sell 1,000,000 Hungarian Jews for goods, primarily vehicles, would transport them to Oswiecim and "put them on ice." If my generous offer is accepted I will release all of them. If not, they will be all gassed'."

In a further recital of concentration camp horrors, the American prosecution introduced a shrunken human head and lamp shades made of human skin as evidence.

The lamp shades were made from skin of prisoners at Buchenwald who were selected because they had the best tattoo work on them, then killed by injections, affidavits by former inmates at the Buchenwald camp said. The preserved head, reduced to the size of a baseball, was that of a Pole who had been caught fraternizing with a German girl.

Jew-baiter Julius Streicher, singled out by the prosecution for the first time today, was the only one of the 21 top Nazis able to view the exhibits for any length of time. He leaned forward and inspected them with considerable interest.

Film Shows Cruelties

The court also was shown a captured German movie film taken in a ghetto somewhere in Europe. It showed women being stripped naked and chased thru the streets while S. S. troops and German soldiers stood by enjoying the scene.

The prosecution also introduced statements of the defendants showing their intention of doing away with the Jews of Europe.

Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief exponent of Nazi race ideology, was quoted as urging Hitler in 1941: "Instead of executing a hundred Frenchmen, let us execute a hundred Jewish bankers."

Hermann Goering was quoted as exclaiming after the slaying of Ernst von Rath, a German embassy staff member, in Paris in 1938: "These pigs will not commit another murder—I would not like to be a Jew in Germany."

Hans Frank, former governor-general of Poland, was disclosed to have told his subordinates in a speech to "liquidate the Jews yourselves, and don't bother the higher ups." He said there were 3,500,000 Jews in Poland, "too many to shoot or poison, but we'll get rid of them somewhere."

"The neighbors couldn't stand my husband's tuba practice."

SWISS SELL U. S. PENS 'IMPORTED' BY GI TOURISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 13—American fountain pens brought to Switzerland by American troops on furlough are being sold on the black market here. It is estimated that about 3,000 pens are being purchased each month in Switzerland. During September and November, 10,000 pens were sold. A sum of $175,000 is believed to have been spent for the pens.

Switzerland needs the American pens and cannot legally import them, since their importation is at a standstill. Consequently Swiss watchmakers have become fountain pen traders. They buy them from American troops and resell them on the black market, chiefly to tobacconists.

11 Japs Who Crucified 4 Allied Airmen Convicted

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Eleven Japanese were convicted of the crucifixion murder of three Australian and one American airmen by an Australian military court today at Morotai, in the Moluccas. One Japanese defendant was acquitted. The killings took place at Talaud Island, off the Celebes, March 23.

VIAREGGIO, Italy, Dec. 13 (AP)—A force of more than 200 American and Italian military policemen jailed 80 American soldiers today on charges of desertion, being absent without leave, and black marketeering. Fifteen civilians also were arrested on black marketing charges.

BOSS OF DACHAU DOOMED TO HANG WITH 35 OTHERS

Of the other four defendants, one was sentenced by the United States military court to life imprisonment, and three were sentenced to 10 years each.

The life sentence was given to Peter Betz, a guard against whom there was little evidence of personal cruelty. Ten year terms were imposed on Hugo Lausterer, who, witnesses testified, was kind to prisoners; Albin Gretsch who was drafted into the SS and against whom no personal accusations of cruelty were made, and Johan Schoepp, drafted from the Romanian army by the SS.

Schilling, accused of killing hundreds of inmates in malaria experiments, blinked and bowed his bearded head when he heard the death verdict pronounced by Brig. Gen. John M. Lenz, who presided over the court of eight army officers.

Gen. Dentz Dies in Prison Following Heart Attack

PARIS, Dec. 13 [Reuters]—Gen. Henri Dentz, who was sentenced to death by the Paris purge court and later reprieved by Gen. De Gaulle, died in Fresnes prison here this evening after a heart attack. Dentz was high commissioner in Syria under the Vichy regime. He opposed the British occupation of Syria by force of arms.

BRITISH HASTEN DISBANDMENT OF GERMAN TROOPS

BERLIN, Dec. 13 (AP)—Yielding to a Russian protest, the British are going to liquidate the administrative headquarters for German army personnel by hastening the disbanding of the remaining 656,000 men of the German military forces in their zone, a high official said today. He said the complete plan for accomplishing the disbandment would be announced next week and should "end all suspicion."

Soviet Marshal Zhukov had said in a memorandum submitted to the allied control council that the British were maintaining units which should have been disbanded and asked that the allied commission enter the British zone to investigate.

British Field Marshal Montgomery denied the allegations but invited an inquiry on the condition that a similar investigation be made in the other three zones.

Report 15 Jews Killed By Red and Polish Deserters

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 13 [Reuters]—The Jewish agency today reported that eleven Jewesses and four Jews were killed in attacks by Russians and Polish deserters from two disbanded anti-soviet armies in two villages on the Slovak-Ruthenian frontiers in Czechoslovakia. The villagers fled to the town of Kosice, the report added.

SEEK PERMITS FOR AUTO RADIO PHONE STATIONS

Bell Company Plans to Build Transmitters

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday filed applications for permits to build highway radio telephone stations that would provide two-way service to drivers between Chicago and St. Louis, Mo.

The phone company already holds a permit to build a transmitter for an experimental urban vehicular service station covering the Chicago metropolitan area. It is expected this transmitter will be built sometime next spring. The company also has been participating in a trial mobile marine radio service for lake shipping.

Experiments Conducted

These experiments, using frequency modulation, have been conducted with a 60 watt transmitter atop the Morton building in the loop, with receiver points at Lake Bluff and at 5000 East End av. Data is now being collected regarding the range and effectiveness of this service, which, it is expected, may appeal to yachtsmen and the owners of small pleasure craft as well as bigger lake vessels.

The company's highway service applications call for transmitters to be built in Chicago, Ottawa, Peoria, Springfield, and St. Louis. The company expects that radio telephone service will appeal particularly to trucking interests, salesmen, and others using the highways regularly.

Many Firms Interested

As projected, the highway, urban, and marine services would enable the operator of any car, truck, boat, or barge to be connected with any phone in the Bell system thru the combined use of radio and phone lines.

More than 75 companies using fleets of cars and trucks already have expressed desires to become subscribers to the urban service, the Bell company has revealed. Nearly 50 other firms have shown varying degrees of interest. Armored car, ambulance, pickup and delivery services and physicians are among those who have expressed eagerness to use the projected system.

564,577 Lbs. of Paper Collected by Children

Pupils in Chicago public elementary schools collected 564,577 pounds of waste paper last week, John W. Bennett of the Chicago waste paper campaign committee said yesterday. Yale school, 7010 Yale av., led the city with 14,017 pounds.

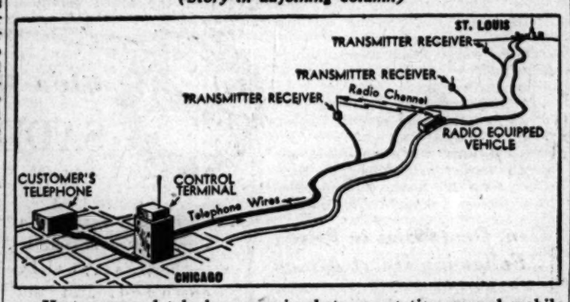
Proposal for Mobile Radio Phones

(Story in adjoining column)



How proposed telephone service between stationary and mobile telephones would be handled. A call from customer's telephone in Chicago would be routed thru the Chicago control terminal to the transmitter-receiver and thence to automobile on highways. If the automobile were closer to St. Louis than Chicago the call would be routed thru the receiver-transmitter near St. Louis.

REMOTE CONTROL REMOVES PERILS OF TEST FLYING

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 13 (AP)—Remote control already has eliminated much of the danger of test flying new airplanes, navy officials said today, as well as opening new possibilities for training pilots and gunners for the age of super-speeds in air warfare.

The navy demonstrated publicly for the first time at its air station near here the taking off, maneuvering, and landing of combat aircraft by radio, using a seven ton grumman F6F Hellcat. Complete control of planes by radio usually is limited to small target ships, of which the navy bought more than 18,000 during the war.

BYRNES NEAR PARIS, BUT FRANCE TAKES UP WELCOME MAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Dec. 13—The French government snubbed Secretary of State Byrnes today when he alighted from a plane at the Orly airport south of Paris for a two hour stop on his way to the Moscow conference of foreign ministers.

Byrnes' plane came down at Orly at 1:58 p. m. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery was at the airport to greet him and also to see him leave two hours later, but Georges Bidault's foreign office sent no one to welcome the American secretary. Usually the passage of a statesman across France calls for marks of attention.

BOTH DRIVERS IN PATTON'S CRASH FOUND CARELESS

Army Says They Won't Be Punished

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Dec. 13 (AP)—The commanding officer of the United States army hospital where Gen. Patton is under treatment said tonight there is a good chance that the American commander might be on his feet again.

The commandant, Col. Lawrence C. Ball of Harlan, Ky., said there was confidence among the doctors that the injured commander of the United States 15th army would pull thru, altho it might take weeks or months.

"Gen. Patton will remain here indefinitely," Col. Ball said. "There has been no talk by the doctors of moving him home in a cast by air or any other way."

Drivers Called Careless

The 118th military police company reported that in the opinion of investigating officers "the accident was caused by carelessness on the part of both drivers" in the collision of the general's car and a truck. The drivers were Pvt. Horace Woodring, 19, of Sturgis, Ky., Patton's chauffeur, and Tech. 5th Grade Robert Thompson, 20, of Camden, N. J., who was at the wheel of the truck.

Both were listed as excellent drivers. The report said the two returned to their units and that no disciplinary action had been taken. The report said the truck driver had signaled for a left turn before the crash.

Visited by Chaplain

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, riding with Patton at the time of the accident, yelled "Sit tight!" to Patton just before the crash, the report said.

"Gen. Patton was apparently thrown forward and then backward," Gay said. "He was bleeding profusely from a wound of the scalp and forehead."

Army authorities said Patton, who had been scheduled to go home for a Christmas furlough next week, was visited by the Rev. Andrew White, Wilmington, Del., Catholic chaplain for the 7th army, just after the accident.

Patton, who thought his caller was an old friend, the Rev. James O'Neill, former 3d army chaplain, said, "Send him in and let's get going."

Wife at His Bedside

Father White said today Patton apparently wanted the ministrations of a churchman, so White read the prayer for the sick and Patton thanked him. Yesterday the general was visited by the hospital's Episcopal chaplain, the Rev. William R. Price. Patton is an Episcopalian.

Mrs. Patton talked with her husband for 10 minutes this morning, and spent most of the afternoon sitting by his bedside.

Brother-in-law Hops

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Frederick Ayer, Boston business man and brother-in-law of Gen. Patton, left by trans-Atlantic plane today en route to Heidelberg, Germany, where he will visit the injured general. He said his sister, wife of the general, had requested him to come.

FOUR INCH SNOW KEEPS FALLING INTO THE NIGHT

Snow fell steadily in Chicago yesterday in the first heavy blanket of the season. Weather Forecaster H. A. Downs said it let up in the evening after reaching a depth of 3½ inches and that little more was in prospect today.

Snow was general in the midwest, covering the area from Oklahoma to Ohio. While the fall elsewhere was similar to Chicago's, the absence of winds kept drifts from piling up. Outside Chicago, traffic was not greatly affected, except that highways were slippery and motorists were advised to use caution.

Chicago's transportation was slowed, but not seriously interrupted by the snow.

Downs said a mass of cold air has collected in central Canada and is poised to move upon the middle west, with possibly zero temperatures here Sunday.

JOLIET SCHOOLS CLOSE TODAY AS INFLUENZA CURB

Joliet's public schools will be closed today to help curb a mild form of influenza which has caused numerous absences among pupils and teachers. Classes will be resumed Monday.

Two thousand pupils were reported absent yesterday. These included 1,200 of the 5,500 grade school children and 800 of the 2,800 high school students.

ELLA RAINES

Betty Hutton, comedienne of stage and screen, and her recently acquired husband, Theodore [Ted] Briskin, Chicago business man, arrived aboard the Santa Fe Super Chief from the west coast yesterday. When Miss Hutton saw the heavy snow she fell to making snowballs like a youngster.

The two came here for the wedding of Jack Briskin, Ted's brother and business associate, which will take place Dec. 23 in the Congress hotel. The bride will be Cyril Bell, daughter of Dr. Martin Bell of Rogers Park.

Ella Raines, young Universal movie actress, arrived at the Illinois Central station en route to Hollywood. When she stepped into Chicago's first blanket of snow, she said, "I wish I'd worn galoshes."

HUSBAND PLAYS A RHAPSODY IN BLACK AND BLUE

Pianist Wife Gets Divorce After Two Beatings

When a wife plays "I'm Falling in Love with Someone" on the piano, it doesn't necessarily follow that she means someone other than her husband, Judge Frank M. Padden held yesterday in Superior court, where he awarded a divorce to Mrs. Lucille McDonald, 33, of 1215 Winona st.

Mrs. McDonald, in response to questioning by her attorney, Sol R. Friedman, testified she was playing that number last Sept. 15 when her husband, James, 40, a machinist, came home.

Mate Doubts It Just Happened

"He sat down and listened awhile," she said, "then asked me whom I was playing that song for. I told him I wasn't playing it for anybody, that it was just a pretty song and the music happened to be on the piano, and I just happened to be playing it."

But McDonald, his wife went on, wouldn't believe her. "He said I was putting so much feeling into my playing that I must have been thinking of someone else."

Mrs. McDonald told him not to be silly, she said, and launched into a spirited rendition of "Kitten on the Keys." This, she added, was brought to an inharmonious conclusion when he suddenly began pummelling her.

Jailed After Second Beating

Altho melody ended, Mrs. McDonald continued, the memory ligered on—at least in the mind of her husband. Ten days later, on Sept. 25, he again demanded to know whom she had been serenading.

"I told him again not to be silly," Mrs. McDonald said, "but he beat me up again." This trouncing, she said, was so severe that she had McDonald arrested. He was sent to jail for 60 days on a conviction of assault and battery. He is still in jail, she added.

Mrs. McDonald was given custody of their two children and $16 a week for their support.

SENATE GROUP ACTS TO DOUBLE UNRRA FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13—With administration leaders protesting "this is the last time," the senate foreign relations committee today voted to approve authorization of an additional 1 billion 350 million dollars for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration. Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] said the measure will be brought to the floor of the senate next week.

Connally reported the committee approval was unanimous but admitted under question of reporters that no record vote was taken.

Connally declared that "this is the last time" he will favor voting of funds to UNRRA, but Republican senators expressed the fear that support of the world relief program would be a continuing burden.

RAILROAD CITES RULES IN DELAY FOR 600 SAILORS

Differences in eastern and western railroad operating regulations were blamed by the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday for an 18 hour delay in the journey of 600 sailors, veterans of the Pacific war, en route from San Francisco, Cal., to Bainbridge, Md., and civilian life.

The sailors, who arrived in Chicago at 9 a. m. Wednesday, were hauled from the west coast in St. Louis and San Francisco railroad coaches, traveling to Richmond, Cal., by way of the Southern Pacific, and from there to Chicago via the Santa Fe. They then were turned over to the Pennsylvania, which refused to accept eight coaches with composite trucks, made of steel and wood and termed unuseable for high speed travel. The Pennsylvania brought steel truck coaches from Indianapolis, Ind.

The sailors fretted thru Wednesday in the yards at 51st st. and Union av. and resumed their journey at 5:45 a. m. yesterday, 18 hours behind schedule. The Pennsylvania said the delay could have been avoided if it had been given sufficient notice of the train's make-up.

Refund $1,500 Deposits, Court Orders Landlord

Judge Michael L. Feinberg in Circuit court yesterday entered a consent judgment in which Morton B. Hochberg, owner of six buildings at 2717-27 Indiana av., agreed to refund $1,500 in security deposits to six tenants. The office of price administration charged he collected the deposits illegally. Judge Feinberg also entered an injunction restraining the Reliable Real Estate company from violating rent ceilings in the apartment building at 3748-52 Lake Park av.

THE RAIN OF FIRE

A civilian-military commission which made a survey of the results of American strategic bombing in Germany has reported that half a million Germans were killed or are missing as a consequence of the destruction rained upon them from the sky. The report gives an awesome account of the death and destruction caused by fire bombs, which the commission found to have caused havoc akin to that from the atomic bombs dropped later on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Fire was the greatest killer in the raids on Germany. Thermite and other incendiary materials produced the same intense heat engendered by atomic weapons. Victims of these fire blizzards died of carbon monoxide poisoning after inhaling air heated as high as 1,472 degrees. In the fire raid on Hamburg in July, 1943, the fires burned uncontroled for six weeks and the flames created drafts of 90 miles an hour which sucked people down streets and into the inferno.

Japan underwent the same terrible experience before the two atomic bombs were ever dropped. Gen. Arnold, commander of the air forces, said that from March, 1945, when the B-29s made their first low level fire raid on Tokyo, 100,000 tons of incendiary bombs were dropped in 15,000 sorties against 66 Japanese cities. In the first Tokyo incendiary bombing 15.8 square miles of the heart of the city were burned out. Nearly 169 square miles were destroyed or damaged in 60 cities for which photographic reconnaissance is available, with more than 100 square miles burned out in the five major cities of Kobe, Osaka, Nagoya, Tokyo, and Yokohama.

"The destruction, including that caused by the two atomic bombs," said Gen. Arnold, "amounts to over 42 per cent of the urban industrial areas involved. The 68 Japanese cities attacked with incendiaries and atomic bombs had in 1940 a total population of over 21 million —almost exactly equal to our 12 largest American cities. We can imagine the effect of our capacity to continue the war if the tables had been turned and Japanese airmen had destroyed nearly half of any group of our industrial cities having a population of 21 million."

The former premier, Prince Naruhiko Hagashi-kuni, admitted that by June, 1945, when all of the major cities of Japan had been attacked with incendiaries, Japan's ability to carry on the war was "disastrously undermined." Not only were industrial installations and dwellings destroyed on an enormous scale but dislocations of industrial man power and effects upon enemy morale were calamitous. The Japanese estimate that 260,000 persons were killed in air attacks, 412,000 injured, 9,200,000 left homeless, and 2,210,000 homes demolished or burned down.

This paralleled the experience of Germany, where 422,000 city dwellers were killed, 77,750 are missing, 780,000 were wounded, and approximately 20 per cent of all homes were destroyed, making 7,500,000 Germans, or nearly 10 per cent of the total population, homeless.

Inasmuch as the United States was the originator of warfare in this terrible shape, we are forewarned of what we may expect if any country is permitted to attain air superiority over us. Our great cities will be exposed to a rain of fire, our industries gutted, our citizens killed or left homeless. The methods which we invented will be turned against us in all their horror.

We must keep our aviation arm the strongest in the world. We must keep or get all of the islands from which we can be bombed, especially those in the West Indies. We must maintain a vigilant watch. These are the minimum requirements for the preservation of liberty.

WHEN BRITAIN LENDS

The British cabinet has announced in parliament that the people of Newfoundland are to vote soon on whether they wish to resume their self-government as a dominion, which they yielded 12 years ago as a consequence of bankruptcy.

Newfoundland went broke in 1933. In return for aid from the British government it yielded its dominion status and was ruled by a commission and governor appointed in London. War prosperity, including large American expenditures on bases, has bailed out the Newfoundlanders and made possible the resumption of self-government if they want it.

The parallel must be embarrassing to the British government, coming as it does at this time, when it has had to plead its own insolvency to get a loan from the United States. When the British bail out another country, even one in their own family of nations, they require the bankrupts to submit to government from London.

No such stipulation has been attached to the proposed American loan. Naturally, there is no disposition in this country actually to govern Britain, but while getting the loan the British have made no commitment to reform even financial policies inimical to the United States. They have not even made the frank disclosure of their assets that any ordinary bankrupt is required to make in their country and ours. Britain as a borrower is a far different customer from Britain as a lender.

A COUNTRY THAT CAN STAND ALONE

The final report of Fleet Adm. King on naval operations during the war discloses that the American navy is vastly superior to the combined fleets of all other nations in the world. We took on the powerful Japanese navy singlehanded and sent it to the graveyard. Meanwhile, our own sea power increased at an incredible rate.

Of 17 Jap battleships, 11 were sunk; of 26 carriers, 20 were sunk; of 43 cruisers, 38 were destroyed. "And so on," said Adm. King, "thruout the various types of ships which collectively constituted a fleet considerably larger than ours was before the war began."

In contrast, accessions to the strength of the United States fleet during the war were almost unimaginable. On Dec. 7, 1941, America had nine battleships in the Pacific. On Aug. 14, 1945, when Japan capitulated, we had 23. In other categories the ratio was even more impressive. In 1941 we had three aircraft carriers; in 1945, 26. In 1941, we had no escort carriers; in 1945, 64. In 1941 we had 22 cruisers; in 1945, 52. When war came we had 50 destroyers; when peace came, 323. We had, in addition, 298 escort vessels, 181 submarines, 160 mine craft, 1,060 auxiliaries, such as transports, supply and ammunition vessels, and tankers; 2,783 large landing craft, and 14,847 combat aircraft when the war in the Pacific ended. Many of these categories had come up from nothing.

By war's end we had constructed and manned 400 naval bases in the Atlantic and Pacific. We had 152 floating dry docks, some big enough to float the largest battleships, as against two such docks when the war with Japan started. We vere shipping 600,000 tons of material a month to the Pacific at the close of the war. In the seven months from March 1, 1945, there were 17,000 separate Pacific sailings. Had an invasion of Japan been required we had 3,033 ships ready for the job.

These miracles were wrought in spite of the navy's losses and in addition to arming the British and Russian armies on top of the American army. The record shows conclusively —if proof were needed for any doubters—that the United States is stronger than all of the countries in the world. That fact makes our groveling and sycophancy in foreign policy as idiotic as it is contemptible.

AMERICAN REFORMS IN JAPAN

In Japan the American control authorities headed by Gen. MacArthur have shackled the government and freed the people. In Germany the joint allied control destroyed the government and seems to be destroying the people. Every report from Europe is distressing and pessimistic. Winter is bringing the worst terror the continent has known for centuries. Japan also will not have a soft life. Like Germany it must face lack of food and fuel. Its great advantage is that American policy is not, as yet, beset by interference from other quarters.

American policy is to free the masses of the Japanese people from laws, institutions, men, traditions, and customs which have kept them lowly and poor. The land reform ordered by the supreme command to be carried out by the Japanese government is one of the most remarkable events in the relations of nations. The dead hand of feudalism is to be removed from the land. Large estates are to be broken up.

It may be said that there is a parallel in the Russian procedure in East Prussia and in other parts of Germany detached, in present opinion, permanently, and in Poland. There is a difference even if part of it seems composed of imponderables. Russia is planting settlers and implanting ideas in territory gained in the war or brought within its orbit by the war. The United States is changing the land system of a country from which it expects nothing but peace and, under better conditions, a jointly satisfactory trade. We also may be trying to implant an idea, that a free farmer makes a better citizen of a self-governing country.

Every order issued from MacArthur's headquarters has been either a benefit to the Japanese people or a punishment for Japanese responsible for injuries to other people. There has been nothing hasty, hysterical, or overreaching in the American administration. Day by day certain instructions go out to an apparently competent Japanese official, to a department of government, or to the Japanese premier for transmission to parliament.

We have given the Japanese a comparatively free press and free radio. Political prisoners have been freed and the people have been told that they have the right to say what they please, have any opinions they want to have, and form political parties to express their opinions.

When Gen. MacArthur wants a man jailed because of complicity in what are called war crimes, the word goes out that he's wanted and presently he appears at the jail entrance with his baggage. Gen. Yamashita has been condemned to death by a military commission in Manila. Gen. Homma will answer in Manila for what the Japanese soldiers did to the American prisoners of war after the surrender of Bataan and at Corregidor. All of these proceedings seem to be rational, orderly, and beneficial to the people of the conquered nation. Certainly they afford a distinct contrast to what has happened in Germany under the joint control of four nations who seem unable to agree in many particulars, and who certainly are creating more future trouble than good.

It is conceivable that American troops may withdraw from Japan without a mass hatred following them. That, as matters now stand, is impossible as to Germany. Presently, no doubt, the American government will yield to pressure and allied interference will appear in Japan. A division of Russian troops is expected to arrive in the home islands in January and other nations will send in their quotas. Something in the nature of a joint control seems to be in the prospects. None of this will be of any benefit to the occupation of Japan.

If the United States yields to any extensive interference with the American supreme command, there soon will be reason to regret it. New problems will be created as other troops arrive. All their arrival will do will be to satisfy the self-esteem of countries which had almost nothing to do with the conquest of the islands.

THE DEEP WATER DREAM

This is the story of the Dean Richmond and the Madeira Pet, first vessels to make unbroken voyages between Chicago and England as cargo carriers. We condense the narrative from an article [first of a series] by Col. H. A. Musham [this column's Captain John] in Inland Seas, quarterly bulletin of the Great Lakes Historical association, vol. 1, no. 5.

* * *

Canals around the rapids of the St. Lawrence, providing a nine-foot channel, were completed in 1848. Then Thomas Richmond, an energetic citizen who was active in lake navigation, built the Dean Richmond, a flush-decked, two-masted schooner of 375 tonnage, for a trans-Atlantic experiment. On July 14, 1856, she sailed from Chicago with 5,000 bushels of wheat, took on 9,325 bushels more at Milwaukee, and headed toward Liverpool. She arrived in good condition on Sept. 29. Her logbook recorded 41 days between Chicago and Quebec, 36 days between Quebec and Liverpool. She was sold there for $27,000.

* * *

This American achievement inspired a British repetition, promoted by W. J. Burch, a Canadian who had been investigating Chicago's commercial possibilities. The Madeira Pet, a small brigantine, was chartered and loaded with 240 tons of cargo, consisting of iron bars, pig iron, glass, hardware, steel, earthenware, and paint.

* * *

The Madeira Pet sailed from Liverpool on April 24, 1857, and reached the Chicago pier 80 days later. Her arrival caused public excitement and official celebrations. The vessel was towed up the river, docked at La Salle st., and boarded by hundreds of natives. The next day brought oratory, band music, and cannonading in Dearborn park, where the public library now stands.

* * *

The Madeira Pet started back to Liverpool on Aug. 5 carrying 4,000 salted hides and a batch of calf skins. Civic dignitaries were aboard for a junket. They sailed a few miles, drank toasts in honor of captain and crew, and returned by tugboat, rosy with the spirit of marine adventure. The homeward run was much faster than the westward voyage.

NEW-FALLEN SNOW

Again, the ancient miracle renewed!
As fragile flakes more soft than eiderdown
Endow the earth in soft beatitude
And pristine white redeems the autumn's brown.
See how these tiny fingers find their way
To help the sere and tired fields forget
The plow, the harrow, and the fall's decay
Beneath the snow's caressing coverlet.
So now the little flakes of peace shall fall
To hide the conflict's dark and ugly scars
Until their benediction comforts all
Who feared the night had lost the calm of stars.
Have patience yet a while, the pain runs deep,
But He hath given His beloved sleep.

They Were Mexican Dollars

A clamor for more information about the silver dollars in the flooring of the old Palmer House barbershop has brought the following footnote from that hostelry's public relations department:

When the hotel was opened in 1873, the barbershop was a concession under the management of Col. W. S. Wooden. He decorated the floor of his shop with American dollars. A veteran employe of the Palmer family states that these coins numbered 825.

Three years later [1876] the federal government passed a law which prohibited such use of the coinage. The American dollars were then pried out and were replaced with Mexican dollars. After these coins had been worn smooth they were replaced by a fresh collection, also Mexican. Years later [no date given] the silver dollar flooring was replaced by tile.

LEST I FORGET

I dream no more of guns, and planes, and ships;
The storm has passed. . . . Strange laughter on my lips,
Lips that short days ago were stiff with fear . . .
Have I forgotten, now that you are near,
The heavy hearts, the ships that did not come
Above the blue horizon? There are some
Whose eyes are dark with memories and pain,
Too late they saw the dawn of peace again.
Each step of war's red path their hearts have known,
O God, be kind to those who walk alone.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. W. S. C. writes: "My son, a captain in the marine corps overseas, expects to be discharged in January or February. Will he receive the $300 mustering out pay?"

Yes, unless he is placed on the retired list with pay for disability.

Mrs. J. S. writes: "Am I supposed to receive any allotment from the government? My husband was overseas for three and one-half years and returned to the United States last July. We were married in August and he was discharged from the army in October. I have been told I should have received an allotment for August, September, and October, and I have not received any payments. Is it possible that wives of men who marry after being returned from overseas for discharge do not get paid?"

Whether you ever were entitled to family allowance depends on whether application was made by your husband after your marriage and whether deduction ever was made from his pay. If you were married after July 15 the first month for which allowance could have been paid was September. If your husband did make application and deductions were taken from his pay, he should write to the office of dependency benefits, Newark, N. J. If he did not make application, it is too late now.

Mrs. M. B. asks: "Can you tell me the monthly pay of a fireman first class aboard a submarine? How much is an enlisted man's pay increased when he is on sea duty?"

The base pay is $114. Fifty per cent, or $57, is added for submarine duty. Base pay is increased 20 per cent for sea duty or overseas service.

THE NOTORIOUS STREPTOCOCCI

EVERY one has a champion and, in the microscopic world, the bacteria would probably select streptococci as their heroes. Other microbes may be harder to kill or can produce a more terrifying disease, but these little fellows seem to be everywhere and are responsible for a wide assortment of ailments. Furthermore, they seldom travel alone and prefer to arrange themselves in chains, giving the appearance of a string of round beads.

Many infections are blamed on the "critters." They also often team up with other bacteria in doing their damage. Now and then they invade tissues that have been weakened previously by other germs and, in these circumstances, the outcome is usually more serious. Many types are known to exist, but the most famous are the beta-hemolytic and viridans.

Focal infections, especially those in the larynx, tonsils, and teeth, contain these organisms in a high percentage of cases. Should they travel from here to distant organs, diseases such as iritis, appendicitis, or arthritis may result. By eliminating the source, marked improvement will be noted.

The well known "strep throat" is another of their accomplishments. The danger in this condition is not essentially the local disturbance, but in the possibility that infection may spread, either to nearby structures or into the blood stream. Pneumonia or ear troubles may occur. When the vital fluid is invaded, the patient becomes septic and the heart may be damaged. Bright's disease and rheumatic fever also are listed as complications. Throat infection of this type is contagious frequently, and may reach epidemic proportions. Consequently it should never be neglected and in no other disorder does the adage, "a penny wise, pound foolish," apply so well.

Scarlet fever also is preceded by a streptococcal infection of the throat and the typical rash results from the toxins manufactured by the bugs. It is generally a disease of childhood, but adults are not always immune. Thruout the years the malady has lost some of its "sting." According to Holt, the mortality often reached 40 per cent during the 19th century but at present it varies between 1 and 3 per cent.

Another of the dreaded diseases is puerperal sepsis, or childbed fever. Prior to our knowledge of its contagious nature and methods of prevention, it was the scourge of all maternity hospitals. Erysipelas is an example of the versatility of the organism. In this skin ailment, the streptococci actually invade the tissue space, causing a slightly raised and reddened area associated with fever and toxic symptoms. Recovery is the rule, but it must not be considered too lightly in view of the possibility of complications.

Never before has the physician been so well equipped to deal with these disorders. Penicillin and the sulfonamides don't like the streptococci and, when the smoke of the battle has passed, the drugs usually win.

NOSE LIGHTS UP

E. M. writes: Why does my nose get red when I am out in the cold air?

REPLY

This is a common phenomenon, perhaps because the organ is so designed that it is exposed to the elements. Since the response of our blood vessels to cold varies, every one reacts individually. Furthermore, if the capillaries in this area have been damaged previously by frostbite or other disorders, they will not function adequately when wintry blasts blow.

GURGLING

K. L. writes: Whenever I drink fluids they swish around in my stomach for some time. The noise is quite distinct. Is there something wrong?

REPLY

In the absence of an obstruction, liquids do not stay in the stomach any length of time. But anything that is swallowed may set up a reflex which starts the intestines in motion. The resulting sounds come from this area rather than the gastric pouch.

X-RAY SICKNESS

I. writes: I have recently been given a series of X-ray treatments and have not been comfortable since the first exposure. I have no appetite and suffer vague pains all over my body. I'm worried.

REPLY

If the means justify the end, you should not be too alarmed. These symptoms will disappear in due time.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Smilin' Jack Betrays a Trust

Mr. Zack Mosley had better watch his hero's step. The United States military forces long have been accustomed to trailing a sad second to his dapper Smilin' Jack. If our forces in time got around to rocket guns and simulated rocket planes, it was only because Smilin' Jack first demonstrated their feasibility. If we won the war, it was because Smilin' Jack was on our side. If Smilin' Jack could do the impossible successfully, in time the army, navy, and marines could follow suit.

This being true, young gentlemen in uniform have become accustomed to following the antics of this handsome oaf just so they will have an idea of what they are going to be ordered to do next. Sometimes it seemed a trifle discouraging after weeks under fire, seeing men around them go out to certain death and not come back, to pick up a paper and see that Smilin' Jack had gone out to a more certain death and had always come back, but still they stuck with him. With the post-war, however, has come the first touch of disillusion. The following letter from Pfc. John L. Meyer II. explains it deftly:

"A great blow has come to the equilibrium of my roommate and myself. It began when a certain hero of a comic strip noted for the death of any character who threatened to disrupt the set pattern of action became endangered himself. Heroes have been endangered before, but the plot had gotten to the state where this one's demise would have been a distinct advantage.

"Neither of us objects to a little real drama in a comic, but it seemed literary cowardice to get rid of a character just because he or she is too tough to handle. The rare deaths in 'Terry and the Pirates' are poignant and in taste; those in 'Dick Tracy' are poetic justice.

"At any rate we were mildly attracted by the course of action in this comic when a dozen innocent victims were machine gunned, a novel twist even for this particular story. But our casual interest became suddenly riveted by the hero's undertaking of a suicide mission to prevent the atomic bombing of what the author claimed were the two most important cities in the United States [No mention was made of Chicago!].

"The hero had little chance of coming thru, for the author had overrated even the atomic bomb [a bit of doing, that], and a sudden, wild hope arose. Would this man be a pioneer in killing off the hero of his strip? What a precedent! If others were to follow, perhaps all the handsome, irresistible dogs would be gotten rid of in a few years. [The writer of this letter, needless to say, is small and thin.]

"My hope was that the hero would die and the author go back to aardvark breeding; but my roommate, less an idealist, feared only the hero's return as a ghostly superman. Neither of us had so little faith as to believe the author would welsh on us. The mission of the story was accomplished with an explosion which looked like that of a small Roman candle, but which was described as shaking some of the nearer planets.

"One thing must be admitted: By this time the main reason for our haste in tearing open our mailed copy of THE TRIBUNE was to see just what would occur. After a brief period of mourning, too sad for long duration, who should walk in with hair slicked back and mustache impeccably trimmed, but the hero himself!

"'Military secrecy' forbade any logical explanation of his escape!

"We had been taken by a latter day Barnum. Never, never, again!"

AN 18 YEAR OLD PRONOUNCES JUDGMENT

Highland Park, Ill., Dec. 6—Shortly after the end of the war last summer, I withdrew my application for enlistment in the service, because four years in the peace time navy did not appeal to me. At the same time, I realized I would probably be drafted. Last week I registered in accordance with selective service regulations.

Being in the peace time service is not exactly my idea of preparing for the future. You voters, instead of electing diplomats who could keep us out of another war, are electing men who want a permanent army so we'll be prepared for the next war. People, usually those who have never been in the army, say one year will do us good. Americans have lived very well, without being in the armed forces. Whether it will do us any good is a matter of opinion, of course. People who are authorities [they think] on armies, altho they have never been in them, are the same people who know about so much about voting. And they elect such an administration as we've had for the last 13 years.

The only reason I can see for this "Truman youth movement," is to keep employment and government spending at a maximum. For 13 years this nation has been run by men that I wouldn't trust to mow my lawn, because of lack of brains. We would be better off if we established schools for illiteracy and mental institutions in Washington. How can any voter be so blind as to okay this New Deal?

And we 18 year olds, who have no power to do anything in government, are faced with a year or two in the peace time service, in order to keep up what was once the WPA. I and others my age had plans for the future and have run up against a cement wall, made of cement headed amateur politicians.

I appeal to the voters to help out my generation and to save our country. If you would spend a year studying American government you would all be better off. I hope when I am able to vote, my generation will have better taste in selecting statesmen, instead of encouraging militarism. ROBERT CARLSEN

DEFENDS HINES HOSPITAL

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 10—As a veteran of World War II., recently discharged from Hines hospital, I feel that I cannot let the letter of John G. Peterson go unanswered. Like himself, I waited in the hall all day and part of the night before getting a bed. But any one who follows the news in THE TRIBUNE must know that all hospitals are short of help. Hines is no exception.

Hines was built for the men from World War I. Now, with the veterans of this war returning and after discharge needing hospitalization, the facilities are greatly overtaxed and finding room for all of the men is quite a problem. My stay at Hines, a little less than two months, was spent in the same C-4 that Mr. Peterson mentions and I have nothing but praise for the treatment I received there. I found the personnel at all times courteous, considerate, and understanding.

ERWIN ZIEMER

WHAT, NO ACCOLADE?

New Castle, Ind., Dec. 6—Americans by the score are receiving the order of the bawth. This seems to me a little bit of right-o now that we are fast becoming, under the wise policies of the Great Humanitarian, a de facto colony of Britain. We already have Sir Ike and Sir Doug and others. All stout fellows, what!

But the thing that gripes me is the shabby manner in which the decoration is conferred—pinned on by a consul or an ambassador. Hardly cricket, I can tell you. It may be, however, that these honors are becoming so common that we may a bit later find them being distributed for his majesty's government thru one of our mail order houses. Beerbohm [as usual] anticipates me in this thought, for he wrote long ago: "It is quite possible that, in the next century, forms of application for knighthood will be sent out annually to every householder and be thrown with other circulars into the waste paper basket. Further still in the future, knighthood may be one of the lighter punishments of the law. 'Forty shillings or a knighthood' sounds possible."

In the meantime, however, I think our boys are entitled to all the pomp and circumstance, or "the works," as we say. I would have our man enjoy the thrill of boarding the train at Paddington for Windsor, the nervous ache in the waiting room just before his entrance, and above all the marvelous thrill of the touch of the royal sword on his shoulder just before he arises as Sir ——.

FOR VETS OF WAR III.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 8—Since we are so wealthy and so generous, a number of friends propose that congress pass a law permitting men conscripted for World War III. to borrow money on the same basis that loans are made to England. This would mean that a returning service man or the dependent of a dead one would be permitted to borrow, say $10,000, on a 35 year basis, at 2 per cent interest, with the understanding that both principal and interest would be repaid if and when the borrower had the money, with no other use for it. 2. If your tenancy is by the month, he can increase the rent on 30 days' notice.
3. You state no facts such as to indicate that he is under any obligation to decorate.

M'ARTHUR FARM REFORM UNDER FIRE IN JAP DIET

Ten Years Out of Date, Legislators Say

TOKYO, Dec. 14 [Friday]—(AP)—Seven members of the house of representatives today criticized Gen. MacArthur's farm reform directive as based upon outdated conditions. They told newsmen it applied to rural Japan of 10 years ago and that those conditions no longer are true today.

Farmers profited heavily during the war, said Rep. Mamoru Nagano of Hiroshima prefecture, and accumulated bank accounts averaging 5,000 yen [$333]. Nagano, an industrial manager, asserted that government figures of a 1,000 yen average debt for tenant farmers were misleading.

"Debts usually were carried on the books despite the farmers' ability to liquidate them because the government farm credit organization wants them to remain in business," Nagano said.

Pass Vote Reform Today

The MacArthur ordered farm bill expropriating extensive lands and providing for its acquisition by tenants on easy, long term payments is in committee.

Election reform legislation is expected to be passed by the house of peers today.

While the diet wrestled with political reform, Gen. MacArthur attacked on the economic front, directing the Japanese government to inaugurate a program to provide food, clothing, housing, medical care, financial aid, and welfare services for unemployed this winter.

The relief plan, when ready, must be submitted in detail for allied approval. The government also was ordered to take all necessary steps to prevent discrimination in distribution of food. Allied headquarters meanwhile began surveys of food consumption, nutrition, and physical health of Japanese.

Order People Fed

The Japanese government was told by the house of representatives to do something to alleviate suffering of the war stripped people.

The house, in a resolution sponsored jointly by all political parties and approved without a dissenting vote, warned that many victims of American bombings "are still aimlessly wandering on the scorched earth," and blamed "bureaucratic red tape" for failure of reconstruction plans.

The election reform bill would double the electorate to 45,000,000 voters by granting women suffrage and reducing the balloting age to 20 years.

Shunichi Suzuki, election expert of the home ministry, explained that the government measure provides also for drastic redistricting and a wider choice of candidates for the house of representatives. The legislation does not involve revision of the house of peers, the reform of which was promised earlier by Premier Shidehara.

Paris Brothels to Close First Time in History

PARIS, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Paris municipal council today unanimously passed an ordinance closing all houses of prostitution, alleging the houses collaborated with the Germans during the nazi occupation. This marked the first time in French history such a law had been passed.

M'ARTHUR LAYS CYCLOTRON RUIN TO PATTERSON

TOKYO, Dec. 13 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today that he had ordered Japan's five cyclotrons destroyed upon specific instructions from the office of Secretary of War Patterson.

Nevertheless, the headquarters spokesman added, after the destruction of the atomic research equipment was practically completed, "an inquiry was received from the chief of staff's office in Washington as to the feasibility of shipping intact a cyclotron from Japan for re-erection in the United States."

Critics in America have compared the destruction with nazi book burning and similar curbs upon the quest for knowledge in Europe. After the chief of staff's request about shipping a cyclotron to America was received, "attention was invited to the previous directive and reports which had been made thereon."

LONDON, Dec. 13 [Reuters]—Police will search private homes in Budapest for hoarded flour after Dec. 20, by which time a government decree requires housewives to register their stocks, the Budapest radio said today.

50 New Members

The Chicago lodge, No. 4, of the Elks last night took in 50 new members, among them the three Tuohy brothers, at ceremonies in the Continental hotel. The Tuohys, State's Atty. William J., Superior Judge John M., and Atty. Daniel D., all transferred from the Elks lodge in Bloomington. Included also in the initiation was James F. Ashenden, first assistant state's attorney.

The new members were welcomed by Judge Floyd Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court and former national past grand exalted ruler of the Elks. The initiation officers were Frank J. Jacobson, exalted ruler; Stuart Krohn, leading knight; Joseph B. Crowley, loyal knight, and Ian P. Macdonald, lecturing knight.

REPORT RUSSIA TO LET U.S. FLY CHINESE TROOPS

PEIPING, China, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Chinese paper Ta Kung Pao reported today that the Russians had agreed with the Chinese government to permit use of American transport planes and pilots for moving Chinese troops to Changchun, capital of Manchuria.

There was no word from American sources on whether the Americans would take such action.

The paper, quoting its correspondent in Changchun, said Russian occupation authorities had fully agreed to this and other Chinese suggestions for the troops' entry and that a small airborne advance force already was in Changchun to prepare for the main arrivals.

It also was reported here that the Russians might delay still further beyond the new Jan. 3 deadline their departure from Manchuria in order to aid the Chinese government forces in establishing control.

Chiang Flies to Peiping

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 13 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who made a surprise flying visit to Peiping, was believed engaged today in conferences dealing with the imminent return of Manchuria to China.

Chiang slipped quietly out of Chungking Tuesday for his first visit to Peiping in 10 years.

"I am most anxious to know all the facts about the wrongs you suffered during the period of Japanese occupation," the generalissimo said in a short message to the people. He said he also wanted the facts "of any illegal acts which take-over officials of the national government committed after the restoration."

Invites Complaint Letters

The Chinese leader invited civilians to send him letters citing complaints and promised that if the facts were established the offenders would be severely punished.

With Chiang were Madame Chiang, his chief aide de camp, Chen Hsi-tseng, director of the bureau of general affairs, and Cheng Yen-feng, deputy secretary-general of the Kuomintang.

Chinese reports said the generalissimo's elder son, Chiang Chuhg-kuo, special commissioner for foreign affairs in Manchuria, would fly in from Changchun to give him a first hand account of conditions in the territory.

Peiping's air fields thundered with the traffic of planes flying the 5th air borne division to Changchun. Other government troops were in Mukden, and were last reported to have pushed 40 miles to the north unchallenged by Chinese Communists.

Ship Hits Mine; More Than 100 Die Off China

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 13 (AP)—A small cargo ship carrying 200 Chinese struck a mine at the mouth of the Yangtze river and sank within five minutes with a loss of more than 100 lives early today. Only 90 survivors were rescued in the predawn darkness and five of those died. The 1,050 ton vessel was en route to Shanghai from Foochow.

BRITON ASKS UNO IN NONPOLITICAL EUROPEAN SITE

Fears U. S. Passion Will Influence Decisions

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Dec. 13—In the longest speech delivered before the united nations preparatory commission, P. J. Noel-Baker, British minister of state, today pleaded that the united nations' permanent home be established in Europe instead of the United States.

He told the delegates of 51 nations that if the new world order made its headquarters in a large country, such as the United States, deliberations would be influenced by political passions. He insisted the organization should settle in a "non-political, non-national" small country in Europe.

Delegates will resume debate tomorrow with Mexico and Ecuador leading off in favor of the United States. Then the commission will decide the question of procedure, whether to vote on Europe vs. the United States or to follow the Canadian proposal for secret balloting on individual cities.

Fears Fate in Big Country

Noel-Baker expressed fear over the fate of the infant world organization if it is nurtured in a great country like the United States.

"Opinions among the different governments and among the leading and strongest governments will inevitably be divided from time to time," he said, "and unless we are lucky passions may some times be aroused and feeling may run high and decisions be in doubt until the last moment when they are made.

"In a large and powerful country there is bound to be an active, vigorours, exciting national political life carried on side by side with the activities of the institutions we shall create. Those national policies will be, so to speak, competitors for the attention of all concerned."

Calls Europe World's Center

He claimed that Europe was "the natural, inevitable communications center of the world, nearest to Russia, the middle east, India, and Africa, and 40 national capitals and finally contended the Europeans by their experience in World War II, would recognize the danger of another conflict and appreciate the collective methods by which hostilities could be averted.

Delegates from Luxemburg and Norway also bid for Europe while the soviet Ukraine and Argentina favored the United States. The Egyptian delegation outlined arguments for both sides, but stayed on the fence.

COMMITTEE O.K.'S 2D FILTER PLANT APPROPRIATION

The city council finance committee yesterday approved a million dollar appropriation in the 1946 budget for a filtration plant near Chicago av. and the north branch of the Chicago river which would service the area bounded by Pershing rd. and west city limits, Diversey av., and the lake.

Also approved were a tentative fund of 4 million dollars to be raised by selling water fund certificates and a million dollar item for completing the filtration plant at 79th st. and the lake. Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said a third plant ultimately will be built near Montrose av. and the lake.

The committee, of which Ald. Bowler [25th] is chairman, will meet with Mayor Kelly tomorrow night to whip the budget into shape for the city council. A public hearing will be held late this month.

DEAD on your FEET from FATIGUE?

Then read about this sensible, drugless way to guard against that tired feeling

It is surprising, and shocking too, how many people go along day after day so tired, so tuckered out most of the time, that they find it difficult to do their work and impossible to enjoy life. It isn't that they are sick. There's nothing organically wrong—just that awful fatigue!

Now, while fatigue may be due to a number of causes, it has been proved that in a surprising number of cases, fatigue is due to a lack of three factors in your daily diet—thiamine, essential for the normal functioning of the nervous system; riboflavin and niacin.

All three are factors in B Complex vitamins. All three are equally important.

The sensible, honest and inexpensive way to guard against B deficiency ... the way to help avoid that constant nagging fatigue ... is to supplement your diet with BEXEL. BEXEL is a remarkable product—an easy-to-take capsule which contains concentrated amounts of thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. If you will take BEXEL over a reasonable period and if, at the same time, you will follow the common sense rules of getting a reasonable amount of sleep, and eating a good diet, then ... well, you'd be amazed how many thousands of people have been helped to joyous vitality and radiant energy by BEXEL.

BEXEL contains no artificial stimulants that let you down. It is the new, modern way to insure against loss of energy and fatigue due to dietary deficiency of B Complex.

Get BEXEL today in your drug store. Or ask your doctor what he thinks of this wonderful preparation. Made by one of America's outstanding laboratories—McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.

SAILOR ON SHIP NOBODY WANTS LOSES SANITY

Captain, Chicagoan, Tells of 7 Months' Confusion

Life aboard the Liberty ship John Martin Miller, which wandered the seas for six months with a cargo of bombs that nobody wanted, grew so monotonous and hard on the crew that one man lost his sanity and had to be removed for the safety of the rest of the crew, it was learned yesterday.

The John Martin Miller, only one of 190 ships idle in the Pacific because the navy has no use for them and because of a confusion of orders, is commanded by Capt. Allan Wood, 30, of 7123 Luella av. Capt. Wood is the owner of the Longwood Country club, formerly the Casa del Mar Country club at Dyer, Ind.

Insane Sailor Shoots Himself

In a letter received four days ago by Miss Estelle Hunter, a family friend with whom he made his home in Chicago for 10 years, Capt. Wood also disclosed that a crewman on a ship near Batangas bay, Philippine Islands, went mad and shot himself because of the monotony and uncertainty of future orders.

Capt. Wood said his ship had not tied up at a dock for seven months, that it had difficulty obtaining food supplies, and the crew was in such a mental condition that the men had been allowed extra privileges aboard ship because there was nothing for them to do to pass the time.

The Liberty ship left Baltimore, Md., last April 15 for Europe, ran into a storm and put into the Azores, and then was rerouted to Charleston, S. C., when the war in Europe ended. It soon was dispatched to the Pacific, and traveled from island to island trying to discharge its cargo of 7,700 tons of bombs, the senate war investigating committee was told Wednesday in Washington, D. C.

Unloaded but Without Orders

Part of the cargo was unloaded at Tinian and the ship then journeyed to Saipan, Okinawa, and finally to Batangas. The Tagalog Times, a mimeographed army newspaper published by soldiers at Batangas, stated in its Nov. 24 issue that unloading began Oct. 22.

Capt. Wood's letter said the ship now was completely unloaded and awaiting orders, which had not been received when the letter was written two weeks ago. The shortage of food aboard was so serious, he said, that he scrounged turkey from the captain of an incoming ship to provide Thanksgiving dinner on the John Martin Miller.

The Tagalog Times, in its story of the odyssey of the ship, declared the crew and officers volunteered on V-J day to dump the cargo and save months of expense at $2,500 a day but could not obtain government approval to do so.

CONTINUE OPA PRICE CONTROL, CIO AGENT SAYS

Continuance of office of price administration controls was urged last night at a meeting of the Chicago Federation of Consumers in the Roosevelt college, 231 S. La Salle st.

J. Prosten, international representative of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers' union, asserted that abandonment of OPA controls would make packing house employes the poorest employes in the nation because they could not meet rising prices. At another point Prosten warned 15 million workers are ready to strike for a 25 cent hourly wage boost.

Other speakers were Amos Coffman, chief enforcement attorney for the regional OPA, and Helen Dodderidge of the United States agriculture department. The meeting was called to protest the demand of the National Association of Manufacturers for the ending of OPA controls.

$500 MINK JACKET LOST

Mrs. Adele Jaffe, 1254 S. Keeler av., asked police to help find her mink jacket, valued at $500, which she lost while traveling between the Illinois Central station and her home.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Dec. 14—Death of Washington

TOWARD evening of Saturday, Dec. 14, 1799, Tobias Lear, George Washington's secretary, went to the bedside of the desperately sick Washington and took his hand.

"I find I am going," Washington said to him, "my breath cannot continue long." He gave instructions about the disposition of his affairs and asked his secretary whether he thought of anything which it was essential for him [Washington] to do in the short time remaining to him. Lear assured him that there was nothing, but expressed the hope that he was not so near his end. Gently and smilingly Washington insisted that he was, but observed that since death was a debt which all must pay, he looked upon it with resignation.

A little later the three physicians who were attending Washington gathered by his bed. "I thank you for your attention," he said, "you had better not take any more trouble about me, but let me go off quietly."

The tortured hours dragged along. Martha Washington sat at the foot of her husband's bed. Dr. James Craik, the general's long time friend and physician, huddled by the fireside and sought to control his grief. Lear was at the bedside, trying to ease the dying man's pain by helping him to change position frequently.

About 10 o'clock Washington withdrew his hand from Lear's and felt his pulse. Dr. Craik came over to the bed. The dying man's hand fell limp from his other wrist. The doctor put his hand over Washington's eyes.

"Is he gone?" Mrs. Washington asked. Lear, unable to speak, indicated by a gesture that he was. "'Tis well," she said. "All is over now. I have no more trials to pass thru. I shall soon follow him."

Washington died at Mount Vernon, Va., of a quinsy sore throat which he had contracted two days previously while riding about his land in rain and snow. He was 67.

MEAT SUPPLIES FOR CIVILIANS TO BE CUT 9% IN '46

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—The agriculture department said today civilian supplies of meat will decline about 9 per cent from present levels of consumption during the first quarter of 1946.

These supplies will be sufficient to allow per capita consumption at an average annual rate of 150 pounds. The department said civilians have been consuming meat in recent weeks at a rate of 165 pounds.

It is expected that civilians will get more pork than during the present quarter, about the same amount of lamb and mutton, but less beef and veal. Hogs are beginning to move to market in peak volume for the season, while sales of beef cattle are declining.

GEN. SKELTON OF FAIRFIELD, ILL., COMMANDS 33D

WITH THE 33D DIVISION IN JAPAN, Dec. 13—Brig. Gen. Winfred G. Skelton of Fairfield, Ill., has assumed command of the 33d division, formerly the Illinois national guard, it was announced today. He succeeds Maj. Gen. P. W. Clarkson, who was named commander of the 10th corps.

Brig. Gen. W. G. Skelton

Gen. Skelton was former commanding officer of the 149th infantry regiment, 38th division. Under his leadership, the 149th liberated the Bataan corridor and massed a record kill of 9,000 Japs on Luzon.

He holds the legion of merit, silver star, bronze star, and air medal. Gen. Skelton is a graduate of West Point, the infantry school at Ft. Benning, Ga., and the command and general staff school at Ft. Leavenworth.

TELL OF SINKING OF JUNEAU AND RESCUE OF TEN

Survivors Had to Beat Off Attacks by Sharks

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—One of the great dramas of the war—the loss of the light cruiser Juneau and the harrowing experiences of her 10 survivors—has been pieced together from scattered sources in navy department files.

The final casualty toll in the ship's loss was 37 officers and 647 enlisted men dead or missing in action.

The Juneau was eight months in service when mortally wounded in her second major action in the battle of Guadalcanal.

Badly crippled by a torpedo, the Juneau was forced to retire from the action. Later the same day, Nov. 13, 1942, she was torpedoed again. She sank within a minute. Among the victims were the five Sullivan brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan of Waterloo, Ia.

Attacked by Sharks

When the water calmed after the ship went under, the survivors huddled on and around life rafts, floats, and debris.

A grim night followed, during which several of the group died. The next day sharks attacked, and one man had the skin ripped off one hand by a shark. That day a plane dropped an uninflated rubber raft about 200 yards away. Despite the sharks one of the men decided to swim for it.

After reaching the raft he inflated it and paddled back. Then with two buddies, one of whom was badly hurt, he decided to try to make land, which he calculated was about 55 miles away.

No Food or Water

The men had neither food nor water. Their equipment consisted of the raft, a pump, paddles, a patching kit, a bailing bag, and a knife.

They paddled until exhausted, rested, and then paddled some more. That was their routine for days, borken by unsuccessful attempts at fishing for food, using shoelaces for a line and a collar pin for a hook. They caught rain water in the bailing bag, which they used as a sea anchor at night.

On the third day, they spotted planes, which turned out to be Japanese. They fell flat on the raft and escaped detection.

On Nov. 20 came a bitter disappointment. They sighted a PBY navy patrol bomber and signalled it, using the blade of the aluminum paddle. The PBY pilot saw them, but before he could come in close, a squall blotted them out.

Battle Storm Nine Hours

A terrific storm followed, and for nine hours the men had all they could do to keep afloat. But they won out and when the weather cleared, they were within sight of San Cristobal, at the lower end of the Solomons.

Early the morning of Nov. 21 they grounded on a coral reef. Ashore, they found friendly natives who fed them and got word to a white trader on a nearby island who sent a boat for them. On the trader's island, they signalled a passing patrol plane which landed and picked them up.

A rescue party then was sent after those who had stayed behind. But it never reached them. Seven of them finally were saved.

Gunner's Mate Allan C. Heyn of Washington, D. C., the sole survivor of a group of 12 who became separated from the others, told how his companions, crazed by the ordeal, fell or dived from their raft to be killed by circling sharks.

"Like travellers in the desert," he said, "these men kept seeing 'mirages' in the water. For example, they insisted that the Juneau was right beneath us on the bottom. She was all lit up, they said, with the crew at their battle stations waiting for the Japs. One man announced he was going down for a cup of coffee and sandwiches. . . .

Try to Eat Gull

"On the sixth day, there were three of us left, a boatswain's mate, a young Mexican, and myself. That was when we got our first food. A seagull lit on the raft, and I wrung its neck. We tried to eat it, but only managed a few mouthfuls.

"That night the boatswain's mate left us. His back had been so badly scorched by the sun that both the skin and flesh were splitting and cracking. He was in real agony. He told us he'd rather swim for land and go down trying than just cling to the raft. He turned and swam off in the dark as if land were just around the corner. We never saw him again.

"The next night, the young Mexican suddenly cried out he was being stabbed. I thought he was just having another crazy spell, but when I grabbed hold of his shoulders I saw he was telling the truth. A giant shark was literally eating him out of my arms as I tried to hang on. He screamed once as he went under. His head reappeared for a second and he screamed again. . . ."

None of the survivors was from Chicagoland.

$418 LOOT TWO GOT AT COLLEGE IS FOUND HERE

Twenty-seven articles, stolen from college dormitories by a young Chicago couple, Eugene and Shirley Magner, were recovered yesterday by police from the home of Alvin Magner, 4572 Milwaukee av., brother of Eugene. The loot, valued at $418, included a .35 caliber pistol, clothing, and college textbooks. Alvin Magner expressed surprise over the arrest of his brother in Greeley, Colo., where the young couple are being held on a charge of larceny after confessing burglarizing dormitories at the Greeley State Teachers' college. He said that he had been puzzled over the oddly assorted items his brother had been sending home.

Find Wreckage of Planes in Alaska Collision

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 13 (AP)—Elmendorf [army air] field headquarters reported today a land rescue crew had reached the wreckage of two P-38 fighter planes which crashed and burned after an aerial collision yesterday. Both pilots apparently died instantly. The accident happened during maneuvers of the 11th air force over the Susitna river area 10 miles from here.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE FROM N. U. INSTRUCTOR

Mrs. Florence Helena Burkhardt, 26, of 140 Sunset rd., Highland Park, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Ralph J. Jady in the Lake County Circuit court in Waukegan from William C. Burkhardt, 27, of 2455 Edgewood rd., Highland Park, a medical student and instructor at Northwestern university. Mrs. Burkhardt charged cruelty and testified that her husband pushed her on several occasions. They were married June 19, 1940, and separated last Oct. 9.

INDIANA SOCIETY OF CHICAGO WILL DINE TOMORROW

"The usual dinner given by the Indiana society is a combination of circus, street carnival, grand opera, chautauqua, literary jubilee, and old home week," the late George Ade, humorist and twice president of the society, once remarked.

The 31st annual dinner of the Indiana Society of Chicago tomorrow evening in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel promises to be all of that, Chester W. Cleveland, editor of the Magazine of Sigma Chi, secretary of the society, and chairman of the dinner, predicted yesterday.

Special Hoosier guests at the Victory dinner will include Adm. Jonas H. Ingram, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet; Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service; former Sen. Samuel D. Jackson; Gov. Green, and Gov. Ralph F. Gates of Indiana. Mark A. Brown, vice president and director of the Harris Trust & Savings bank, will preside.

Mrs. Barbara Kirk Williams Wed in Peru

BY JUDITH CASS

NEWS of a marriage which took place Wednesday in Lima, Peru, is of interest in Chicago, for the bride is Mrs. Barbara Kirk Williams. Her bridegroom is Arthur Howell Williams of Cardiff, Wales, and Puno, Peru, where he and his bride will live.

Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. Hambleton Kirk of Lake Forest, had been expecting to learn of the marriage for some time, but received a cable only yesterday containing scant details. Mrs. Kirk does not expect her daughter and new son-in-law to visit in the near future, as their travels will depend on when he can get away from his business.

Mrs. Williams, whose father is Walter R. Kirk, has been living in South America for some time. Her previous marriage to Lawrence Williams Jr. ended in divorce. Their son, Lawrence Williams III., is serving with the marines in Japan.

Other Wedding News

Nels Magnus Hokanson, his stepdaughter, Mrs. Herbert Metzger [Jane Darrow], and her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Darrow [Anita Straub], have returned from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where Mr. Hokanson's daughter, Miss Alan Hokanson, and William Louis Weber were married last Sunday. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cameron. Mrs. Metzger and Mrs. Darrow attended the bride.

Among the 50 guests present were several former Chicagoans, among them Mrs. Harold Rosenwald, the former Betty Booth of Glencoe; Mrs. Kermit Gordon, the former Molly Grinnell of Winnetka, and Kurt Herbert Adler, former conductor of the Chicago Opera company, and Mrs. Adler.

The former Miss Hokanson attended the Roycemore school and Northwestern university. An accomplished harpist and singer, she has lived in New York City for the last few years and has taken part in concert, radio, and television work while studying for opera.

Mr. Weber, who recently was discharged from the army, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Weber of Los Angeles, Cal., and is a graduate of the University of Southern California. As he is appearing currently in Maurice Evans' production of "Hamlet" in the east, he and his bride will live in New York.

Mrs. Metzger arrived recently from her ranch in Arizona, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Miss Helen Metzger, who will study art here after the first of the year. As Mr. Metzger is expecting a leave from his officer training course in Georgia, he will join his wife over Christmas in the Winnetka home of her mother and Mr. Hokanson. Mrs. Darrow also is expecting her husband, Sgt. Darrow, in time for the holidays, as he has sailed for home from Germany.

On the Calendar

This is the season when invitations are filling the mails. Most of them are formal cards to debut parties, or cheery ones to Christmas gatherings, but some are on the unusual side, such as those which 50 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sim Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Cutter will receive today.

The invitations are in the form of phonograph records and when the recipients play them they will hear Fletcher Butler playing and singing a rhymed verse [to the tune of "Darling, Je Vous Aime Beaucoup"] bidding them to "Come at seven and sing a song" tomorrow evening at "Chez Sims in Bellevue pl." The party will be one of many gathering before the benefit Paris Rendezvous dinner-dance the woman's board of the Travelers Aid society will give in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel.

Also "different" are the carousel decorated invitations a group of young friends of Debutantes Carolyn Kuehnle and Betty Bennett just have received. "The Jess B. Hawleys, and Carla, too, will be very happy to welcome you, on the night of December twenty-nine, at seven-thirty [the hour we'll dine], at the College Inn, where, as you know, Cab Calloway's 'sending' with Hi de Ho!" the invitations read in part.

About 40 young people and a dozen or more doting parents have been invited to the party, the location of which was the unanimous choice of the former, according to the hosts.

Thru the Looking Glass

There's a good deal of glitter and Christmas hoopla about one vanity and lipstick that have been paired to make a yule twosome, but, unlike a lot of dressily packaged gift items, the glitter hasn't been introduced with these to camouflage a questionable bargain. The vanity and the lipstick are lovely, and their Christmas dressing makes them doubly exciting.

The vanity, which is for loose powder, is of plastic, feather light and of great luster; it's transparent on the bottom, but the top is shiny black, stripped with three bands of mother-of-pearl edged in gold. The clasp is one that should stand lots of wear and tear, and while the metal hinges are dainty little affairs of gilt, they look strong enough to hold up for years.

The lipstick case is metal, and that alone makes it pleasing to the women who are weary of war time makeshifts that get that beaten up look after a month of use. The lipstick it contains is of an excellent texture, creamy, clinging, and true in color.

Both of these, by the way, are products of a fine firm; every woman of knowingness about cosmetics will recognize them as quality gifts.

For the special gift presentation the vanity is set squarely on a little candy striped box. On top of this, fastened with gold tape, is a gay celluloid Christmas tree spattered with sparkly stuff and topped by a small star. The lipstick fits into the exact center of the tree. It's a charming package. The price, $7.50 plus tax. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Holiday Crowd to Tax Capacity of Travel Lines

BY GENEVIEVE SCOTT

Christmas of 1945 promises to be the happiest and most festive holiday in several years for Chicagoans—unless they plan to travel without reservations by plane or train for their yuletide celebrations.

Merchants in the loop area reported yesterday that stocks of toys and clothing were meeting the heaviest holiday demand in the last five years. Railroad officials said every effort was being made to get Christmas mail thru quickly; so far, they had met with success.

The only catch in holiday plans of Chicagoans confronted those who plan to leave the city in Christmas week.

All railroads and air lines reported all accommodations had been reserved and only cancellations would permit late comers to travel. Railroads said that, because of the shortage of both Pullman and passenger cars, no extra space is available.

The Burlington railroad mail train between Omaha and Chicago has been increased from eight to 17 cars, officials said. The New York Central said mail load has increased 5 per cent over that of the same period last year and two 15 car mail trains are run daily between Chicago and New York. All the lines, including the Santa Fe, which reported reservations to the west filled, said that boxcar type mail cars were being put into use. The boxcars must be used on frate trains because of railroad speed regulations.

The Chicago Retail Merchants association reported a peculiarity in Christmas shopping: altho pay roll figures in the Chicago area have gone down since V-J day, the money spent in loop stores has increased sharply.

"It is probably because so many families have their boys home this year and they're bound to make this Christmas a good one," Secretary Fred Gerlitz said.

The State Street council also reported that merchants have merchandise in all lines in their stores and warehouses. Stores have reported that all pre-war toys, except rubber dolls, are in stock, the council said.

Meanwhile party festivities were planned for Chicago's schools, service men's centers, and employes of 32 companies who will get a four day Christmas holiday week-end. The service men's centers at 176 Washington st., 430 S. Michigan av., and 50 E. 49th st. will be open Christmas eve with a total of 3,073 beds.

Forty Christmas trees will be set up in the centers, with presents for all visiting service personnel and a trading post at each place for unwanted gifts.

Christmas eve and Christmas tree telephone calls to home and tickets to the Sonja Henie ice revue in the Chicago Stadium will be awarded as prizes at a "Holly Hop" dance and a carvinal. Children from city public schools will decorate the Christmas trees.

A survey by the Office Management Association of Chicago showed that many firms will have a four day holiday begining Saturday and continuing thru Tuesday.

Spaghetti and Pork Chops Make Tasty Combination

(Other recipes, menus, and food suggestions and news will be found on page 25)

This steaming mound of spaghetti, surrounded by golden brown pork chops cooked in rich tomato sauce, is an easy dish to prepare for a pre-holiday dinner. For added color, garnish the pork chops with sliced onions and green pepper rings. To prepare: [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Dredge six pork chops [about ½ inch thick] in flour and brown on both sides in three tablespoons melted fat. Place one thick onion slice and one green pepper ring on top of each chop, season with salt and pepper, and cover with one can tomato soup combined with an equal amount of water. Cook in a heavy skillet, tightly covered, about 45 to 55 minutes. Meanwhile cook one eight ounce package of spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender; rinse and drain. Arrange spaghetti on serving platter and surround it with the pork chops topped with onions and green peppers. Pour the hot tomato sauce over all. Serves six.

White Collar GIRL

That Career Girl Marriage

After the honeymoon is over, after the first wedding anniversary has come and gone, at last comes a day when you go home to Mother. Not a short trek in this case, as Mother is a thousand miles away.

So you pack a bag and get on a train headed south. Before the train is out of the station you feel empty and lonesome because your heart has stayed behind with him.

The folks, as always, are glad to see you, but there's a subtle difference this time. You know they've worried about you—you never were the placid type, and Mother and Dad have a lot of gray hair because of you. Mother tells you shyly that she doesn't worry any more. Your happiness, she says, shows in your letters and in your face.

Dad takes you aside to get the lowdown on "that husband." "Of course," he says, "I always knew you'd pick the right man." Blustering pride here, covering emotion.

But the days pass slowly, and you are strangely restless. You try to hide this and to bridge the distance by writing many letters. Then, it's time for you to leave. You say goodby to Mother and Dad, touched by their patient resignation that they have so little of you, by their quiet joy in your happiness. You reflect how much your old love for them has been enriched by your new love for him.

On the train, as it speeds you to him, you sort out these thoughts and plan to tell him, but when the moment arrives, all you can say is, "Darling, I'm so glad to see you. Don't ever let me go away without you—don't ever . . ." BAMBI

Piatigorsky Plays Tepid Boccherini and Better Strauss With Chicago Symphony

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw, conductor; Gregor Piatigorsky, cellist. Presented in Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Dec. 13, 1945, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:

Allegro Symphonique.....Poot
"Sea Drift".....Carpenter
Concerto for Violoncello, B flat major.....Boccherini
"Don Quixote," Fantastic Variations on a Theme of Knightly Character.....Strauss
Solo violoncello, Mr. Piatigorsky.
Solo viola, Milton Preves.

With the single exception of Pablo Casals, not heard here in years, Gregor Piatigorsky is the finest living cellist, but he was in a slump when he made his 39th appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall last night. His way with the Boccherini Concerto was singularly lifeless, as was the orchestra's under the direction of Désiré Defauw, with the result that every one on the stage seemed to be sleeping and some of us in the audience were tempted to join them.

Things picked up when Mr. Piatigorsky returned from Strauss' "Don Quixote," with Milton Preves' viola as Sancho Panza, for this is a big, turbulent, and beautiful score not as easy to snooze over as the slighter Boccherini, which demands elegance and grace if it is to yield its characteristic style. But even the Strauss was only comparatively better, for it fell far below older performances in which Mr. Piatigorsky has participated with our orchestra. His own playing was fitful, only now and then rising to the noble breadth and compassionate song of which his instrument is capable, and the death of the Don was more a dry rattle in the cello's throat than the exquisite giving up of the ghost customary in stellar performance.

One of Mr. Defauw's major difficulties as a conductor seems to be that he does not grasp the characteristic style of a work, and therefore is unable to project it. But where the Boccherini was flat and dull, the Strauss at least had some vivid episodes, tho they lacked the fusion of unifying drama. The windmill episode, the ride in the air, the touch of the tambourine, all these had moments of life, but from the score as a whole you heard little of the humor, the pathos, the true tragedy of a noble mind in ruins. They lie in the score, as in Cervantes, but they were not heard last night.

If the character of a work is missing everything has a tendency to sound alike. Marcel Poot's "Allegro Symphonique" was just an unimportant piece of music for orchestra, and it was difficult to discover in the performance of John Alden Carpenter's "Sea Drift" much of the mesmeric ebb and flow that is the chief charm of the seascape.

Notes

"A Joy Forever" ends its Blackstone engagement Saturday night after six performances, and will be withdrawn for revision, possibly reopening in New York Christmas week. . . . Ethel Barrymore comes into the Selwyn Jan. 14 in the revival of Philip Barry's "The Joyous Season," which means that "The Voice of the Turtle" closes Jan. 12 after 67 weeks, which gives it third place behind [1] "Good Night Ladies" and [2] "Kiss and Tell" in determining the town's long run champion. The "Turtle" goes on to Columbus, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Minneapolis before moving to the west coast for Los Angeles and San Francisoc engagements. Meanwhile, because the Chicago understudy, Nancy Holland, has been playing Sally this week, the New York understudy, Patricia Neal, was sent out for protection. Whereupon Martha Scott got laryngitis in New York and Louisa Horton played the Saturday matinée. . . . The Rachmaninoff Memorial Fund committee plans a spring benefit concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, conductor and soloist to be announced.

Knit Blouses and Long Skirts Are Smart Duo

BY REA SEEGER

A showing of new floor length skirts and knitted or sweater top blouses is going over big for two good reasons: First, because of the very tempting name, "candle light fashions," and secondly, because the comfortable, somewhat casual type clothes have a festive glitter. The skirts are most unusual. You may choose between the models of jersey [wool] and clinging crepe. Both floor length and shorter models are available. The long skirts are without trim, but the short skirts have a decorative sequined section along the front in a deep vee outline. The short skirts have a slight flare, the long models are cleverly made with a side soft fold and have a huge button. This achieves a smart flare at the side front.

The knitted or wool jersey tops or blouses come in a slick variety of contrast glitter. Shining black sequins outline the high round necklines, the sleeves are very short, and sometimes there are extra motifs of the sequins to outline a fake pocket or the suggestion of a cuff. All the knitted sweater tops, thus elaborated in flashing black sequins, are of dull black, so that a sleek, very sophisticated all black ensemble is achieved with the two smart pieces. Bright color is available with high necked wool blouses of either kelly green or vivid carbon blue. These are minus the glitters, but make excellent blouses for handsome costume jewelry such as chokers and massive clips and pins.

One of the best tricks for these otherwise simple blouse or sweater tops is that of sewing a sequined emblem or motif to the top. In the same department where these costumes are assembled, will be found these ready-to-sew-on motifs. One with a double eagle worked in bronze, silver, and gold sequins is most dramatic as it is a good eight inches high and about four inches across.

For further information call Rea Seeger, Superior 0200.

Say Shefford for fine cheese

For a hurry-up Shopping Day Meal

Puffy Chevelle Omelet—made with mild and meltable Shefford Chevelle* Brand cheese food: Separate 4 eggs. Add ¼ teaspoon salt to yolks; beat well. Beat whites stiff; add to yolks, mixing gently but thoroughly. Heat skillet. When hot, add 1 teaspoon Blue Bonnet Margarine or butter; quickly add egg mixture. Spread evenly. Cook 5-6 minutes until bottom. Place under broiler 2 minutes until top seems dry. Sprinkle ¼ pound Shefford Chevelle, grated, over half of omelet. Crease omelet lightly across center; fold carefully. Lift out; serve immediately. 4 servings.

When Christmas shopping gets you home late, whip up this Shefford omelet in a jiffy—a good main dish with the added heartiness of cheese food, and the fine, delicate flavor that is Chevelle. It is just one of the many fine Shefford products now at your food store—quality cheese with the good flavor of the good milk that goes into them.

Guests who stayed for luncheon yesterday in the Woman's Athletic club following Col. M. Thomas Tchou's lecture on "America and the Struggle in the Orient" learned that the club's victory unit, which has worked for the American Red Cross for four years, will disband after its last workday, Monday. To mark the close of its activities the unit will give a Victory tea at 3:30 p. m. next Thursday in the club, when reports will be read on its four years of war work. Mrs. Fremont A. Chandler, Mrs. Reimund Baumann, Mrs. Gordon Kellogg, Mrs. A. Clark Moore, Mrs. Jay C. McCord, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr., Mrs. Ernest D. Salmon, and Mrs. Mark Trude have served on the committee for the unit.

Maria Kurenko will be soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra at its final concert of the season tonight in Orchestra hall.

Col. A. H. Bacci, a member of the Cliff Dwellers, who is back from 42 months of service in Europe, will tell of his experiences following dinner tonight in the club.

The Society of Midland Authors will entertain at luncheon for Julian Lee Rayford, novelist and artist who is an authority on American folk tales, at 12:30 p. m. today in the Normandy House. Mr. Rayford recently returned from a USO tour overseas.

Polish Society at N. U. Will Nominate Tonight

Nominations for officers and directors of the Northwestern University Polish society will be made at an 8:30 o'clock meeting tonight in the Ward building on Northwestern's Chicago campus. Announcement of the social calendar for the year will be outlined by Miss Helen Zembrzuski, and a report on a scholarship awarded by the trustees of the society's educational fund will be made by the fund committee chairman, Miss Mary Jane Poranki. Leon A. Kupeck, who heads the society, will preside.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	1 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
7 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

If a finesse is the only way to fulfill a contract, the ordeal might just as well be faced, but if a safer method can be found one should not place himself at the mercy of a 50-50 chance. A finesse can be avoided in a variety of ways. A most interesting method was available to the declarer in today's hand.

The bidding was somewhat involved, but I believe very sound and accurate. West's overcall was a little on the light side, but the non-vulnerable condition might be offered in justification. North's one no trump might appear to be an underbid but such a call must not be confused with the negative response of one no trump which shows an indifferent hand. Where it is made as a free bid it shows a hand that is nearer to a normal two no trump response. Had West passed, North would have responded with a temporary bid of one heart.

South's jump to three clubs is forcing to game and suggests slam possibilities. North bided his time by showing the preference for diamonds and with the trump suit established, South properly showed the ace of hearts. North was now justified in showing that his spade stopper was the ace. South could visualize in North's hand the ace of spades, the king of diamonds, and probably the king of hearts. He therefore went the whole way, with the reasonable chance that no club trick would be lost.

The king of spades was opened and declarer was disappointed in dummy's heart holding. It appeared to him that the only hope was the heart finesse and when this failed he was down one. Declarer had not chosen the proper line of play. Had West not overcalled, he might be pardoned for his choice, but the overcall made it very probable that West held the king of hearts and the proper procedure was to treat the dummy as the master hand for drawing trumps.

The king of spades is taken by the ace and a spade ruffed in the closed hand with an honor. Dummy is entered with the eight of diamonds and another spade is ruffed with an honor. Dummy is reentered with the ten of diamonds and the last spade ruffed with the ace of diamonds. Dummy now gets the lead with the queen of clubs and the king of diamonds draws the last adverse trump on which South discards the two of hearts. The jack of clubs is overtaken and all of South's clubs are good.

The play of the hand is easy; it is the diagnosis that is the difficult part of it all. A hand may be played at "dummy reversal" or "making the dummy the master hand" when dummy's trumps are strong enough to draw the opposition's trumps and the short suit is in the long trump hand. For this play to have succeeded the adverse five trumps had to split 3-2, which was probable.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

Does Your Child Have As Good Care As Dick?

Right from the start, Dick's mother has made sure that her son was getting plenty of sunshine, and a diet adequate in bone-building minerals. Dick's legs will be as strong and straight, and his teeth as sound, as sufficient calcium can make them.

Will your child have these assets? Although even sufficient calcium cannot correct bowed legs after a child is three, an adequate supply is important right through life to keep bones sturdy and help the child look his best. That's one of the main reasons why doctors advise that children get plenty of milk...the best food source of calcium.

However, as children grow older, they are often reluctant to drink all the milk they should have.

That's where Cocomalt can prove invaluable. For not only does Cocomalt give milk a delicious chocolaty flavor that children love, but it is so rich in calcium it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value.* (Also ensures the day's entire minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamin B, and D.)

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder to order from your grocer.

Plain or Fancy Coffee Cake Is Breakfast Treat

BY MARY MEADE

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

A delectable coffee cake, fresh from the oven, can turn an ordinary breakfast into a special party meal without taking too much time. Baking powder biscuit dough is the usual base for these quick coffee cakes, but with a variety of toppings the flavor can be altered without changing the basic mixing methods.

Basic Biscuit Coffee Cake
[Serves six]
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
⅔ to ¾ cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together, cut in shortening, and add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead gently for half a minute. Roll or pat out to fit a 9 inch layer cake pan, cover with any desired topping, and bake in a 400 degree oven for about 20 minutes.

Apple Coffee Cake—Slice two or three apples thinly and arrange over the top of the dough. Sprinkle with ⅓ cup brown sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon and dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Honey may be used in place of the sugar.

Filled Coffee Cake—Divide the dough into two parts, rolling to fit the pan. Lay the first one in the pan, spread with butter, then cover with apricot pulp, slightly sweetened. Add other part of dough and bake.

Crumb Topped Coffee Cake—Cream together ⅓ cup butter and ½ cup sugar. Rub in ⅔ cup flour and 1 tablespoon cinnamon until crumbs are formed. Brush top of dough with egg white, cover with crumb topping, and bake.

Quick coffee cakes are not restricted to breakfast use, for most of them rate high in the dessert class, too.

Quick Mince Coffee Cake
[One 8 inch pan]
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup shortening
2 eggs
½ cup milk
¾ cup mincemeat
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and sugar. Cut in shortening. Beat one egg slightly and add to milk. Stir into dry ingredients, mixing only enough to moisten. Turn into a greased 8 inch pan. Spread mincemeat over the dough. Beat remaining egg slightly, mix with a little cream, and pour over mincemeat topping; sprinkle with remaining sugar and cinnamon mixed together. Bake for one hour in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees].

Banana Dutch Coffee Cake
[Eight inch square pan]
1 cup sifted flour
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup shortening
1 egg, well beaten
2 tablespoons milk
2 ripe bananas
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk. Add to flour mixture all at once and stir until mixture is blended but not smooth. Turn the mixture into a well greased pan and spread evenly over bottom. Peel bananas and cut into ½ inch diagonal pieces. Cover surface of dough with overlapping pieces of banana. Brush bananas with butter. Mix together sugar, cinnamon, and orange rind and sprinkle over top of bananas. Bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees] for about 30 minutes.

Marmalade Glazed Coffee Cake
[Eight inch square pan]
¾ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
½ cup orange marmalade

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add egg. Mix well. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add flour mixture and milk alternately to creamed mixture. Put orange marmalade in a lined, greased 8 inch square pan. Cover with batter. Bake in a moderate oven [375 degrees] 40 to 45 minutes.

Cheese Patties

1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter
3 cups cooked rice
2 cups grated American cheese
1 egg, well beaten
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs

Saute onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Add rice and cheese and stir constantly over low heat until cheese melts. Fold in egg and seasonings and chill. Shape into 12 patties; roll in bread crumbs and saute slowly in shortening until brown on both sides. Serves six.

SAWYER BISCUITS . . . CHICAGO

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 13—Wanta know what "Heat Wave" is? It's the life of Composer Rimsky-Korsakov, which will be played by Brian Donlevy. Yvonne de Carlo, whose "Salome Where She Danced" was a fun day for the critics, altho it made millions, gets the lead opposite Brian. Wonder which of these two will heat the waves. . . . Fred MacMurray is not tying up with a big studio. He'll freelance. Reason he got his release from Twentieth Century so easily is that he'd been given permission to make one outside picture a year, and that made the other stars unhappy. They wanted the same deal. Fred didn't like the last script Fox gave him either, and rather than argue the studio just canceled his contract, hoping to appease the other players. It didn't. . . . Elizabeth Taylor's next at Metro will be "The Rich, Full Life." Isn't that the play Gilbert Miller tried to get her for on Broadway? It should make a finer picture than a play.

He's Peck's Good Boy

Gregory Peck worked all day Sunday at Sonora in "Duel in the Sun" and motored back that night to do scenes for "The Yearling" the following afternoon. But I've yet to hear a yip of complaint from him. However, I don't believe producers will find him so easy from now on. It takes but one little thing to break the camel's back—as it did with Ingrid Bergman and David Selznick. She's signing with Leo McCarey; he gives sweet treatment. . . . Speaking of Leo, a campaign to get him the Irving Thalberg award has been started. No man deserves it more. As both producer and director of "Going My Way" and "The Bells of St. Mary's," his work has not been topped these last two years. . . . As for Ingrid Bergman, her performance in "Bells" gets my choice for the academy award, and Ray Milland should definitely land it for "The Lost Week-End."

Show, Show—It Won't Be Long

After the Broadway opening of "Showboat" next summer, Metro will revive it on the screen with Judy Garland, Gene Kelly, Gloria de Haven, Walter Huston, and Agnes Moorehead. . . . Angela Lansbury goes to New York for "The Harvey Girls" opening. While there, she'll introduce the critics to her new husband, Dick Cromwell—rather he'll be able to introduce them to her. What a story! Five years ago, Angela hit the big town as a refugee from the London blitz; now she returns, a movie star. . . . Dame May Whitty, at present one of the greatest successes in New York, takes time off from her play to write her husband, Ben Webster, daily letters. Talking to Elsie Mendl about cocktails, Dame May confessed: "I just like a bit of gin and vermouth. Some people call it a martini, but I like to think of it as the 'dame's downfall.'"

It Really Made Her a Blondeshell

Wish Lana Turner would go back to that hair-do she had in "Week-End" ["Waldorf," not "Lost"]. It was so soft and feminine. Incidentally, Greg Bautzer stood Lana up for a date with his ex-wife, Buffy Cobb. . . . Lt. Bob Stack will be here over the holidays to get his answer from Evelyn Keyes. . . . Mrs. Kay Kyser is still too ill to attend any big parties—even for her own husband's. . . . Peggy Wood is busier than a bird dog writing a play. No, not for herself. . . . Peter Lorre gave himself a haircut that a loving mother would be ashamed of. Bet his head gets cold at night.

Sally Presents Urgent Pleas from Overseas

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

We are presenting two letters from persons who have suffered the ravages and miseries of war, and have turned to this department for aid. Since agencies cannot be used for special cases, we hope to interest readers who may have ties in the countries from which our applicants write.

From Rotterdam, the Netherlands, T. V. writes: "After five years of war, everything we had is gone. The Germans left nothing. My wife and I have been married six years and are now expecting our first ch. We have no clothes for the baby, nothing at all, nor do we have a family in America to whom we can tell our troubles. We wonder if there is some one else who can help us. In advance, our best thanks."

P. T. of Cavalla, Greece, explains his need as follows: "My family's condition is critical. I am 16 years old and my brother is 8. We are the sons of penniless parents. Our mother is sick, and for the past two years our father has been without work, due to the unemployment situation here. During the four years of German occupation, we sold various pieces of furniture from our home for food, and I continued my education secretly. I want to go to school, that I may be valuable to my community and help to my family, but I have no clothing to fight off the cold weather."

Addresses and mailing information will be supplied to interested readers.

Study Boy, 14; Find Interests, Adults Urged

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Because I believe the following letter will be of interest to many I am quoting it today:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: A lad of 14 has come to live with us lately and we are in a quandary about his studies. He is a nice boy, good natured, and considerate, but all his teachers complain of him as a student.

"He is definitely not interested in books of any description as far as we can find out. He studies for hours on his lessons—that is, he seems to do so—but he evidently doesn't get what he should out of all his work. On the other hand, he loves sports, is a good organizer in that field, and his contemporaries find him a good companion.

"The crux of the matter is that my husband is willing and anxious to give the boy a college education to fit him for his life work, but he certainly doesn't impress either of us as one who would find happiness in such a prospect. What is your opinion?"

This is a big matter to deal with briefly, but I think even a short answer may be of some value to parents who are struggling with a similar situation and who find themselves up against a blank wall as far as any academic achievement is concerned.

Of course this boy gets sick and tired of books, books, books—the printed page. He obviously is not the student type; but still he may find his fulfillment and success in some other field. His ability to organize and his interest in all kinds of sport may prove to be his vocation.

I certainly should not struggle first to fit him for college and then try to push him thru it. Instead I would study the boy and see where his interests really lie, and try to meet those. I certainly should let up on the intense home study, even if his school work is not up to the mark.

He needs different handling. All he is conscious of now at home is his inadequacy. Some way must be found so that he can feel himself successful in other than school work. By bringing this about it is quite possible his academic grades will improve because the burden will be somewhat lifted.

FASHIONS By Angela

The festive holiday already is in full swing, and formal evening parties are even more gala because they are a welcome home to service men and women. Evening dresses for these gay gatherings are exceptionally glamorous, with many nets, net and lace combinations, and delicate sheers vying for popular favor.

An ultra sophisticated black evening gown in which the junior miss will dazzle her favorite beau is the black sheer marquisette at the left. The bodice of this full skirted, decollete gown is trimmed with gold sequins embroidered in a herring bone design across the front. A tiny ruffle tops the bodice which is upheld by the narrowest of shoulder straps.

Another devastating party dress is that of palest pink net in the center. The fitted, heart shaped bodice is embroidered in sequins in an all-over design with a fuchsia flower and green leaf as contrast. This, too, has the ruffle around the bodice and narrow shoulder straps. The skirt is a billowing sea of net.

A rich black lace top of delicate pink sheer combines with a shiny black net skirt at the right. The neck lace bodice is high in back and has butterfly ruffles of net over the shoulders. Two velvet bows accent a rounded shoulder yoke. A tiny peplum stands out over the full skirt, and a band of velvet ribbon accents the waistline.

Women Back Mrs. Rohde for Post in UNO

Board members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs urged in a resolution yesterday that Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, a native daughter of Illinois, be appointed to represent the United States in the general assembly of the united nations organization. The resolution, passed at the closing session of a two day meeting in state headquarters here, is in line with the stand taken by the General Federation at its recent midyear board meeting in Washington, D. C., calling for appointment of a qualified woman as one of this country's five representatives in the assembly.

Decision to support Mrs. Rohde was based on her experience and knowledge in foreign affairs, according to Mrs. Harry W. Raymond, chairman of the revisions and resolutions committee, who introduced the proposal. In the four years she served as a Florida congresswoman Mrs. Rohde was a member of the house foreign relations committee, and she also was United States ambassador to Denmark for four years. She was born in Jacksonville, Ill.

As a measure to prevent inflation the board voted to support continuance of federal legislation for equitable wage ceilings and price control on such basic commodities as food, shelter, and clothing. It also decided to request the Chicago city council to hold a public hearing on findings of the National Education association on certain personnel practices in the Chicago public school system.

Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, state president, conducted the meeting.

Appointments to key positions on the General Federation of Women's Clubs convention committee were completed. The convention will be held from June 17 thru 21 in the Stevens hotel. Named to assist Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, previously appointed general chairman, were Mrs. Chapman, who will serve as co-chairman; Mrs. E. R. Wuerttemberger, vice chairman; Mrs. Hanson G. White, secretary, and Mrs. B. P. Schumacher, treasurer.

To facilitate planning it was decided that personnel for subcommittees would be drawn largely from the Chicago area, altho each group would have representation from other parts of the state.

Love, Lizabeth, and Laughter—All in a Movie

"YOU CAME ALONG"

By Mae Tinée

Love, Lizabeth [what that spelling won't do to harassed copy readers], and a good deal of laughter are the most important and best ingredients of this film, which takes its name from the popular song—just add "from out of nowhere" to the title and you'll have it.

Actually, Lizabeth came from the treasury department, an efficient chaperon to three flyers just returned from foreign service who are to tour the country spurring war bond sales. They are Maj. Collins, Capt. Anders, and Lt. Janaschek [Robert Cummings, Don Defore, and Charles Drake], all wine, women, and song boys. Since you'll probably be hearing it a lot, I might as well explain that their favorite expression is "hubba, hubba" apparently similar to "good, good" and applying particularly to females.

As Ivy Hotchkiss, Liz doesn't quite approve of the gay and giddy trio, but finally she comes to appreciate and understand them, especially the major. It's not long before she's wearing her heart on her sleeve—in fact, it's all over her face as well—but the blithe, kidding officer is stubbornly obtuse about her and blandly refuses to notice that gleam in her eye. Then she learns he hasn't long to live, and there's not much further waste of time.

The film will have a lot of popular appeal—some of the lines and situations are extremely and naturally funny, even if the boys do seem a bit juvenile now and then and the love story is made doubly appealing by the impending and inevitable parting.

Mr. Cummings gives a likable performance, and DeFore and Drake, in lesser roles and with rather repetitious lines, are good support. As for Lizabeth: She has more warmth than Lauren Bacall [I'm sure her resemblance to the Look is not purely accidental] and definitely more beauty, especially when she discards the severe and unbecoming beret intended to make her look business-like in the beginning of the film, but her work is hampered by a monotonously set expression and tone of voice, plus a rigid, tight-lipped manner of speech.

The theme song is pleasantly present thruout the film, and Miss Scott gives a sultry and soulful rendition of it. Her voice is not bad—in fact, she isn't, but one Bacall is enough, and I hope Lizabeth is soon permitted or forced, as the case may be, to be herself.

If the basic plot of the film seems familiar, you're probably old enough to remember John Monk Saunders' tale of Nikki and her war birds and their cavorting after World War I.

INSTALMENT XXXV.

RABBIT KILLED

The car slid noiselessly down the dark, sinuous incline. "I admit the force of Headcorn's arguments," Bruce said tautly. "But do you register the fact that this shot was a slender miss?"

"For you," she retorted firmly. "Haven't we gone over this before? I'll be safe as long as I am actually in the house. It's outside, in the black-out, where nobody can see, that Maud might try something. I don't suppose she wants me to tell the police about those one pound notes. That may have been her idea when she put my bicycle on the blink. She didn't stop me but I came within an ace of busting every bone in my—"

"When?"

The car veered to the roadside. She sketched a light account of the evening's mishap. "Just what I'm saying," she pointed. "It happened outside. I can't even swear she was responsible, all I know is Robin must have been pretty frantic to come pelting after me the way he did."

His hand withdrew. Dour aloofness made him all at once seem like a stranger seated at her side. It was the mention of Robin that marked the change in him.

"I think," he said distantly, "it might be wise to get out here."

On foot, silently, they rounded the concealing bend. Just as they touched the scrunchy gravel Avis gasped, "O, what was that?"

The sound did not come from the house. Over on the ravine side there had been a crackling of brittle twigs followed by a splash. Only some dead branch dropping, Bruce dismissed it, and Avis breathed again, ashamed of her jumpiness.

In the narrow lobby they stood listening. From basement to roof nothing stirred. He seemed reluctant to say goodnight. He was so close she could smell the scorched bullet-groove in his shoulder.

"Cam," she implored, "you will be careful?"

He gave a low rasping laugh. "What about yourself? I'm cursing myself this minute for not putting you in your aunt's spare bed."

"There's no reason, none, to worry about me! Erica's the one, and she's all right, too, with Moravian to watch out for her. And there's Robin, we mustn't forget him. He'll strain every nerve to keep another ghastly crime from happening. . . ."

"Quite. Yes, you have two protectors. No, three. Here's Sgt. Budworth."

Softly a tall form approached the portico, nodded to the emerging pair, and thrust a small metal object into Avis' hand.

"It's a police whistle," the sergeant muttered. "I'll be on tap."

Bruce skirted the house, found the bridge over the Wyffe and tramped between black hedges toward the hollow where the bicycle accident had occurred. "That Grier lad has guts," he grudged. "He's ten years my junior, but he's been thru that war." This, he admitted it, was the thought that turned him sour. That Robin Grier, not yet recovered from a disabling illness, had been on the spot when a certain girl took her tumble bit like acid.

There was no mistaking the muddy patch. Its slimy surface deeply scored by skidding tires. Right here Grier had overtaken her; but the overhanging briar? Frowning, Bruce played his torch into the tangled leafage, put out his hand and extricated what seemed to be a firmly-rooted trailer. It was a length of stout wire.

Avis was back in her room and unheard. Not a quiver from the rooms alongside, but Oscar Moravian's door a tiny fraction ajar. At this minute he was most probably wide awake.

Painfully she peeled off stockings glued to her grazed shins, shivered out of her blue jumper, and stared at her white shoulders reflected in the small glass. Straight across them ran a red line. It hurt like sin and it was already turning purple.

Some one was up. Avis opened her door. It was Olive; but she was tiptoeing from Maud's door. Her eyes ranged the stair ahead, rested on Avis and stared.

"Noises," Olive mouthed and beat back a yawn. "It is Maud, but she's simply mumbling in her sleep. Thought she might be having a bout like mine."

"Bout? Why, what's wrong with you?"

"Sick." Olive said flatly. "The fish, I imagine."

As the white robe sagged thru its own door Avis, after a stilled moment peeped in on Maud's tossing slumbers. A discarded fear had returned. Suppose Maud had swallowed some deadly dose by mistake for a sedative and the woman next door had prowled along to inspect progress? She couldn't really believe it, and for a second stood listening to a low rumble and wheeze issuing from the narrow slit diagonally opposite. So Oscar was asleep after all. Then Avis heard a noise, stealthy, horrible. Sheila!

"Drop it, you beast!" The black form growled at her, raising a dripping jaw. O! All that was left of Benjamin was a lump with tufts of jet black fur.

Her stomach turned over. She made a sickened rush for Robin, found him heavily asleep with his bed lamp still on and his farming manual dropping from his hand. "Sheila. . . . Then it wasn't a dream."

"Oh, Robin, don't you hear what I'm saying? What's this about a dream?"

"Snuffling under my door." The shock hit him amidships. "Her rabbit," he gritted. "My dog!"

The burning question of how Sheila had got indoors was quenched by the utter consternation of his eyes. She tried to comfort him when, in the study, he gloomed despairingly on the tell-tale remnants of fur. "Let's have a shovel."

Tight-lipped, he disposed of the mess, tramped back to collar the cringing spaniel and kick her into the outside kennel. He was gasping with strenuous exertion when he returned the second time to find Avis scrubbing at the stained rug. "This blighted fluff clings," he muttered morosely. "Leave it, she's bound to find out. What beats me is why didn't she wake us? There must have been a row."

"It's extraordinary." More amazing than he could know. "Ethel must have knocked the kennel open with her bike. It's easy for a dog as black as that to slip past, and I expect the bathroom door was unfastened and Benjamin had strayed out."

Even so, it was odd. There must have been a squeal. . . .

Soviet and American Russian Church Units Meet Here Separately

Chicago is host to two distinct groups of Russian Orthodox hierarchy this week. One is the American group, composed of citizens of the United States, and headed by Archbishop Theophilus of San Francisco, Cal. Ten bishops and archbishops are in this group. They are meeting in St. Michael's church, 1706 W. 44th st., and represent a million adherents of Russian birth or parentage.

The other meeting of the minority soviet Orthodox church in America is headed by Archbishop Alexei of Yaroslavl and Rostov, Russia, and Metropolitan Benjamin of New York, and is being held in St. George's church, 917 N. Wood st., with Bishop Feodor of Argentina, who occupies the throne in St. George's, as host.

Archbishop Alexei is in this country to attempt to reconcile the American hierarchy with the patriarch of Moscow and the soviet church, but it is unlikely the two groups will meet jointly.

ALL-STAR FOOTBALL GAME CLEARS $82,085

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THE University of Miami [Fla.], which meets Holy Cross in the Orange bowl Jan. 1, started playing football in 1927 and the season just closed was the most successful in its history. . . . Petey Sarron, former featherweight champion of the world, says he probably will remain in the army as a physical director. . . . Ron Northey of the Phillies, who has returned from army duty, may become the first holdout of 1946. . . . The capable outfielder says he feels he is entitled to a boost over his 1944 wage. . . . One of the strange sights at the recent minor league convention in Columbus was an army sergeant offering fabulous prices for ball players. . . . He was Owner Bob Carpenter of the Phils. . . . Sixty-one of the 114 players owned by the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association are still in military uniform. . . . Miami's racing season, now under way, will run thru April 19. . . . Three thousand high schools in the United States had six-man football teams last fall. . . . Forrest Evashevski, whose blocking at the University of Michigan helped make Tom Harmon famous, says he has no pro football plans when he receives his navy discharge. . . . He hopes to land a coaching job. . . . Rip Radcliff, veteran American league outfielder, is out of the navy. . . . Rip belongs to the Detroit Tigers as his sale to the Athletics was voided when he was called into service in 1943. . . . John Horgan, former New York Giant batboy, is a lieutenant commander. . . . One of the stars of the University of New Mexico football team, which meets the University of Denver in the El Paso Sun bowl New Year's day, is Don Rumley of Princeton, Ill. . . . Rumley, who punts, passes, and runs, has started a reducing program. . . . He hopes to cut his avoirdupois from 185 pounds to 175 by game time. . . . Rumly had four years of high school competition in Princeton and attended Notre Dame from March to October, 1944. . . . He was a navy V-12 trainee there, however, and did not engage in athletics. . . . He was transferred to Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers, where he played one game, then to New Mexico, still as a navy man.

After 25 years of pitching, Sam Gibson will manage the Bremerton, Wash., entry in the Western International league next season. . . . During his major league career he was with the Tigers and the Giants. . . . Bert Sheppard, the former Washington coach who lost a leg in the army air forces, is a star bowler. . . . Dizzy Dean is attempting to peddle his 185-acre Texas farm and ranch house for $45,000. . . . He plans to live in St. Louis in the summer and Florida in the winter. . . . Work has been started on a new municipal stadium to house Waterloo's club in the reorganized Three-Eye league. . . . The old park was leveled by fire. . . . Catcher Bob Swift of the Tigers has given up his barbecue stand to operate a clothing store in Pontiac, Mich. . . . The citizens of St. Petersburg, Fla., will parade in honor of Connie Mack's 83d birthday Dec. 22. . . . Cecil Travis of the Senators will go to Hot Springs for treatment of his feet, frost bitten while he was in the army air forces.

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Chicago Black Hawks moved into second place in the National Hockey league, a point ahead of the Boston Bruins, tonight when they defeated the New York Rangers, 7 to 4, before 14,361 in Madison Square Gardens.

Clint Smith, Max Bentley, and Alex Shibicky shared scoring honors, each getting two goals and one assist, in the fast, free scoring encounter. Going into the final period with the score tied, 4 to 4, Bentley, Smith, and Red Hamill provided the margin of victory while the Rangers failed to reply.

The triumph moved Chicago into a position only one point behind the Montreal Canadiens, who lost to the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight, 4 to 3. The Hawks jumped one point ahead of the Detroit Red Wings while breaking their third place tie with the Bruins. The Rangers skidded into last place, two points behind Toronto.

Penalties Play Big Part

Penalties played a big part in the game, with Chicago scoring in the first and second period while Neil Colville and Tony Leswick were serving time. The Rangers scored in the first while Don Grosso was in the penalty box.

Late in the second period, Referee George Gravel handed out a freak penalty against New York. Chuck Rayner, the Ranger net minder, was given a two minute sentence for tripping Billy Mosienko when the speedy forward went down while in the clear. Lynn Patrick served out the penalty for Rayner but the Hawks failed to score.

Chicago's top line of Mosienko and the two Bentley brothers, Max and Doug, was clicking and Rayner had much difficulty clearing their shots. Altho the Rangers dominated a majority of the play, the Hawks swarmed in like hornets on the Ranger nets from time to time and seldom failed to count.

Karakas Is Brilliant

Goalie Mike Karakas, altho beaten by a couple of easy ones in the first period, was brilliant in the final frame.

The Rangers looked far better than hitherto and Chicago's winning margin was rolled up on breakaways while the Rangers were driving on the Hawk goal.

The Hawks will play the Red Wings Sunday in Chicago Stadium.

WARM UP IN COLD SETTING FOR HOT BATTLE

Four Washington Redskins backs, Dick Todd, Frank Akins, Bill De Correvont, and Steve Bagarus (left to right), bundled up against cold, run thru play on snow covered practice field yesterday in preparation for National Football league championship game with Cleveland Rams Sunday in Cleveland. Reports from Cleveland indicate conditions there will be just as cold and snowy as in Washington. The teams are champions of eastern and western divisions of pro league. [Acme Telephoto]

WASHINGTON TO TEST DE PAUL

Oregon, Teachers Also Play Tonight

The University of Washington, with five successive victories to its credit this season, will provide the opposition for De Paul university in the semi-final round tonight of the first annual De Paul invitational basketball tournament which opened in the Stadium Wednesday night.

The Washington-De Paul contest will follow another semi-final game which brings together the University of Oregon five, Pacific coast champions last season, and Indiana State college of Terre Haute, 54 to 43 victor over Hamline university of St. Paul, Minn., in the opening round.

Huskies Reported Strong

De Paul, which defeated Bowling Green university of Ohio, 59 to 54, largely thru the play of big George Mikan and Gene Stump in its first game Wednesday night, faces just as tough an outfit in the Huskies, said to be the best Washington team since Coach Hec Edmundson's 1943 squad won the Pacific coast title.

Oregon has nine letter men back while Washington's squad includes several veterans and returned service men. Husky teams under Edmundson have won three Pacific coast championships and 10 northern division titles. The Oregon-Indiana State game will start at 8:15. The lineups:

Oregon		Indiana State

YANKEES SELECT WEBB TO HEAD KAS. CITY CLUB

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 13 (AP)—Del E. Webb, millionaire contractor and part owner of the New York Yankees, is the new president of the Kansas City baseball club, President Larry MacPhail of the parent New York Yankees announced tonight.

Webb succeeds Roy Hamey, recently elected president of the American association, as president of the Kansas City Blues.

Jimmy Joyce Loses to Jackie Graves in Rematch

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 13 (AP)—Jackie Graves, Austin, Minn., featherweight, decisively outpointed Jimmy Joyce, Gary, Ind., in eight fast rounds tonight, partly squaring himself for a two round knockout which Joyce scored over him a month ago. A crowd of 8,000 paid more than $15,000 to see the card.

Statistics Make Redskin-Ram Title Engagement a Toss-Up

BY EDWARD PRELL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13—The inevitable form comparisons of challengers in big athletic events bring no definite conclusions for Sunday's white Christmas preview between the Cleveland Rams and Washington Redskins for the National Football championship. The rivals are practically statistical twins for the 10 games in which they won honors in their respective sectors of the league.

They are so close, in fact, that only three yards separate their efforts on the ground and in the air, with the Redskins on top, 3,549 yards to 3,546. The Rams, gaining 1,714 yards on rushes, outpointed the eastern champions by 6 yards. The Redskins gained 1,838 in the air for a 71 yard advantage.

Easterners Good on Defense

Defensively, the Redskins are in front with 121 points yielded to 149 for the western champions. Opponents socked the veteran Washington line for 1,003 yards—an average of 100 per game, while the youthful and vigorous Cleveland front wall gave up 1,036. The Rams were more vulnerable to passes than were the Redskins, the yardage being 1,463 to 1,121.

It could be argued that Cleveland had a tougher schedule with double assignments against the Packers and Bears. Cleveland's defenders plucked off 28 enemy passes to Washington's 16, which could be a warning to Sam Baugh, except for the fact that only four of the Texan's 182 pitches went astray, while Cleveland's Bob Waterfield had 10 errant throws.

The Weather Is Main Concern

The weather, attendance, and other hoopla are getting more attention than the gridiron figures, which many football seasons have proved are without too much significance. Snow still fell on this Ohio metropolis tonight.

Seventy per cent of the net gain will be distributed among the league's players. The Rams and Redskins will divvy this, 60-40, after 10 per cent is allotted to players on the teams which finished second in their respective sections. The Philadelphia Eagles were runners-up in the east, while the Detroit Lions were second in the west.

League Gets a Cut

The remaining 30 per cent is utilized to pay expenses of the game. If there is any money left, the league takes a half, while the managements of the competing clubs equally divvy up the other 50 per cent.

Some of the better prophets are talking about a 60,000 crowd in the Municipal stadium, even under the worst weather conditions. The Rams, who are in charge of the ticket sale, have installed pasteboard stations in six other Ohio towns, and also Buffalo, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

Benton Battles Flu

Supporters of the Rams worried tonight over the disquieting report that Jim Benton, the wizard pass catcher, is battling the flu. The veteran from Arkansas is Bob Waterfield's key receiver and his loss would be a severe blow. Jim was so sick he was unable to attend the civic banquet for the western champions last night, but he showed up this afternoon for indoor drill at the 107th cavalry armory. The Redskins will arrive Saturday.

Six Discharged Service Men in C. Y. O. Meet

BY FRANK MASTRO

Six of the 32 finalists in the 15th Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament are honorably discharged service men. These boxers, who will try for open and novice championships in the Coliseum Tuesday night are:

Goodwain Murry

Jack McBurnie, St. Attracta, Ofcero, 118; Johnny Mezzano, St. Philomena, 126, and Charles Hobday, St. Barbara, Brookfield, and John Polcyn, St. Columbkille, heavyweights, all in the open division, and Jack Morrissey, Queen of Angels, 135, and Goodwain Murry, Corpus Christi, 160, both novices.

McBurnie, navy radioman, is paired with Harry Scorzo, Santa Maria Incoronata; Mezzano, army veteran, who was a prisoner of war in Germany, is matched with Joe Plummer, Lewis School of Aeronautics; Morrissey, army air forces bombardier, will meet Rufus Johnson, St. Elizabeth High school, and Murry, army veteran, is matched with Ernest Ayers, St. Elizabeth High. Hobday, army sergeant, and Polcyn, marine air corps mechanic, meet each other.

Murry, 25 years old, was a noncommissioned officer instructor at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., when discharged last September. He has won five of his last six fights, three in the preliminary rounds of the tourney, when he knocked out two of his C. Y. O. opponents. Since his separation from the army he has been employed as a packer for a candy company. He also is taking a correspondence course as a radio technician. His home is at 5109 Ellis av.

LAYDEN CALLS N.F.L. MEETING ON BROOKLYN CASE

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13 (AP)—A special meeting of National Football league owners, to be held here Monday, was called today by Elmer Layden, league commissioner, to discuss the Brooklyn franchise.

Discussion of the Brooklyn franchise was made necessary when Dan Topping, who operated it for the last 12 seasons, announced his withdrawal from the National league to place a Yankee stadium team in the All-America Football conference.

Lou Diamond, Boxing Manager, Is Dead at 55

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 13 (AP)—Louis Diamond, 55, of Jersey City, N. J., prize fight trainer and manager for 35 years, died of a heart attack today. Among the fighters he managed were Johnny Buff, bantam and flyweight title holder and Martin Burke, New Orleans heavyweight. He is survived by his widow, Bertha, and four sons.

MOVIES SETTLE SERIES DISPUTES

Even Cub Fans Will Like Official A. L. Film

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Lew Fonseca, the American league's movie man, crowded the recent world series between the Tigers and Cubs into 2,800 feet of film and showed it yesterday for the first time as his 13th annual production since the junior major added the camera eye to its promotional department.

Dedicated to the late Commissioner K. M. Landis and titled "The World Series of 1945," the picture now is ready for distribution to military hospitals and camps wherever located. Prints will not be available for civilian use until after the first of the year. A technical movie "Circling the Bases" and produced by the league in collaboration with A. G. Spalding & Brothers, also will be ready for distribution in the near future.

The new movie is one that won't hurt the eyes of the Cub fans no matter how keen their dislike for anything with an American league label. No effort was made to give any more footage to the Tigers than to the National leaguers, even in the way of individual takes. In fact, Tiger fans might get a bit peeved because of what seems to be an undue amount of blundering on the part of their favorites. But that is only because the Tigers did blunder frequently, altho winning the series.

Possibly the most glaring fielding mistake was on the much discussed fly ball Bill Nicholson of the Cubs hit to right in the opening inning of the first game in Detroit. It was scored as a legitimate hit on the reasoning that the ball was too close to the wall for Outfielder Roy Cullenbine to make the catch. The tattle-tale camera shows that Cullenbine still was five or six feet from the wall when he stopped and attempted a safety first catch.

Stringer Tells Cubs He's Ready

The Cubs' roster, on which Manager Charley Grimm did some needed pruning during the baseball meetings, went up again yesterday when Infielder Lou Stringer informed the club that he had been discharged from the army and was awaiting spring training orders.

Stringer is the sprightly lad who was purchased from the Los Angeles club along with the famous Lou Novikoff in 1940. He enlisted in the air corps Nov. 25, 1942, and served most of his time at Williams field, Ariz.

There'll be another addition today when Alban Glossop, also an infielder, receives his discharge papers at Great Lakes. Altho he is on the Cubs' national defense list he played his last big league ball for Brooklyn, going into service in December of 1943, shortly after the Cubs had acquired him on waivers.

The Cubs' Los Angeles cousins have signed Pitcher Harold Jungbluth of Milwaukee. He saw service with the marines in the South Pacific.

Sox Give Up on Heath

James Dykes, the White Sox boss, who expects to get started back toward California tomorrow, will go into a huddle with other club officials today, possibly to get a few more excess athletes ready for the pruning knife and to work out a few more spring training details. Dykes has abandoned all thoughts of getting Outfielder Jeff Heath from the Indians. They were willing to deal if Thurman Tucker was in the swap, but Dykes refused.

WAR CHARITIES DIVIDE SERIES RECORD PROFIT

Checks Go to Kelly, Gen. Arnold

BY ARCH WARD

Chicago's 1945 All-Star football game set a new record for the series in receipts and profits, it was revealed yesterday by auditors of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the event.

Net proceeds were $82,085.46 as compared with $78,018.35 for 1944, the previous high. Checks for $41,042.73 each were mailed yesterday to the Army Air Force Aid society and to Chicago Service Men's centers, beneficiaries of the game. They were directed to Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, and to Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

Follows War Time Program

The game, which was won by the Green Bay Packers over the College All-Stars, 19 to 7, was played at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30 before an overflow crowd of 92,753.

Thruout the war profits of the enterprise were donated to war charities. From the beginning of the series in 1934 until 1942 the net revenue was divided equally among the United Charities, Catholic Charities, and Jewish Charities of Chicago. These organizations have shared in other disbursements of Chicago Tribune Charities the last four years.

Receipts from the sale of tickets after the deduction of federal taxes were $223,018.28. Profits of the program and revenue from the radio broadcast boosted the total to $246,294.32. The 1944 game, the last played in Northwestern university's Dyche stadium, produced $210,132.55.

Prepare for 1946 Contest

The 13th game of football's glamor series will be played in Soldiers' field next August between the winner of the Cleveland Rams-Washington Redskins game Sunday and the best talent from the nation's colleges that can be recruited. The return of experienced material from the war fronts is expected to give both the All-Stars and professional champions the strongest teams they have had since 1941.

Mayor Kelly

Gen. Arnold

The Green Bay Packers, who according to the contract between Chicago Tribune Charities and the National Football league were entitled to 20 per cent of the net receipts, received $48,168.95. The league's share was $14,450.68.

The increased cost of operations at Soldiers' field and a larger All-Star squad made the 1945 game approximately $37,000 more costly to present than was the 1944 contest. The principal rise was in park rental. The figure at Soldiers' field was $18,924 as compared with $7,500 at Dyche stadium. Handling a crowd of 92,000 added substantially to the compensation to ushers, gatemen, and other attendants.

Grows During War Period

Major items of expense were: Electrical and carpenter labor and material, $8,589; rooms and meals of the All-Star players, $12,224; transportation of All-Star players, $9,139; compensation to All-Star players, $7,200; uniforms, sweaters, balls and other football equipment, $4,780; ticket manager and sellers, $2,724; compensation to All-Star coaches, $3,600; bands, $1,854; medical care and supplies, $1,315.

While other great sports extravaganzas, including the All-Star baseball game, became war casualties, the All-Star football game had its most prosperous years and some of its most exciting contests after the United States was plunged into the world conflict. Its survival was due in no small measure to the coöperation of the army air forces and to various collegiate conferences, which permitted the sponsor to use undergraduates.

SENN ROLLS UP 62 TO 39 MARGIN AGAINST CRANE

Von Steuben Five Whips Tuley, 56 to 32

Senn and Von Steuben High schools' senior basketball teams, winner and runnerup, respectively, in the City league title race last season, each scored impressive victories in practice games yesterday.

The Bulldogs routed Crane Tech, 62 to 39, on the Senn court as Jim Zwack tallied 19 points and Reuben Huff counted for 15. The Von Steuben five scored 25 points in the first period and went on to defeat Tuley, 56 to 32, at Von Steuben. Forward Don Lipman and Center Gene Schanbaum each counted 16 points for the victors.

Austin and Fenwick, traditional west side rivals, met last night on the Austin floor, with the public school winning both games. The Austin seniors triumphed, 28 to 22, while the juniors scored an 18 to 15 victory.

Tilden Tech's senior five suffered its first defeat in six games when a 15 point fourth quarter gave Bowen a 35 to 33 triumph at Bowen, while Lane Tech's seniors upset the highly rated Catholic league De Paul team, 43 to 36, at Lane. Lineups:

JACK AND JOYCE MEET TONIGHT IN NEW YORK RING

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Beau Jack, the Georgia shoe shine boy, who drew more than $1,000,000 in gross gates in 1943 before he entered the army, returns to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night in a 10 round bout with Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind.

Altho he has been out of competition for 16 months, Jack has been installed a 5 to 12 favorite over Joyce, who has developed into a leading lightweight contender.

Jack, who won and lost the 135 pound title in his spectacular prewar career, has moved up into the welterweight division and expects to weigh in around 140 pounds tomorrow. Joyce will scale about 137. A crowd of 18,000 and a gate of $100,000 were predicted by Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Yachtsmen to Meet at Winners' Dinner Tonight

More than 200 yachtsmen, including the commodores of all Chicagoland yacht clubs, will attend the Chicago Yacht club's annual winners' dinner tonight in the Chicago harbor clubhouse. Commodore P. H. Danly, retiring chief flag officer of the club, will be in charge. Ed Schnabel, chairman of the Chicago Yacht club's prize committee, and Harold L. Ashton, chairman of the club's race committee, will award trophies and cups to the skippers and crews.

St. Philip Neri Parochial Five to Play St. Felicitas

St. Philip Neri grammar school basketball team will play St. Felicitas this evening at Aquinas gymnasium, 72d st. at Clyde av.

I. A. C. Boxing Meet Booked for January

The first major event sponsored by the Illinois Athletic club in its post-war sports expansion program will be the revival of the invitational amateur boxing tournament, Livingston E. Osborne, president of the I. A. C., said yesterday. Dates for the meet will be Jan. 8, 9, and 16.

The last I. A. C. tourney was held in 1942, before Johnny Behr, club athletic director, entered the army as a first lieutenant. He was discharged with the rank of captain a year ago.

Entry blanks for the I. A. C. tournament may be obtained at the Central A. A. U., 538 S. Clark st., or the I. A. C. Any boy, 16 or over, who has not fought professionally, is eligible to compete. There will be no entry fee.

The 1942 I. A. C. champions were:

Texas Open Starts Today; 90 in Field

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 13 (AP)—Byron Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden escaped unscratched from an auto accident and a forced plane landing, and will be here tomorrow to start slamming at par as a field of 90 professionals and amateurs move out in the $10,000 Fort Worth Open.

Nelson, the Denton, Tex., farmer who ends his vacation by entering the Fort Worth Open, was splattered with 10 dozen fresh eggs when his automobile overturned three times near Denton. There was no other damage.

Jug Makes Forced Landing

McSpaden, the perpetual second place finisher, made a forced landing in his private plane which he flew here from Florida. Jug landed in a pasture, called the Fort Worth airport for location of Glen Garden Country club, where the 72 hole tournament is to be held, then took off and landed on fairway No. 1 at the course.

Nelson, who has won 18 tournaments this year and has finished in the money in 101 consecutive meets, will share the favorite's tag with little Ben Hogan. Hogan and Nelson both started as caddies at Glen Garden.

Demaret Posts a 68

Smiling Jimmy Demaret, the gay man of the fairways now out of the navy, posted the best warmup round when he shot a three under par 68. However, bad weather has been hampering most players. The weather man said there would be no rain tomorrow but it will be cold.

Latest entry is Ed (Porky) Oliver, Wilmington, Del., pro.

BUILDING CODE INJUNCTION WON BY HOME OWNER

Judge McKinlay Finds Ordinance Outmoded

Chicago's building code, under attack from several quarters as being outmoded and archaic, was brought to the attention yesterday of Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court, who observed that the city council should not lose sight of technical advancements in building procedures and materials.

The court, however, declined to rule on the validity of the code, which was assailed in an injunction petition on behalf of Elmore Roberts, a Negro, to restrain the city from enforcing fire limits provisions of the code in conection with a second story frame addition to Roberts' brick home on the far south side.

Injunction Is Granted

The injunction was granted Roberts, who asserted that he had built the addition to make room for his war veteran son. The house is in a semi-rural truck garden community, where houses are scattered, but where the same fire restrictions apply that govern buildings in the loop.

"There is a prospect, I think, that the council is making an effort to encourage more and less expensive housing," Judge McKinlay said, referring to the Chicago Association of Commerce's recommendations for complete revision of the code. The recommendations are before the council.

"My opinion is that the city should permit the use of new, modern building materials," McKinley said. "I don't feel that there is a fire hazard in frame houses if they are reasonably spaced, say 10 feet, apart. When I come into the city on the Rock Island and see those old frame houses close together, I can see a need for fire restrictions. But out in the suburbs I see lovely little frame homes set well apart and I can't see a fire hazard there."

Unable to Buy Bricks

Alfred Kamin and Rubin G. Cohn, attorneys for Roberts, admitted that he had violated the code. They said he was improperly informed and did the best he could, using asphalt siding when he was unable to buy brick. They contended the city had exceeded its statutory police power in setting up existing fire limits.

Attorneys for the city, Al F. Gorman and F. Patrick Conlon, confined their argument to the facts of the violation. They asked another opportunity for pleading and Judge McKinlay said he would hear them Jan. 10.

Cohn said that the city, which prosecuted Roberts in Municipal court, where the action still is pending, sought to have him fined and ordered to tear down the addition. Altogether, Cohn said, Roberts was faced with a loss of $7,000.

"I dislike allowing a person to go ahead with something like this and then to seek legal approval," said Judge McKinlay. "But I feel I should make an exception here. I may not feel the same way if another similar case comes before me. But with the housing shortage what it is, it would go against my conscience to order this addition torn down."

Council Group to Study Plan

Consideration of the association of commerce report, which was cited by Roberts' lawyers in court, will be begun today by the council subcommittee on code revision. Chairman Duffy [19th] said there would be several public hearings.

"This is no hurry-up job," he said. "We probably shall devote several months to hearings. This is a job calling for sincere and lengthy consideration. We intend to do all we can to facilitate building."

A loan of 2 million dollars in addition to the 1 million already provided will be asked of the city by the Chicago housing authority to provide temporary houses for veterans, Elizabeth Wood, CHA director, told Ald. Lindell [9th], chairman of the housing committee, yesterday. Lindell said it was planned to spend $1,500,000 for 700 more demountable houses brought from war plants and $500,000 for 1,000 trailers from Oakridge, Tenn.

STASSEN URGES ATOMIC RULE BY WORLD SOCIETY

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota last night urged that the secret of atomic energy be placed under control of a commission of the united nations organization. This, he said, would be the fairest solution of the problem.

Stassen spoke before the Chicago Restaurant Purveyors' association in the Palmer House. About 500 persons attended.

The ex-governor said it would be unwise to give the bomb secret to other nations and it would be unwise, on a scientific basis, to keep it secret.

Albert Mosse Named Head of Press Photographers

Albert Mosse, Sun photographer, last night was elected president of the Chicago Press Photographers' association at a meeting in the Morrison hotel. Other officers are Sid Samuels, Herald-American, secretary; Joe Kordick, Sun, treasurer; Bob Rea, Herald-American; Paul Cannon, Associated Press; Jack Barnett, Fox Movietone News, vice presidents, and Borrie Kanter, Times, sergeant at arms.

ALDERMEN URGE STANDARD SIZE GARBAGE CANS

The city council finance committee yesterday accepted a new ordinance on refuse disposal, which the council will be asked to enact. The measure was recommended by Lloyd M. Johnson, superintendent of streets and electricity, and Ald. Grealis [44th], head of the subcommittee on garbage.

The ordinance stipulates use of a standard refuse container, of not less than 20 and not more than 32 gallons capacity. All private homes or small apartment buildings where refuse is picked up by city collectors must, under the measure, use standard containers. Larger apartment buildings, and business places, which employ private scavengers, are not obliged to use these containers.

Where garbage is collected in alleys or on porches. It also provides that the containers must be placed at the lot line and not in the alleys nor on porches. It also provides for a single collection system, in which garbage, trash, and all other refuse would be picked up at one time.

BIG GRANT PARK BUILDING URGED FOR VET GROUPS

Consolidation of all war veterans' organizations and all governmental offices dealing with veterans under the single roof of a huge building in Grant park was urged yesterday by Col. Harry Dooley, president of the Gray Lines Sightseeing Company of Chicago and formerly a traffic officer in Europe.

Col. Dooley, who spoke before a luncheon meeting of the Lions club in Hotel Sherman, proposed erection of the Grant park building as a "living memorial" to the city's veterans and war dead.

The proposed building, Col. Dooley said, also should contain "the largest auditorium in the world." This would serve not only for functions of veterans' organizations, but as a convention and exhibition hall for Chicago citizens.

SIGNAL FAILURE HELD TO BLAME IN TRAIN WRECK

Failure of signal precautions was blamed by Police Capt. Frank H. Demski of Brighton Park station yesterday for the troop train wreck at 36th and Rockwell sts. Monday evening in which 99 men, 90 of them sailors, were injured.

Capt. Demski, a former railroader, stayed at the scene until 3 a. m. to make a personal investigation.

The troop train, operated by the Alton railroad and carrying 600 sailors, mostly Negroes, bound from Bainbridge, Md., to Shoemaker, Cal., was switching from a north-south track to an east-west track when rammed by a two engined Pere Marquette passenger train.

MOOREHEAD INQUEST POSTPONED TO MAKE CHEMICAL ANALYSIS

The inquest into the suicide of Chester Moorehead, former husband of Constance Bennett, was continued yesterday until Dec. 28 for completion of a chemical analysis of the body. Moorehead died Wednesday in his hotel room at 11 W. Division st. after taking sleeping tablets.

His death was witnessed by Mrs. Jack Moran, 25, and her roommate, Irma Caserio, 29, who went to Moorehead's room after the hotel clerk called them in their room and told them Moorehead was going to end his life. Sharon Lynn, another hotel guest, said she went to the room after Moorehead was dead.

Mrs. Moran, widow of Potter D'Orsay Palmer and estranged wife of the son of George [Bugs] Moran, testified Moorehead told her, "I'm going to sleep. Don't try to stop me. I am going to sleep and never wake up."

Police found the start of a note addressed to his mother, Mrs. Frederick Moorehead of 25 E. Delaware pl.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

BICKERTON—Maj. James Earle Bickerton. In memory of my dear son, who died on Jap prison ship off Subic bay, P. I., Dec. 14, 1944.
Merciful God, grant my boy eternal rest;
A good, faithful son, one of the best.
MOTHER, MRS. LILLIE KENDALL.

GREGOROFF—Claire B. Gregoroff. In loving memory of our darling mother and grandmother, who passed away one year ago.
One sad and lonely year has passed
Since we gave her to rest.
LOVING DAUGHTER AND GRANDSON.

LAWLOR—John Dennis Lawlor Sr. In loving memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, who passed away two years ago today, Dec. 14, 1943.
Every day brings back sweet memories,
Every memory brings a tear;
Deep within our hearts we carry
Thoughts of one we love so dear.
LOVING WIFE, MARY, AND SON, JOHN DENNIS JR.

LYNN—Pvt. Edward W. Lynn, 330th inf., 83d div., U. S. A. In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, who was killed in action in Germany Dec. 14, 1944. Remains will be returned to this country for final burial.
In Henri Chappel cemetery in Belgium
Lies our dear Edward among the brave;
He never shunned his country's call,
But gladly gave his life and all.
He little thought when leaving home
He would return no more.
To have to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our hearts;
Only those who have loved can tell
The grief that is borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.
LOVING MOM, DAD, DOROTHY, BOB.

MEINHARDT—Ellen L. Meinhardt. In fond and loving memory of my beloved wife, who on Dec. 14, 1941, passed away suddenly without warning.
In my memory a daily thought,
In my heart a sorrow,
YOUR DEVOTED HUSBAND,
DR. MAXIMILIAN MEINHARDT.

O'BRIEN—Margaret A. O'Brien, Dec. 14, 1942.
Dear Lord, give us light
To see and understand;
Our hearts are sorely tried,
We need Your guiding hand.
Our heads are bowed in sorrow,
We miss her everywhere;
Give us strength for the tomorrow
As we kneel in humble prayer.
Your commands she has fulfilled,
All earthly tasks are done;
A loving heart is stilled,
An immortal crown is won.
Open wide the heavenly portals,
Let her join the angel's band;
But help us weary mortals,
Help us understand.
LOVINGLY SISTERS, NIECES, AND NEPHEW.

SAXE—Michael Saxe. Dear friend, gone but not forgotten.
HORTENSE AND AL CHERNER.

SCHWALL—Irene Schwall. In loving memory of our darling's 17th birthday.
They say there's a star up in Heaven
For every soul that has left this earth;
That the measure its brightness has given
Is the measure of that soul's worth.
So when wishes on your birthday are gleaming
We know, honey girl, just what we will do,
We'll look where the brightest one is beaming
And say in our hearts, it is you.
MOM AND DAD.

3-DIMENSIONAL TELEVISION IN COLORS SHOWN

RCA Also Demonstrates Black-White Progress

Princeton, N. J., Dec 13—Black and white television startlingly realistic; pictures in color that were given the effect of three dimensions, along with most of the latest technical advances in radio pictures were shown this afternoon in the laboratory of the Radio Corporation of America.

It was the first public demonstration since the war of the progress made in color television. It was said that everything new shown today in black and white images should be available in receivers for the home within six months.

Pictures Sent 50 Miles

The black and white pictures came from the National Broadcasting company station WNBT, New York, a distance of 50 miles. The color was originated in the laboratories and sent two miles or so over a radio channel higher in frequency than heretofore used. The frequency was 10,000 megacycles compared to 50 megacycles for WNBT.

In presenting color scenes of live talent, the show being in two sections, one straight color and the other third dimension, the engineers declared it to be a laboratory report of progress, and should not be considered "the finished product." They estimated that five years at least would be required before all fundamental problems could be worked out.

Filters Give Color

The color was produced by the use of a motor-driven mask containing red, green, and blue filters fitted into a drum. The drum revolved before the receiving tube in step with a similar device in the camera.

The third dimension effect was obtained by the use of polarized filters in camera and receiver, with the viewers required to use polaroid glasses. This is similar to the method used in motion pictures to get the same results.

While the color pictures were definitely an advance over those previously shown and required the wide channel of nine megacycles, improvement in black and white were particularly noticeable. The pictures were contrasted with a prewar receiver and were shown in several sizes ranging from four and a half to six inches direct viewing to approximately 15 by 20 inches on a large screen projector. It was estimated that the market price range for such receivers would be from less than $200 up to $500, with production expected to start by summer time.

TAPE-UP QUEEN SOUGHT BY SHOW AIRED ON W-G-N

Beryl Vaughan Will Visit Hospital

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The pin-up business was given a reverse play this week by Actress Beryl Vaughan. The Spotlight Bands show, aired over W-G-N-Mutual, has started a contest to find a "tape-up" queen, as a variation to the pin-up competitions. Army and navy camps and hospitals were invited to submit their favorite tape-up girls for this contest.

Beryl Vaughan

Before the patients at Vaughan General hospital could reach for a picture or a roll of adhesive to tape it up Beryl called and explained that the hospital which bears the same name she does is the one, naturally, on whose walls she'd most like to have her picture taped up. That was all right with the men—but they insisted that she come out to visit them—and she has promised.

Beryl is featured often in the W-G-N-Mutual Freedom of Opportunity show, aired at 7:30 p. m. Fridays, and in ABC's Curtain Time dramas, at 8 p. m. Wednesdays. Further details of the tape-up contest will be revealed on the Spotlight Bands broadcast at 8:30 tonight over W-G-N-Mutual.

Joseph Gallicchio, NBC staff conductor, has temporarily taken over the baton of Roy Shield, former musical director of the network here who left this week for a similar position in New York.

An intra-store television system is planned by Marshall Field & Co. The State st. store has a post-war priority for the installation of a General Electric television unit, it was disclosed yesterday.

"Both inside the store as a service to customers and outside as a medium to consumers television holds tremendous possibilities," L. B. Sizer, sales promotion manager, said.

U. S. INTERVENES IN HARVESTER, CIO PAY PARLEY

With a federal conciliator taking part in the meetings for the first time, the International Harvester company and the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers union [CIO] yesterday continued negotiations on the union's demands for a 30 per cent wage increase. Edgar L. Warren, head of federal conciliation, assigned Ronald Houghton, a conciliator, to attend the meetings between the company and union in an effort to avert a strike threatened by the union if the company does not accede to its demands.

SPIEGEL SALES RISE

I am interested in the extent of Spiegel, Inc., sales increase this year.—O. C.

Spiegel net sales in the first 11 months of 1945, totaling $61,763,000, were well in excess of those for the entire year 1944, amounting to $49,130,000, and above any full year since 1930. The gain resulted in part from the purchase or establishment of retail stores in accordance with a program initiated in 1944. The stores total 115, besides the mail order departments.

In the first half of 1945, with $29,997,000 sales, operations had not yet reached the point of showing earnings restored on the common stock. Net income was equal to $1.08 a share on the $4.50 preferred stock. Subsequently sales have run above the first half rate. In the five months ended Nov. 30 they totaled $31,766,000.

Profits since 1930 ranged from $2.85 a common share [adjusted] in 1934 to 91 cents in 1941, with no earnings shown for the common in 1942-'44 or in 1931 and 1932. No common dividend has been paid since 1942, but preferred dividends have been maintained. Spiegel recently borrowed 7½ million dollars on a 2½ per cent 10 year serial bank loan.

The catalog business is organized in five departments: Women's fashion goods, boys' and girls' goods, home furnishings, men's wear, and a division specializing in hardware, farm goods, and automobile accessories. Stores have been acquired in the first three lines, besides a jointly owned department store in San Diego, Cal., and eventually are expected to include all five groups.

2 CHICAGO BANKS BOOST SURPLUS; ONE ADDS SPACE

Directors of the American National Bank and Trust company have decided to increase the bank's surplus by 1 million dollars transferred from undivided profits. The increase will bring total capital and surplus to 6 million dollars.

Lawrence F. Stern, president, announced the bank will occupy an additional floor at its present quarters at 33 N. La Salle st., when vacated by the army finance office. Clarence C. Morgan, assistant trust officer in charge of investments, and Paul C. Raymond, divisional loaning officer, were elected assistant vice presidents.

Directors of the Merchandise National bank increased the surplus account to 1½ million dollars by transfer of $250,000 from undivided profits. The bank has capital of $500,000.

KELLOGG MAKES ITS FIRST PHONE IN FOUR YEARS

The first telephone manufactured by the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company since before the war came off the assembly line yesterday. The new instruments may be used interchangeably as wall or desk models, said F. M. Parsons, sales manager. Kellogg, which manufactures for independent telephone systems, also has begun output of switchboards for civilian use.

RAILS ASK U. S. MEDIATION OF LABOR DISPUTE

Negotiation Stalled on Rule Changes

The railroads yesterday placed in the hands of the government their controversy with 20 unions over the latters' demands for wage increases and changes in working rules. They estimate that the unions' demands would add 2 billion dollars annually to railroad costs. About 1,200,000 workers are involved in the case.

The railroads asked the national mediation board—an agency established by law to handle railroad disputes with labor—to take over. Spokemen for the roads said that negotiations with the unions, which have been in progress in Chicago for three weeks, became stalled on the issue of rule changes asked by two of the unions.

Sought to Separate Issues

The roads sought to restrict negotiations to the wage demands, leaving the rules for later consideration. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, however, insisted that negotiations cover both wages and rules changes. The roads estimated that the cost of making the more than 50 rule changes demanded would be about 785 million dollars annually.

Rule changes demanded included restriction of frate train length to 70 cars and passenger train length to 14 cars. The five operating unions have demanded a 25 per cent wage increase, with a minimum boost of $2.50 a day. The 15 nonoperating unions asked a 30 cents an hour wage increase. The cost of both the rule changes and wage increases would total 2 billions and possibly more, the railroads estimate.

The decision to go to the mediation board was made at a meeting yesterday morning in the Union station. Mediation is the next step after direct negotiations have failed in the procedure established in the railway labor act. Mediation rarely has produced a settlement.

Fact Finding Next Step

When mediation fails the next step is the appointment of a fact finding board by the President to study the claims of both parties to the dispute and make recommendations for a settlement. The board's recommendations are not binding, but in theory the weight of public opinion will compel their acceptance. The plan is similar to that proposed by President Truman for application to industry generally as a means of settling the present widespread labor disputes.

Railroad spokesmen said there was little hope for a settlement of the wage issue thru negotiations as long as two of the unions insisted on including their demands for rule changes. The 15 nonoperating unions earlier had agreed to confine the immediate negotiations to the wage issue and three of the operating brotherhoods had taken the position that the wage demand was the paramount issue.

TRANSIT PRICE TESTIMONY MAY END NEXT WEEK

Prospects for speeding up the plan for the Chicago metropolitan transit authority to purchase and operate the surface and elevated lines were enhanced yesterday, when it was indicated in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe that testimony on the fairness of the price offer would be finished next week.

Under the offer the surface lines security holders would divide 88 million dollars and the "L" owners about 14 millions, including real estate figured as worth two millions or more. The deal will have to be approved by referendum of the investors, but this cannot be held until the court, in charge of both systems in bankruptcy, certifies the offer is fair.

Once the testimony is complete, a date for oral arguments will be set [probably in January] and the court will then take the matter under advisement.

1946 NEWSPRINT QUOTAS FIXED AT LEVELS FOR 1945

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 13—Monthly newsprint quotas for Canadian manufacturers, their subsidiaries, and agency sales organizations will be the same for 1946 as this year, the Canadian prices board ruled today.

Manufacturers were ordered to supply their customers in 1946 with a monthly tonnage equal to one-third of the aggregate tonnage supplied in the last quarter of 1945 or one-twelfth of the total 1945 tonnage, whichever is larger.

Carbonic Gas Maker Earns Less in Year

Liquid Carbonic corporation's annual report issued yesterday to stockholders disclosed reduced net earnings, gave additional details of a projected 8½ million dollar expansion program, and announced financing plans thru a proposed new preferred stock issue.

Net income in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 decreased to $1,522,585, or $1.91 a share, from $1,747,401, or $2.22 a share, a year earlier, said P. F. Lavedan, president. Sales of $21,613,837 compared with $22,739,767 a year ago and included shipments of war products amounting to $4,900,000, against $6,100,000.

Will Build New Plants

Of the planned expansion expenditures, approximately $5,200,000 will be used to build and equip new plants and additions in the United States, said Lavedan.

Included will be a new building to be erected in Long Island City, N. Y., to contain offices, showroom, and storage and service departments.

Approximately 1 million dollars will be used to expand Canadian operations by the erection of a building in Montreal to house durable goods operation and a new oxygen and aceytlene plant in Toronto.

Plans Foreign Expansion

New carbonic plants also are planned for Mexico City, Venezuela, Brazil, and a second Cuban plant in Santiago. Negotiations are pending for similar operations in Argentina and Colombia.

Directors have approved a new 72,810 convertible $100 par preferred stock issue to help finance expansion plans. About 4 million dollars of the proceeds would be made available for expansion and approximately 3 million would be used to retire the 4½ per cent preferred.

BANKER OFFERS SALES TAX PLAN FOR VETS' BONUS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 13 (AP)—An increase in the state 2 per cent sales tax to 4 per cent to pay soldier bonuses in the form of long term bonds was recommended today by Floyd Condit of Beardstown, president of the Illinois Bankers' association.

Condit told a legislative subcommittee the bonds issued to each veteran would be payable in full after 20 years or at death. Veterans would not be permitted to borrow on the bonds but could cash them for one-fourth value at the end of five years, one-half at 10 years, and three-fourths at 15 years.

Sen. Peters [R., St. Joseph] told Condit the state was thinking about a $300 or $400 bonus for 900,000 to 1 million service men and women.

STOCK MARKETS VOTE EXTENDED HOLIDAY PERIOD

Governors of the New York Stock and Curb exchanges yesterday voted to close Monday, Dec. 24, making a three day shutdown for Christmas. The Chicago Stock exchange also is expected to close. The Chicago Board of Trade will suspend dealings at noon on the Mondays preceding Christmas and New Year's day.

About 28 per cent of Chicago's companies will give employes a four day vacation for Christmas, a survey by the Office Management Association of Chicago disclosed. Twelve per cent will give similar holidays the following week-end. The survey showed 75 per cent of the companies are arranging some extra time off.

Crisis Is Past, but U.S. Holds Tribune Ship

The plight of the S. S. Colabee was referred to by maritime observers yesterday as an example of army and navy mismanagement which, according to disclosures before a senate war investigating committee, is keeping idle in the Pacific 190 cargo ships needed to carry critical materials to speed the nation's reconversion effort.

The Colabee, owned by the Illinois Atlantic corporation, a Tribune subsidiary, has had a full war record, her service history revealed. She was originally requisitioned by the government on Jan. 5, 1942, and subsequently met with several mishaps which began when she was torpedoed off the coast of Cuba on March 12, 1942.

Used to Carry Newsprint

Before the war the Colabee was used in the newsprint paper run from Baie Comeau, Canada, to New York City. After her transfer to the war shipping administration she was used to haul war cargoes.

At the time the vessel was taken over by the WSA the Colabee was put under what is known as a time charter at a flat rental rate of $36,000 a month. Later this rate was changed to $38,250 a month and then dropped to $36,270.

Subsequently, on Jan. 11, 1944, the WSA decided to cancel the vessel's time charter and announced the Colabee henceforth would sail under a bare boat contract. The WSA began making token hire payments at the rate of $7,284 a month.

Meanwhile, on Sept. 25, 1945, the Illinois Atlantic corporation recieved word that the American-Hawaiian Steamship company in New York, acting as agent for the WSA in charge of the Colabee, had been advised by the government that the vessel was about to be laid up in a Gulf of Mexico port and was no longer needed in the emergency.

Offers Formal Charter

This report was followed by a letter dated Oct. 3, 1945, signed by T. J. Krener, manager of the charters and agreements section of the WSA, finally offering a formal charter at the rate of $8,830 a month less token payments retroactive to Jan. 11, 1944.

F. J. Byington Jr., vice president of the Illinois Atlantic corporation, declined the WSA offer and in a letter dated Oct. 8 requested immediate restoration of the ship to the company.

On Oct. 31 the corporation without hearing from the WSA was informed that the Colabee was being prepared to load coal from Mobile, Ala., for Italy. On Nov. 19 confirmation was received that the Colabee had cleared from Pensacola, Fla., on Nov. 15 for an Italian port.

Agrees on Condition

Since that date no word has been received regarding the vessel's whereabouts. Last Wednesday, however, Byington received a letter from the WSA, signed by G. H. Helmbold, assistant deputy administrator for ship operations, saying the WSA would consent to the demand for the ship's return providing the Illinois Atlantic corporation agreed to operate the vessel only in United States coastwise trade until March 2, 1946, and waived formal notice of termination of the bare boat charter which the company never signed.

Byington contended that if the company should consent to the WSA demands it could not operate the Colabee in Canadian waters

Byington explained that the WSA is charging $6 a ton for carrying newsprint in government owned Liberty ships from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to New York. Before the war private operators charged below $3.50 a ton for the same service. The Colabee is able to carry 6,000 tons of newsprint and make two round trips a month. Liberty ships can carry 5,300 tons with a frate rate return to the government totaling $31,800 a trip.

STOCKS EXTEND DOWNTURN THO RAILS ADVANCE

Car Orders Revive Carrier Interest

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Selected rails and industrials made moderate recoveries today, but stocks generally extended yesterday's decline. Steels, motors, and many other pivotals fell in the smallest turnover since Oct. 30—1,220,000 shares.

A little bidding was based on revived hopes for the carriers following New York Central's big order for new passenger cars. Earnings, dividend prospects and the urge to employ idle funds persisted as props for individual issues. Additional cashing of profits to take advantage of the present capital gains tax and selling on the belief more of a technical correction of the swing to 15 year highs was necessary lowered most stocks.

Prices improved after a lower opening, but many gains of fractions to a point or more were reduced or canceled.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite dipped 0.1 to 75.9. Of 955 issues appearing, 518 fell, 279 rose, and 158 closed unchanged.

Largest gainers included Milwaukee road common, traded on a when issued basis, which touched a peak at 32, up 1⅜; Dow Chemical, up 4½ on a few sales; Eastern Air Lines, up 4, and Allied Chemical, up 2½.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Railroad bonds rose today and the Associated Press average gained 0.3 to 103.6, highest since 1937. Advances of fractions to 2 points or more were well distributed over the carrier section as other groups lingered in a narrow range. Turnover was $6,590,000, compared with $7,605,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST WEAK

Prices declined again in reduced turnover of 43,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. More active issues, however, made slight recoveries or added to Wednesday's gains. Central and South West Utilities rose 1⅛, and Automatic Washer, Oak Manufacturing, and Chicago corporation each gained ⅛.

Builders Rip Price Rule Plan; Top Too High, Say Women

Delay in Building

Chicago builders yesterday expressed general disapproval of the housing plans announced by President Truman, except for the section providing material priorities for residential building.

[Rigid priorities on building materials may seriously interfere with efforts to relieve the present shortage, the Building Industry Employers of New York State warned yesterday.]

In addition to establishing priorities for single or multiple dwelling housing units costing $10,000 or less per unit, the plans call for ceiling prices on old and new houses.

Most of the Chicago builders said they believe the plans will ease the shortage of homes for veterans but will slow up the building of residences for the general public costing above $10,000, the ceiling set by the President on homes into which the materials are to be channeled.

Disapprove Ceiling Idea

Realtors, however, disapproved of that section of the Truman plan which contemplates a ceiling on sale prices of residences.

Floyd G. Dana, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, said such a plan would do tremendous damage to the real estate market. He said long delays unavoidable to appraise homes before they were sold would kill most sales negotiations.

"Federal control of residential sales will remove the principal incentive to build new homes," he said. "Builders will quit the market if they face ceiling prices on homes they erect.

Long Appraising Delays Seen

"Instead of helping the housing shortage this new directive will make it worse. It certainly won't supply any more materials or homes for people needing living quarters. If the government would let the old law of supply and demand handle the situation things would adjust themselves easily in good season."

Martin C. Huggett, executive secretary, Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders association, said studies recently made by the federal housing administration disclosed it would take at least a year and a half to set up the machinery to appraise all homes sold. By that time there would be such a backlog that it probably would take three months to get a home appraised, he said.

'Won't Help Vet'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—The American Association of University women complained today that most veterans will be unable to afford the homes built under the government's new housing program.

Dr. Kathryn McHale, general director of the association, wrote Reconversion Director Snyder that building materials should be earmarked for homes costing $6,000 or less instead of $10,000 or under as planned.

She referred to channeling of building supplies to home construction under a priorities system to be established in a few days.

"Few Can Pay $50 Rent"

"There appears," Dr. McHale said, "to be no provision guarding against the possibility all materials under priority will be used for houses at the highest price permitted, $10,000."

Quoting from an army survey at separation centers, Dr. McHale said only 5 to 16 per cent of veterans discharged expected to be able to pay as much as $50 a month for rent or house payments.

"The survey concluded," she said, "that virtually all the veterans' need was for houses below $6,000."

In congress, a spot check of the house banking committee showed a number of members believed Mr. Truman already has enough authority to tackle the housing problem without legislation to fix price ceilings. The comm'ttee is considering the administration indorsed Patman bill which provides for ceilings on new and existing houses.

Terms Ceilings Unworkable

Meanwhile, the National Association of Home Builders said it would continue to oppose price ceilings on homes "as unrealistic, unworkable, and a stumbling block to solving the housing problem."

The Veterans of Foreign Wars sent a resolution to congress asking the creation of a special housing administration for veterans.

Omar B. Ketchum, VFW legislative director, said in a statement that "at present it is everybody's, but nobody's job, to relocate the veteran. We want the responsibility pinned down so the work will be done efficiently."

The VFW statement praised "President Truman's swift and drastic action to ease the national housing crisis."

14 COUNTRIES CALLED TO BIG TRADE PARLEY

Seek to Tear Down World Barriers

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—The United States today invited 14 countries to a conference next spring dedicated to the reduction of world trade barriers. The state department said the purpose is to negotiate tariff reductions and "to prepare projects for consideration" at a later general conference on trade and employment tentatively scheduled for next summer.

Countries invited to the discussions, which an official said may be held in Europe, are Russia, France, Britain, China, Australia, Brazil, Canada, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Holland, India, New Zealand, South Africa, and Belgium-Luxembourg.

Empire Preferences on Agenda

Government officials said one major task would be to begin the actual reduction of empire trade preferences—a policy agreed to by the United States and Britain during their recent trade and financial conversations.

The United States will seek reciprocal trade agreements with nations not yet covered by such pacts and to modernize and renegotiate existing agreements.

Notice Will Be Published

"Those invitations have just been sent, and there has not yet been time for any of the countries concerned to reply to them," the announcement said.

The state department emphasized that if and when the nations invited accept "the usual formal notice of intention to negotiate trade agreements will be published" and hearings will be held in the United States to determine what the American offer to these nations should be.

Finland Gets 5 Million Loan to Buy U. S. Cotton

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13 [Special]—The Export-Import bank today announced a loan of 5 million dollars to Finland to finance the export of American cotton to that country.

NEW COMFORTS TO LIVING NEAR, EGLOFF ASSERTS

Better Housing, Health, Transport Expected

Columbus, O., Dec. 13 [Special]—Many "fantastic promises"—made during the war—of large developments in health, food, housing, clothing, communication, and transportation to come in peace time already are being partly fulfilled, and research is bringing others within planning distance, Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research of the Universal Oil Products company, Chicago, said today. He addressed the annual meeting of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

"Results of extensive research indicate that in a few years dwellings will hardly seem real when compared with our present homes," he said. "For temporary quarters, an r'' paper pre-fabricated house has been designed and constructed. In building more permanent quarters the emphasis will be laid on pre-fabricated, low cost houses, which will be thoroly air conditioned and insulated from heat, cold, and noise."

Build in Light Sources

Light sources will be built into walls, ceilings, and furniture to produce soft and luminous radiant effects and reduce eye strain, he predicted.

A fluid technically known as tetracresylsilicate may revolutionize the heating problem, Dr. Egloff said. It can be heated to 800 degrees Fahrenheit without evaporation, or may be cooled to 50 degrees below zero. The substance thus can function as the source of heat for heating the house, cooking, and ironing, and as a refrigerant for food storage and cooling the house in hot weather.

In the realm of transportation, Dr. Egloff said more efficient engines, fuels, and lubricants will make the speed of pre-war transportation "seem like a snail's pace" despite the public's inclination to discount extravagant claims for the future.

Autos Will Be Lighter

In the next 10 years cars will be lighter thru the use of magnesium-aluminum and high strength alloys, plywoods, glass, and plastics, as well as lighter weight durable textiles and rubber foam cushioning. The engine will have lower fuel consumption per mile, and the car will show more over-all efficiency and safety at increased speeds. With improvements in synthetic rubber, tires may give more than 100,000 miles of service and outlast the automobile.

Dr. Egloff said "many years" will pass before atomic energy is harnessed for industrial power, but peace time industry already is deriving benefits from the atomic bomb thru the more than 5,000 new or improved procedures, instruments, or equipment developed in conjunction with the project.

WALKOUTS CUT MIDWEST FARM MACHINE SUPPLY

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 13 [Special]—Strikes are slowing down the supply of needed farm machinery in the midwest, said J. R. Klippenstein of Friend, Neb., new president of the Midwest Implement Dealers' association.

He told the association's convention that labor tieups in plants of the John Deere company, which he represents, have caused shortages in his stocks and that the situation is general. The General Motors strike has stopped the supply of ball bearings for tractors and other farm machinery, he explained.

Often tractors are turned out of the plants without seats, which must be taken from old machinery and attached to the machines. Dealers are receiving smaller amounts of machinery than in the war, he said.

LIGHTER SUPPLY OF HOGS BRINGS CEILING PRICES

The market for nearly all hogs held at ceiling prices yesterday as a result of decreased receipts. Prices averaged $14.80.

Most classes of good and choice beef animals were bought at steady prices, altho a weak to unevenly lower trend prevailed for both heifers and steers that sold below $17. Some were off as much as 25 to 50 cents for the four days.

Lambs dipped mostly 15 cents in another dull session. The "practical top" fell to $14.60, altho a few selected natives reached $14.65.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE STRONG; SHORTS COVER

Short covering and professional buying strengthened grain prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Altho prices shifted rapidly the close was near the top. Oats gained ¾ to 1⅛ cents a bushel. Rye finished unchanged to 1 higher, wheat unchanged to ¾ higher, and barley unchanged to ⅛ higher. Corn was unchanged at ceiling prices.

Oats trading lacked selling pressure and a recovery in the cash market where all sales were at ceiling prices helped the upturn.

Zenith to Show Dealers New Models Next Week

The Zenith Radio corporation will display its new line of radios and radio-phonographs to distributors in a two day convention in the Edgewater Beach hotel, starting Tuesday. The company twice postponed the showing because of production difficulties. H. C. Bonfig, vice president, said the new models have been completely reengineered to include research developments of the last five years. They will include FM models with two FM wave bands for both present frequencies and the higher frequencies assigned for future operation.

LEGAL BETTING A VAIN HOPE, EXPERT SAYS

Crime Writer Assails Political Tie-Up

Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, in a pamphlet made public yesterday, said there is little hope for the success of legalized gambling.

Pointing to past failures in attempts at licensed betting, Peterson said some pretty sharp things about gambling and political alliances in Chicago. He also called attention to increased gathering of criminals and an upswing in their illegal activities in flourishing gambling centers.

A Waste of Time

"Practically all students of the crime problem," Peterson said, "are agreed on the necessity for a strengthening of the police agencies and removing the interference of politics from their administration. Until we are ready to attack this problem and others of comparative importance which are fundamental, a discussion of legalized gambling is actually a waste of time. Licensing of gambling is not, has not, and never will be a substitute for honest, efficient law enforcement. It will never take the place of proper respect for law and order on the part of the citizens."

He termed the gambling history of Chicago a lurid account of gang warfare, murder, widespread racketeering, and political corruption. In the hands of the gangster element, Peterson said, gambling has existed only thru official invariably has resulted in corruption of the law enforcement agencies on which society must depend for protection.

Price Is High

"The 'wide-open town' policy, publicly extolled by so many Chicago mayors and political leaders, has inevitably resulted in alliances between the underworld and officialdom which in turn have made organized gambling a big business in Chicago," Peterson said. "But the price—widespread racketeering, corruption, extortion, gang warfare, and murder—has been high."

Relating some of the numerous deaths attendant on Chicago gambling, the author recalled that Jack Guzik, gambling czar, until recently operated a handbook for 15 years within a few blocks of the Central police station with a minimum of police interference. Policemen who frequented the place, Peterson said, were seen often in other gambling establishments.

Gang Member Partners

He asserted that many precinct captains of the local political machine have operated gambling places, frequently with prominent Capone gang members as partners. Court attaches have been affiliated with the gambling racket, the author said, corruption among law officers has been common, and dangerous gunmen have been immune from arrest because of protection received from gambling leaders.

"Generally," Peterson continued, "when gambling flourishes in any locality, the protection is arranged thru the ward committeeman, the alderman, and the police captain. The political power of the ward, or of the city, whose approval must be secured before an illegal gambling establishment may be operated, may be required to deal with some delegated hoodlum, the precinct captain . . . or with the police captain. In any event, gambling establishments practically never open without having previously arranged for protection from officials capable of affording effective protection. Establishments operating for long periods of time with immunity are those with the strongest political protection. They are usually the most elaborately equipped places with powerful criminal affiliations."

Interested in Effects

After tracing unsuccessful attempts to legalize gambling in other states, the author pointed out that the crime commission is not interested in the moral issues involved, but in the effects on crime and official corruption.

"Any unbiased study of the history of the gambling business makes it impossible for us to ignore certain salient facts," Peterson said. "As a business gambling is entirely parasitic. It is completely nonproductive."

Peterson reported that in 1938 it was estimated that bettors lost a minimum of 1 billion 2 hundred thousand annually to illegal bookies, most of which went to racketeers.

War Writers to Talk in Woodlawn Church

Three war correspondents for the Chicago Defender will speak at the December forum Sunday evening in the Woodlawn A. M. E. church, 65th st. and Evans av. They are Enoc P. Waters, who served in the South Pacific area; Atty. Edward B. Toles, who was in Europe, and Deton J. Brooks, who was in China, Burma, and India. James L. Doherty, veteran Chicago Tribune reporter, will act as master of ceremonies.

Brinks' Head to Lead Urban League Drive

J. D. Allen, president of Brinks, Inc., has accepted the chairmanship of the Chicago Urban league's 1946 financial drive, A. L. Foster, league executive director, reported yesterday. The drive will be launched in January with a goal of $50,000, Foster said.

INSTRUCTION

REFRIGERATION & AIR CONDITIONING.

If you have a mechanical mind, then you have hidden gold. Develop that treasure by training for the excellent opportunities in this field. The refrigeration and air conditioning industry was important as one of the nation's key industries before the war. It played an important part in winning the war and saved thousands of lives. Its place in peacetime world is leadership. Training does not interfere with present job. Previous experience not necessary. Write for full details.
